WILL SAYS HOOVER WON'T TURN SMITH THE OTHER CHEEK

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Al was good in Boston. Shows what he can do, if he can get anybody arguing with him, but Hoover won't make the same mistake and leave another opening.

His next big speech is the very last night before election, and before Al can answer it, the voters will be staggering to the polls voting dry to protect the other follow against liquor.

If Hoover wins the Literary Digest vote, and Smith wins the one on Nov. 6, that would make it a tie and throw the election into congress.

Yours, WILL.

Location of a state game hatching farm in Lawrence county, as announced from Harrisburg, as the decision of the state game commission, is a pleasing one to Lawrence county residents. It will mean much towards restocking of the woods in western Pennsylvania, as well as centralizing activities in this county.

Plans being made for the Hallowe'en celebration in the South Side indicate that a big program will be carried out. The program in the South Side will take place on Tuesday evening, while the uptown celebration will occur Wednesday evening.

Further indications that general industrial conditions are steadily improving is to be noted in the statement from the National Radiator Company plant on the East Side, where additional employes have recently been taken on, and where 400 workmen are now employed on night and day shifts. Business is good at the plant, Superintendent E. L. Brundage reports.

Vote for Hoover and Curtis.

It seems that the headlight ruling has gone with the rest of rulings into oblivion, temporarily at least. Observations for the past week at night, says a downtown business man, show that there are a great number of cars traversing the streets and roads with only one light.

Death Penalty Will Be Asked For Butler Man

Speedy Indictment And Trial To Be Sought For J. Earl Jones

HUNT REVOLVER USED IN KILLING

Death Of Butler Judge May Result In Some Delay In Trial

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 26.—The death penalty will be asked for J. Earl Jones, garage owner, who confessed killing his wife, Nellie Adams Jones, and burning her body in an abandoned log cabin, Charles D. Miller, district attorney for Butler county, stated today.

"We will ask for a speedy indictment and trial," Miller asserted, "and we will ask a verdict sending Jones to the electric chair—and we expect to send him there."

Death of Judge Means Delay

Delay in the proceedings seemed eminent due to the death Wednesday of Judge John R. Henninger, rendering the county court bench vacant. Miller stated, however, that he believes Governor John S. Fisher will act within a week on the appointment of a successor.

Miller stated that Jones will be brought before the grand jury for indictment at the next term of court, which opens the first Monday in December.

Hunt Revolver

Butler, Pa., Oct. 26.—Search for the revolver with which J. Earl Jones, garage owner, has confessed he killed his wife, Nellie Adams Jones, a week ago tonight before he incinerated her body by firing an old log house on the Patterson farm, went forward today. After Jones' confession he told detectives that he had thrown the revolver away near the scene of the fire, but a search of that vicinity has failed to give up the weapon.

While Jones has admitted the murder, the coroner and police have not yet positively established the identity of the victim. Only a few charred bones, a watch and three rings were

Council Acts On Dam Removal

Pass Ordinance To Provide For Removal Of Rosena Dam

BELIEVE MOVE WILL AID FLOOD PREVENTION

Council met in formal session today and adopted Councilman Walter V. Tyler's ordinance which provides for the removal of the Rosena Furnace dam, south of the Neshannock river bridge in South Mill street.

Another ordinance which was adopted provides for the city to pay all necessary dredging expenses, should the waterways commission compel the city to dredge north and south of the location where the new bridge is to cross the river.

It was stated however, in open session by Councilman Reeves, that County Commissioner McCullough had informed him the waterways commission would not force the city to dredge 100 feet north and south of the bridge to be built at Neshannock and Croton avenues.

Councilman Tyler's ordinance which will result in the removal of the dam will eliminate the expense of dredging, it is stated. The ordinance is an enabling measure and it is said the officials of the Carnegie Steel company will approve of the legislation.

Future Of Business Is Extremely Bright Says Chas. M. Schwab

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Business conditions are "fundamentally sound" and the future of business is extremely bright, Charles M. Schwab, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, and other steel magnates declared at a meeting of the Institute today.

"Although we have had several remarkably good business years in this country, fundamental conditions remain sound," said Schwab, addressing the assembled steel men, "and I say with confidence there has been established a foundation upon which there may be built a structure of prosperity far transcending anything we have yet enjoyed."

Heads of the various steel companies of the country present at the meeting expressed the utmost satisfaction with business conditions in the industry except in the matter of prices. It was their unanimous opinion that steel prices should be put on a more profitable basis.

Schwab, for example, decried "uneconomic price-cutting" in the steel trade. He advocated the adoption of a policy of "open steel prices"—open to all customers without preference or discrimination.

He pointed to adverse effects of over-capacity and urged that a stoppage be put to further extensions of capacity. Entering the fourth quarter of the year, he said there is every indication of a sustained demand for steel which would insure a high rate of operations for the balance of the year.

Other steel magnates agreed with Mr. Schwab's estimate of the future of business. James A. Campbell, president of the Youngstown Sheet

YOUNG WOMAN SUICIDES AS WEDDING HOUR NEARS

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—Police attempted to unravel the mystery today surrounding the suicide of Miss Pola Swain, 35, five hours before the time set for her wedding. She was to have married Paul Baird of Pittsburgh in Calvary Protestant church, Germantown, at 8 o'clock, but a short time before she was found dead in her apartment by a negro maid.

A bullet wound was in the right temple while a small pistol was found grasped in the girl's right hand.

Miss Swain left no clues as to her motive for taking her own life. An unaddressed and unsigned note was found near the body. It read:

"Am tired of it all. Too tired to live any longer. Am sorry. Please forgive."

More than two score guests had been invited to the wedding. The guests, the choir and minister gathered at the church for the ceremony when they were informed of the suicide.

A brother, Robert E. Swain of Montclair, N. J., and a sister, Mrs. R. S. Cologne, Garden City, N. Y., declared their sister had no troubles or worry.

Baird, a musician, was reported to have visited the girl yesterday but could not be located today.

Herbert Hoover Will Continue Coolidge Policy

Will Not Recognize Russia Until Debts Of Czarist Government Are Acknowledged

HOOVER PREPARING ST. LOUIS SPEECH

Candidate Works To Keep G. O. P. Organization Going At Top Speed

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The administration of Herbert Hoover, if he is elected president, will continue the Coolidge administration's policy of refusing recognition to the Soviet Republic of Russia, until it has acknowledged debts of the old Czarist government, it was learned today.

Opposes Recognition

The action of the General Electric Company in negotiating a $22,000,000 contract with the Soviets has led to reports that "big business" will seek the resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia in the near future. Friends of the Republican nominee however declared he stood irrevocably opposed to recognition until Russia established a government, which would enable her people to maintain commerce with the rest of the world, and until she acknowledged all outstanding national obligations.

To Continue Policy

"The Coolidge administration has stood against recognition of Russia until her people established a government guaranteeing safety of life, the sanctity of private property and prive contracts and the rights of free labor," said one of Hoover's advisers. Mr. Hoover will continue that policy toward Russia, if he is elected president."

There have been rumors in Washington, since Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, took the stump for Hoover, that the Republican nominee might favor recognition of Russia.

These rumors sprang from the fact that Borah has been the chief proponent of Russian recognition and has been a close adviser of Hoover in the presidential campaign. The nominee's friends however declared Hoover did not share Borah's views toward Russia.

Handled Russian Relief

As early as 1922, Hoover stated his views in no uncertain terms and then he declared against recognition.

The Republican nominee, it was added, has a tremendous store of in-

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The first phase of Governor Al Smith's "Battle for the Atlantic Seaboard" ended today with the Democratic nominee more confident than ever of the triumph of his cause.

The governor came into his native New York today for a brief rest before venturing out again on the conquest of the Seaboard States that mean so much to his candidacy. Former Follies Girl Is Granted Divorce From Lord Northesk

(International News Service)

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Oct. 26.—Lady Northesk, the former Jessica Brown of Buffalo, today was granted a divorce from Lord Northesk by Lord Murray in court session. The divorce was granted on the ground of Lord Northesk's misconduct with an unnamed woman in the Hotel Westminster in Paris in January, 1928.

Tells of Marital Woes

Lady Northesk, a former Follies girl, took the witness stand and told the stories of her marital woes after deserting the stage to marry into the British peerage. Replying to questions from her lawyer, J. S. T. Reid she said she met Lord Northesk in London in 1922. After "several months friendship" he proposed to her, she added, and they were married in Chicago, in July, 1923.

"Our marriage was happy until the end of 1926 when I noticed a change in my husband's attitude towards me," said Lady Northesk. "He began avoiding me and started to come home in the early morning hours. I heard rumors of his conduct with other women. Finally, in 1927, he left me and we have not lived together since then.

Early in 1928 I heard he was staying in Paris with "Countess Northesk," when, as a matter of fact, I was not living with him. I made inquiries and discovered he was staying at the Hotel Westminster with a woman."

Commander Of Zeppelin Calls Off Inland Trip

Weather Conditions Result In Cancellation Of Proposed Tour

ZEPPELIN PREPARES FOR ATLANTIC TRIP

May Start Return Trip To Germany Monday Morning, Says Eckener

(Bulletin)
(International News Service)

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 26.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, announced today that the proposed flight of the dirigible over the Middle West had been cancelled.

Unfavorable weather existed again today and, after studying the maps this morning Dr. Eckener announced a few minutes after 10:30 that the inland trip was definitely off. He made the decision reluctantly as he had hoped to be able to give the people of the Middle West an opportunity to view the huge, silver-bodied air liner which recently made an historical flight from Friendrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst.

Plans Return To Germany

The desire to make the return flight to Germany as soon as possible—probably early next week—was an influencing factor in Dr. Eckener's decision.

A low pressure area over the Great Lakes region resulted in the inland trip being called off at the last minute last night after some of the twenty-one invited passengers and guests were aboard. Everything had been in readiness for the flight, food and personal belongings having been stored in the dirigible.

This morning the passengers were again ready but reports were that the weather was no better and shortly before Dr. Eckener announced that the Middle West flight was off some of the passengers began making arrangements to return to their homes.

May Start Monday

"If the weather is favorable we will start for Germany Monday, provided, of course, that the ship is ready," said Dr. Eckener.

The crew of the Graf Zeppelin, began replacing gasoline with gaseous fuel immediately after Dr. Eckener had called off the Middle West flight.

About fifty hours will be required for the fueling and general preparations of the Graf Zeppelin for the trans-Atlantic flight, Eckener estimated.

Many of the persons who had expected to be guests on the projected mid-western trip had remained at Lakehurst for several days and times were buoyed up at the prospect of the adventure. They were visibly disappointed when the tour was cancelled.

Dr. Eckener expressed regret at having to disappoint them but explained that he plans to make several trips across Europe in the ship before the heavy winter storms set in. Such storms usually begin late in November.

Have you ever looked for your heavy socks, or the coat that you laid away, expecting that it would be useful again on a blustery wintry day. Where your heel would be and your toe would go are nothing but ragged holes, and the overcoat looks like a calendar that's been drilled by a bunch of moles. It's a maddening thing when you find such things and you throw your old garments away, these moth eaten rags that you prized so much, its forty-seven today.

Famous Orient Express In Crash At Bucharest; Many Are Injured

TWENTY-FIVE DEAD ARE ROUMANIANS

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST, Oct. 26.—Thirty-one persons were killed and 47 injured today in a head-on collision of the famous Orient Express and another train at Slatina, 100 miles west of Bucharest. The smash-up, which telescoped two passenger coaches and destroyed a freight car, occurred at two a. m. The dead included 25 Roumanians.

Among the dead is the director of the Ford works in Bucharest.

Others are the Roumanian military attache in Paris and a French journalist named La Coste.

The dead were in a through sleeper for Paris, whose passengers were asleep when the crash occurred.

The task of recovering the bodies and rescuing the injured was carried out under the flickering glare of torches and lanterns. Many of the injured were jammed under piles of wreckage. Some were conscious and their screams of agony and pleas for help could be heard for hours before the workmen reached them.

An investigation into the accident was immediately ordered. The exact cause was unknown, but it was believed due to a switchman's error.

formation about Russia and Russian conditions, gathered during his relief administration days. In all, Hoover handled the expenditure of about $75,000,000 or relief moneys in Russia after the close of the war. He stated at the time the move was purely humanitarian and should not be construed as inviting overtures for recognition.

Hoover spent today at his headquarters, working upon the speech he will deliver in St. Louis Friday night, Nov. 2, and in conferring with party leaders. Until he departs for the west coast, to cast his vote at his California home, Hoover's principal concern will be to keep the Republican organization functioning at top speed. If he can do so, he firmly believes he will be elected president on Tuesday, November sixth.

New Castle and Lawrence county seem to be celebrating Hallowe'en in an exuberant, hectic and complete manner. Every turn finds some one at some sort of masquerade ball; gaily bedecked ladies in romantic finery parade the streets behind sinister black masks; stores have their windows full of pumpkins and corn; and two big civic celebrations and mummers parades have been arranged.

The wet weather meaning simply fall to the city folks, presents a different situation in the lives of many of the people in the county who live several miles from an improved highway. They are literally holed in until spring. Cars have to be stored in most cases and the horse and buggy come back to life. Many of the farmers park their car at some farm on the nearest improved road and then drive to it from their home and make the transfer in the gas wagon to town. These are some of the people who are not lamenting the passing of the "good old times".

Jones waived a hearing on a murder charge and his case will come before the next grand jury. Court routine has been upset by the death of Judge John R. Henninger yesterday, but it is expected a neighboring judge will come into the county to assist in straightening out matters.

Pottery Union Heads Speakers

Address Meeting Held Thursday Night In Moose Home

URGE WORKERS TO REMAIN LOYAL

Meeting in the auditorium of the Moose club on South Mercer street, Thursday evening, the members of the Local 54, union potters of the Shenango Pottery company presented an appeal to the non-members who worked in the plant, to remain loyal through the present labor difficulty and refuse to return to work while the difficulty was still on.

The meeting was in charge of the president of the local, William Haney and was addressed by National President James Duffy and National Organizer Frank Hull.

Speaking of the charges of James M. Smith, president of the Shenango Pottery that he was unreasonable, Duffy said that he would like Mr. Smith to cite specific instances in which any injustice had been worked upon the plant. "At all times," said Mr. Duffy, "I have attempted to act fairly and impartially in every dispute, but we have had many disputes to handle from the Shenango Pottery."

In urging the non-members of the union to remain loyal to the union cause Mr. Duffy said, "why sell your birthright, your character and your reputation?"

Duffy cited several instances in which he alleged Mr. Smith had asked for unfair advantages over his competitors. He said that the present trouble was another indication of this desire.

Frank Hull, National Organizer of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters followed Mr. Duffy and spoke along similar lines. He said that the present tunnel kiln in use had been built by non-union bricklayers and that in the present trouble Mr. Smith was seeking another unfair advantage.

Mr. Hull said that in order to keep peace in the organization that they had allowed a 12 to 14 per cent slash in the wages of the decorating room employes and that on a number of occasions they had compromised with Mr. Smith in order to avoid complications. The present difficulty he said was another unfair request and that the union intended to fight the issue out. He finished by asking the non-members of the union to remain loyal to the organization.

The potters expressed their appreciation of the Loyal Order of Moose in letting them have the use of the auditorium.

WISDOM.

Hoover is a Wise Administrator.

"With the uncanny instinct of the practical engineer for the uses in human material he selects good men, grants them responsibility and authority, inspires them with loyalty—and lets them alone."

Thus a noted writer explains the fact that Hoover is able to turn his brilliant visions into practical results.

GOVERNOR SMITH SPEAKS SATURDAY IN PHILADELPHIA

days hence, notwithstanding that no Democrat has ever carried it for the presidency.

Only once in modern political history has Pennsylvania strayed from the pat of normal Republicanism. That was in 1912, the year of Republican schism. Even then Wilson lost the state to Roosevelt.

But Al Smith thinks he is going to carry Pennsylvania with its 38 electoral votes. His confidence amazes even his intimates.

Governor Smith reached New York at midnight in a satisfied frame of mind.

Warmly Received

He was glowing from the warmth of the receptions accorded him all of yesterday through Rhode Island and Connecticut. Certainly no Democratic, and few, if any, Republican candidates for the presidency, ever received the acclaim that was given Governor Smith in New England yesterday.

From Boston to New York, through the Blackstone River Valley of Rhode Island and the industrial cities of Connecticut, enormous crowds greeted him at every stop, and seemed to vie each other with the fervor of their receptions.

The final week of the campaign has been pretty well mapped out so far as Governor Smith himself is concerned. Tomorrow night he speaks in Philadelphia. He will stay in Philadelphia Saturday night and attend church Sunday morning. He probably will spend Sunday night at the country home of his national chairman, John J. Raskob, in Maryland, before proceeding into Baltimore Monday for a night speech. He will return to New York Tuesday, speak in Newark, N. J., on Wednesday night, and close the campaign with speeches in Brooklyn and New York Friday and Saturday night respectively.

The night preceding election, Monday, probably will see Governor Smith on his usual pilgrimage to Oliver street, on the lower East Side of New York, where he was born and where he lived for so many years.

The Democratic candidate for Governor of New York has about lost the use of his legs; but when a fight is coming, a Roosevelt doesn't need legs much, anyway.

LOCAL ENGINEER ACCIDENT VICTIM

sylvania. Mr. Cunningham had just completed his run, on the Akron-New York passenger train, his run being known as 1639 and 1638.

It was sometime around 3 a. m. when, having completed his run, at the Allegheny engine house, he got on the engine, in charge of John Popham, as he had often done, to ride over to the union station and take the passenger train, of which Mr. Popham is the engineer, to Lawrence Junction, dead heading home until his run required his services again.

As the engine was being run into the Union Station train shed to hook up with its train, apparently Mr. Cunningham got off the engine to go back to the coaches. Just how he met his death is not known, his terrible mangled body being found later. His body was removed to a morgue, while an investigation was started at once.

Mr. Cunningham had been a resident of the Seventh ward for twenty years and an engineer on the Erie and Ashtabula Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad for twenty-five years, being one of the best known railroad men of this district.

He was a member of Mahoning Lodge No. 243 F. and A. M., the New Castle Consistory; the B. P. O. Elks of this city and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, Mrs. Bessie Anderson Cunningham, one daughter Phyllis and one son Joseph, also one brother, W. M. Cunningham of New Brighton, and three sisters, Mrs. J. M. Hughes and Mrs. E. S. Syling, both of New Castle, and Miss Elizabeth Cunningham of St. Petersburg, Florida.

FOR PRESIDENT
HERBERT C. HOOVER, of California

FOR VICE PRESIDENT
CHARLES CURTIS, of Kansas

HUGHES ON HOOVER AND ISSUES

THE devastating logic of former Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes in his St. Joseph speech advocating the election of Herbert Hoover as president was emphasized by the praise he freely gave to Alfred E. Smith some years ago. "But while Smith has been working at Albany," said Mr. Hughes, "Hoover has been working in Washington. In his knowledge of the problems of the nation Hoover starts years ahead. If Smith were elected it would take him years to learn what Hoover knows now."

Farm relief "is not a matter for political quackery. The farmers will have nothing to gain from that but disappointments and more misery." He believes that Hoover will solve the problem.

We need economy in administration. "We have had it in an extraordinary degree. No derision or blustering misstatements can alter the fact. If any one can buttress our prosperity and extend it, that one is Herbert Hoover."

The prohibition issue is a "sham battle. No scientific definition of intoxicating liquor can be framed which will permit intoxicating liquors to be made and sold in this country contrary to the constitution. There is nothing within the limits of any possible valid definition which would satisfy the demands of the wets. That is the actual situation and no amount of talk will change it."

The paramount consideration in domestic affairs is the prosperity of the country. "The chief effort of our opponents is to make it clear that they intend no harm. We cannot afford to commit the policy of protection to a party that has always opposed it."

That is the sort of argument which scores a bull's eye in every sentence. It requires more than wise cracks for answer, for it is the honest, balanced judgement of one of the nation's keenest minds.

SAVING THE TREES

REFORESTATION and forest conservation are subjects of world-wide appeal just now. Only those lands where the devastating effect of the woodsman's ax has not been felt are not actively engaged in saving and planting trees.

The Southern Pine Association is utilizing motion pictures, graphically showing the dangers and losses from forest fires, in a campaign of education through the southern pine belt. Civic organizations, schools and other groups are co-operating in this organized move to curb further wholesale denuding of the wooded sections of the South.

Even Mexico has become tree conscious. The secretary of agriculture in Mexico City is planning to plant two million trees of various species where the virgin timber has been cut away. Mexico will experiment with "crop" or "harvest" tree cultivation, which permits reforestation to pay for itself and makes it possible for man to enjoy the benefits of forest, and an unlimited lumber supply at the same time.

This "backward" nation below the Rio Grande is not making the mistake made by its neighbor to the north of waiting until it was threatened with absolute deforestation before undertaking reforestation and conservation on an effective scale.

NO RED GRANGES IN FALL CROP

ANOTHER football season is well on its way without producing a Red Grange. Several players have starred for their respective teams and there will be, in the crop of outstanding players, enough for an All-American eleven. But there is in the lot not one who needs a business manager and publicity director to prepare the way for him.

There have been few Granges in all the history of football. As a player he, doubtlessly, was excelled by none and equalled by few. But his career stands unique in the annals of the sport.

When Grange left college before his graduation, in order to make the most, in a financial way, of his popularity and fame, many lovers of the great collegiate and scholastic sport were sorry. They felt that he had cheapened the sport and hurt himself. Though professional football proved an Aladdin's lamp for him, the public looks upon the brevity of his professional career as confirmation of its early fears and predictions.

Players of the Grange caliber are wanted in collegiate football, but when they drop out of college immediately after the close of the collegiate football season to enter professional sport they place upon the college game the stigma of commercialism and professionalism. The public likes to feel that college football is an amateur sport and that those who participate in it are not in school for that purpose alone.

Too many roads are paved with good intentions and nothing more.

France has halt a million men under arms and much interest under cover.

An optimist is one who believes he will be able to get over to the bank with a deposit faster than you can get there with his check.

Today

Hughes and Hoover.
Two Thankful Men.
Happy, Busy Wall St.
Curing an Atheist.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Ex-Governor Hughes knows how to make a political speech. He begins by praising Governor Smith, whom he opposes, then makes a point concerning Mr. Hoover's availability that Mr. Hoover's friends will emphasize if they are wise.

Mr. Hughes hopes that prosperity will last, and by the way, it will, but, says he, "if any difficult situation should arise the one man who more than anyone else could be depended upon to bring the widest knowledge and the greatest resourcefulness to the devising of means to meet the emergency would be Herbert Hoover. It wouldn't be necessary for him to appoint a commission. He doubtless would seek the widest co-operation and the best counsel. But he himself would be about as good a commission as he could get already organized and in action."

That kind of statement makes votes.

President Coolidge, selecting Thursday, November 29th, a national day for Thanksgiving, expresses grateful recognition to "the giver of all goods", mentions the fact that "tranquility reigns throughout the land," our country is protected "as a whole" against pestilence and disaster. "Our fields have been abundantly productive, our industries have flourished, our commerce has increased, wages have been lucrative, and contentment has followed the undisturbed pursuit of honest toil."

That proclamation is as near to a political speech as President Coolidge has come in this campaign.

On November 29th, two men should be grateful—Hoover and Smith. One will be grateful for the chance to show what he can do as a President, the other will, or ought to be, grateful that the heavy responsibility has passed him by.

Happy, busy day in Wall Street Wednesday. Oil stocks were strong, and copper stocks stronger. The public bought more than 4,500,000 shares.

High finance doesn't seem much disturbed by the kind of "state socialism" attributed to Governor Smith by Mr. Hoover.

United States Steel went higher than it ever had been; General Electric reported bigger earnings than ever, and so on and so forth. Poor bears, they might as well turn bull and be done with it.

Charles Smith, president of the American Association for the advancement of atheism, locked up in Arkansas for insulting the deity started a hunger strike and lost 11 pounds while gaining a week's beard. He won't eat until after election.

This fasting may cure Mr. Smith of several things, including atheism. When he finds what his body can stand he will doubtless say with the good book: "I will praise the Lord, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made."

Arkansas, by the way, never voted to forbid Darwin's evolution theory. The idea was suggested, but beaten. Arkansas never copies other states, it originates.

Dorothy Dix, able newspaper woman, returns from a visit to the Syrian desert, which she crossed from Damascus to Bagdad.

Miss Dix went to the desert too late. She found sheiks riding on Ford cars instead of prancing Arab horses and wearing clothes cut out 10,000 suits at a time in Chicago, Rochester or some other American city.

A British citizen, over a powerful radio owned by the government, sent a message addressed to a lady living on Mars, never nearer this earth than 40,000,000 miles.

The usual fee was charged, and lo and behold, after the prepaid message was started on its 18,700-meter wave, a strange message come back through the loud speaker, "giving dots and dashes quite clearly without interruption." Martians know that we can't understand their language. In all probability they had nothing to do with those "dots and dashes", but it is interesting.

In connection with dots and dashes it is well to remember that several members of Congress were once beaten for re-election because "they were fools enough to vote public money for an impossible contraption called the telegraph that would send messages over a wire." The "contraption" now works, even without wires.

The National City Bank, richest private institution in the world, will interest itself to the extent of $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 in airplane development.

And Mr. Mitchell, head of the National City, shows wisdom in encouraging a flying organization of Seattle. That energetic city of the Northwest, close to Asia, has good reasons for developing aviation and is doing it.

When will the big General Motors Company begin airplane manufacture? Mr. Sloan knows that his giant company will be making airplanes sooner or later, why not now?

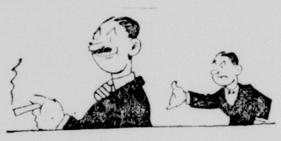
Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 5:05. Sun rises tomorrow 6:24.

We pray for things that would not benefit us and are often fortunate that God does not hear us.

We have noticed where there have been several meetings of the representatives of the north and south in the north and in some cases there has been opposition to some projects on account of it affecting the Democratic party. Even church folks are serious about their politics and will not let anything interfere with it. There is still a north and south when it comes to politics. And the south is Democratic.



Whom the gods would destroy, they first persuade to believe himself a wow with the ladies.

After we see the way some institutions and places of business are conducted we never are surprised when we hear of them being a failure.

AND AFTER THAT

If you see a man skilled in his business,
He shall stand in the presence of kings,
And not in the presence of obscure men.
Set in order your work without,
Prepare for your work in the field,
And after that build your house.

At the Pennsylvania College for Women the girls are being taught how to repair their automobiles. Well that is at least one thing they will learn that will come in handy later.

The word "Rotten" must have originated after the author had seen a lot of shows.

A New Jersey man in his application for a divorce from his wife declares he was married in 1914 and that was the last peaceful day he has had since. His wife would not let him sleep in her room and when he slept in his room she pounded the door and yelled at him all night. She also hid his pants so he could not leave the house. After all she might love him at that.

Carl Shaner the genial manager of Cascade park has just returned home from a visit to his folks in Virginia. He looks fine and has been eating chicken, waffles and Virginia ham for some weeks with the home folks. Mrs. Shaner also enjoyed the trip. He sent us one of those famous Virginia hams while he was down there and when he came home he brought us a basket of those great Shenandoah apples. It seemed like Christmas time to us.

A prohibition agent was shot in the back in a Chicago court while the court room was crowded and not a soul in the room could tell who fired the shot. We are betting that crowd was not all dry.

The aviators, both male and female get into about as much matrimonial trouble as do the actors and actresses. This naturally comes about by the association of married people with one another but who are not married to each other. We believe we would get into trouble ourselves if we were to be an aviator or an actor, which glory be we will never be at this late date.

We have just as big a surprise to hear of some saying he is for Smith as we do when we hear some one declare he is for Hoover. We sort of don't expect it from either.

The maddest man in New Castle one day recently was a hardware dealer. He received a telephone call to deliver a gross of steel saws to a certain address. When he arrived he found it was the jail.

The West Virginia W. C. T. U. voted to take no stand either for or against either of the principal political parties during the present campaign because it might cause feeling in the organization. There are people who will claim that mighty sensible. We know of a case where we suffered some politically on account of some uncalled for political activity.

New York is laughing over how an artist got even with a prominent millionaire who, having sat for a crayon drawing of himself, was so dissatisfied with the result that he refused to pay for it.

"I does not bear the slightest resemblance to me," he said, "and I will not take it." The artist protested, but to no avail.

"All right, sir," he remarked finally; "if it is not at all like you, of course I can't reasonably expect to get paid for it." After the gentleman had left the artist added to the portrait a magnificent pair of ass' ears, and exhibited it to the gaze of the curious public. It had not long been so exposed when the gentleman broke into the artist's studio in a towering rage, and finding that threats availed him nothing, at last offered to buy it at a considerable advance over the original price.

"It was not strange that you failed to recognize your resemblance to the picture at first," said the artist, determined to be revenged for the slight put upon his work. "But I knew you would notice the likeness as soon as I added those ears."

COLLEGE EDUCATION

There has always been a vast amount of discussion concerning the value of a College or University education. Dr. E. W. Kemmerer is the Professor of Economics at Princeton University. He is especially qualified to speak with authority on the subject. He recently made the following statement:

"The ability of the non-college man to succeed in life, as compared with the rapid rise of college men, has been computed at 1 to 196. A careful survey has been made of 'Who's Who in America' and other directories and there even more startling facts are revealed."

"The highest honor men in college have a 50-50 chance of great success. One concern in New York City has placed a request with me for two men each year to enter the banking business. They want men of brains and personality but qualify the request by saying that the men must be from the highest in scholastic standings in their class."

A great and useful General Manager of the United States Steel Corporation once said in response to a compliment given him for his ability as a steel man, "Yes, thank you, what you say may be true, but if I had had the advantage of a University technical training, I would have accomplished much more than I have accomplished."

Science Romance And Adventure All Factors In Byrd Expedition

Newspaper Comment Recognizes Importance Of Journey Into The Antarctic By Notable Group Led By Naval Officer

Romantic and adventurous as is the Byrd expedition to the South Pole, these features, for all enthralling interest, must not be allowed to obscure the fact that it is a pilgrimage in the interest of science. This is the consensus of American press opinion, as the whaler Larsen ploughs through the waters of the Pacific on its long voyage.

Appreciation of the scale on which the enterprise has been undertaken is expressed by the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR with the statement that "from the first the plans have been drawn with an eye to detail never approached by any other expeditions of discovery."

"Surrounded though this group may be by the glamour of an adventurous quest, they seek in the Antarctic ice exactly the same element that many a prosaic scholar toils after in the laboratory or the study—truth," says the NEW YORK SUN, holding that "knowledge wrested from the ice will be doubly welcome, as it testifies to the gallantry of those who won it and to the more fundamental virtue of seeking it wherescever it is to be found."

Similarly, the NASHVILLE BANNER declares: "It should be emphasized that there is nothing foolhardy about Commander Byrd's plans. It is a scientific expedition first and an adventure second." The DULUTH HERALD adds in th same vein: "This man who made a dash to the North Pole and who flew across the Atlantic to Europe is not now making a 'dash' to the South Pole. He will fly to the pole, no doubt; but more important than that are his plans to study the Antarctic wastes and bring back to us news of what it has to reveal of its composition, of its weather, of its biology and botany and of its mineralogy and geography."

"The South Pole is the last challenge to the explorer," exclaims the MANCHESTER UNION, and concludes that "man would never rest until that challenge was accepted." The TOLEDO BLADE finds "something strikingly appropriate, whether intended or not, in fixing the date of departure on the anniversary of the discovery of America by Columbus."

To the WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE, the expressed sentiments of Americans as they have said farewell to Commander Byrd and his companions have had in them not a little of "awe" as they have tried to grasp the magnitude of the preparations for the expedition and the results that it is hoped will be attained. Calling attention to the fact that "the whaler, C. A. Larsen, with the commander on board, is the third ship of the exploring party," the barz, City of New York, and the steamer, Eleanor Bolling, supply ships of the expedition, having "long been at sea," the Worcester paper continues: "Commander Byrd has marshaled a fleet to assault the ice-bound fastness of the South Pole."

Paying a tribute to the foresight of Commander Byrd, the ST. LOUIS TIMES notes that "no preparation previously made for a polar expedition has been half as thorough as that of this one," and thinks that, if this is worth anything, "Byrd should be able to fly home on exultant wings."

The length of time that the leader and his band of fellow scientists will spend in the South is considered further evidence of the serious nature of the undertaking. "It may be eighteen months—it may be three years—before the party returns," says the PASADENA STAR-NEWS, and to those "who may question the value and importance of an expedition like this," The Star-News replies: "There should be no such questioning. The expedition and the daring adventures are justified. The additions that will be made by this expedition to the sum total of human knowledge of science will more than compensate the time, the perils and the cost of the impulse to explore should not be repressed," it concludes.

Describing the terrifying barrenness of the Antarctic regions, the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE reaches the conclusion: "Perhaps, after all, it is not right to call Antarctic journeying adventure. The word carries a tincture of gayety, and it is hard to picture anything gay about traveling over the dour Antarctic," declares The Chronicle, as it describes the expedition as "just a job that Byrd has gone to do, a hard, bitter and uncomfortable job," with "the only gayety that in his own heart."

In this "job" he will have plenty of company, according to the FLINT DAILY JOURNAL, which points out that "the party consists of 83 men. They are scientists, radio men, dog drivers, correspondents, cooks and a doctor," continues The Journal, and everyone among them "must be prepared to do more than one thing."

And not only plenty of company, but an ample equipment to meet his every need, both of subsistence and of research, is his, due to the generosity of his compatriots. As the BIRMINGHAM NEWS says, enumerating briefly this equipment, the ships are carrying to the Antarctic "food supplies sufficient to last two full years, airplanes, scientific instruments, bedding and stores, even portable huts to be set up on South Polar ice when the Ross sea shall have been reached."

Best of all, perhaps for both those who are adventuring forth and their loved ones at home, there is, as the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE remarks, a "wonderful radio equipment included in the three ships," arranged for "reception as well as broadcasting," and with the "schedule for the next four months already announced." Not, as in previous expedition, will the party disappear from the knowledge of its fellow men, but, as The Gazette emphasizes, "every step of the way will be recorded and reported by wireless to the anxious hearts at home and to the listening public as well, and whatever occurs at home or in the world at large, which will be of interest to the explorers, will reach them almost as quickly as it does the rest of us."

Hearing of this, one wonders if radio has ever done a better service than this of connecting civilization with a brave band of men on the "vast ice cap," as the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS expresses it.

DEAD SPOTS

Said Poor Richard, holding a little dialogue with himself:

"Who is wise?"
"He that learns from every one.
"Who is powerful?
"He that governs his passions.
"Who is rich?
"He that is content.
"Who is that?
"Nobody."

So lets give it up! We will be happier if we do. Let's give up seeking the perfect men.

The philosopher-slave of the Roman age, Epictetus, wrote: "To look for the fig in winter is the madman's act."

Looking for faultless humans is searching for winter figs.

We are not intended to be perfect—yet.

We are intended to grow. That is what you are here for. That is what all the others are here for.

Imperfection is everywhere — the dead point in the turn of the wheel, the blind spot in the human eye, "dead spots" on the face of the earth where radios refuse to function.

And especially in the characters of men, imperfections great and small. "Man partly is and wholly hopes to be."

Let it go at that. Cease the endless disappointments caused by seeking the winter figs of human perfection.

As Professor Potter observes, this world is not a completed orchestra playing endless harmonies.

It is a piano factory where pounding, sawing, odds and ends, shavings and sawdust fill the room.

It is a place of preparation, but out of it in the end will come music.

If you conceive of this world as finished, you are surprised and continually saddened by seeing imperfections in those around you. It puts your attention upon the failures.

If you think of it as a place of growth, you have your eye alert to see the unfolding buds of character and you tend to judge men on the far sounder basis of their development rather than upon their attainment alone.

When a building is in the process of erection there is much confusion of saws and hammers and much scaffolding. One who would judge the building while it is going up is a poor judge. When a tree is growing the apples are hard and bitter. A pessimist is one who tastes the growing fruit and says that all fruit is bad.

To test the value of a thing you need not only to know what it is but what it is going to be.

A mother loves her child not because of what the child is but what it gives promise to become.

To judge anything in this world that is alive without taking into account the factor of growth is to arrive at erroneous conclusions.

BEHIND THE THRONE

Mrs. Brown was seldom seen,
Mr. Brown was widely known,
He the active one had been
He it was who held the throne.

Mr. Brown had come to fame,
Rising from the lower rank,
People often heard his name,
He was chairman of his bank.

Life is strange and fate is queer,
None can run man's story down,
But for Mr. Brown's career
Praise must go to Mrs. Brown.

She it was who dreamed and planned,
She it was who kept him true,
She it was who held his hand
To the work he had to do.

No one ever guessed the power
Lurking in her smiling eyes,
No one knew that many an hour
It was she who had been wise.

Strange the tricks and turns of life,
Take the case of Mr. Brown,
Had he picked a different wife,
He had never gained renown.

If there is a moral here,
In this final verse it lies,
Man who seeks a great career
Needs a patient wife and wise.

Guesswork By Doctors Hit In Research Talk

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 26. — Medical research workers may well study the fundamentals of the success of Henry Ford and strive for standardization of medicine to take the guess work out of healing, Dr. Preston Reed Hubbell, Detroit, declared here in an address before physicians from all parts of the country at the fifth annual convention of the American Electronic Research Association.

"Mr. Ford is probably the greatest exponent of standardization in the industrial world," Dr. Hubbell said, "and while the task of standardizing medicine is quite different from standarding an automoble yet the fundamentals are the same in all fields.

"The laws of healing require that all parts of the body must be harmony. There are various modalities of treatment which will produce this harmony. The first step is to know the law, then use the modality which will produce the harmony. Heretofore all schools of medicine have been discussing modalities of treatment but not fundamental laws."

Surgery Standardized

Surgery has been standardized, Dr. Hubbell said, but surgery does not cure disease; it merely cuts out the results of disease. Promiscuous surgery was condemned by the speaker, who declared that full 75 per cent of the operations performed today are unnecessary and simply wound the body.

A man is as old as his glands and just as a storage battery may be recharged and maintained at a high point of efficiency and long life, so can the gland and body of man be charged with new vigor, Dr. A. J. Molyneux of Jersey City, N. J., told the convention.

The use of radiant energy is not the only treatment, but the diagnosis of disease, is rapidly spreading in the medical world, Dr. Molyneux said. The treament of rickets with sunlight is simply a more common form of radiant energy. He expressed the belief that when the technique of harnessing and applying radiant energy has been developed to a point of absolute accuracy, the necessity for surgery will dwindle to a minimum and that diagnosis and treatment of disease will be quick and sure.

Eating Proper Food

Dr. Claire D. Knox, Chicago, declared that the individual is what he eats and that a large percentage of the cases of illness are due to poorly combined foods. Few persons eat the proper foods Dr. Knox asserted.

One common error is the combination of two or more starches at one meal, the doctor stated. There should be no such mixture as bread and potatoes, bread and beans, beans and potatoes, cereals and bananas, oatmeal and toast and such other similar combinations, Dr. Knox said. An abundance of fruits and non-starchy vegetables was recommended by the speaker.

ONE "MISSING" GIRL RETURNED TO HOME

GREENVILLE, Pa., Oct. 26.—The return by her parents of Ida Fry, 13, who had been missing for a month with Lucille Bailey, 14, gave local authorities a clue that the Bailey girl may be found in Rochester, N. Y. Both girls left here for excitement over four weeks ago, and found employment in a boarding house in Buffalo. Several days ago, the Fry girl declares, Lucille Bailey called her on the telephone, saying she was going on to Rochester for a job. Since that time she has not been heard from by her companion or her parents here.

The Fry girl was brought home by her parents, who were notified that she was being detained in Buffalo.

Fletcher Writes Of Great Times At U. S. Hospital

Local Man Confined To Arkansas Hospital Sends Message Home

A letter from James A. (Jimmie) Fletcher of Cedar street, Mahoningtown, but who is now confined to the Army and Navy hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., has been received by Pat J. Dempsey of this city.

Mr. Dempsey, who is a close friend of Mr. Fletcher, states that in his writing Fletcher tells of how he is enjoying his stay there. He is in the same hospital that Mr. Dempsey was confined to for some time.

Pennsylvania American Legion Commander E. E. Hollenbach with his staff, stopped off to visit him and other boys there while on their way to the national American Legion convention in Texas. He says they had a wonderful time and his experiences there make him feel doubly proud that he comes from Pennsylvania and that he is a member of the American Legion.

On their way back from the Texas convention, members of the Allentown legion band made a visit to the hospital and entertained them.

Fletcher is well known in this county.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

OFF TO SEEK THEIR FORTUNE

"By and by the neighbors complained. And at last Father Ibis made up his mind to stand it no longer. He called the four brothers before him. Said he:

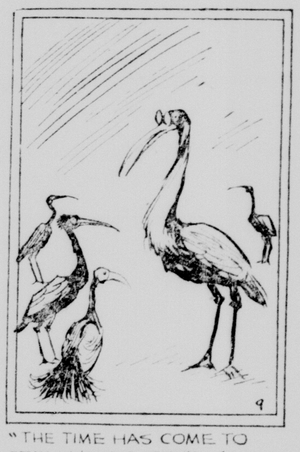
"'The time has come, my sons, when you must leave the old homestead and go into the wide world to seek your fortunes. I would have sheltered you here as long as you would stay, but you cannot agree.

"'The brother with the white coat envies the green and purple suit of another. 'Oh, if my feathers were only red!' sighs a third, and the golden collar of the fourth makes the other three mad with envy.

"'Your constant fighting is making your mother nervous and your sisters miserable, and I found the first gray feather in my head this morning. You are not happy home and you must leave and go somewhere where you will be. You are all old enough to start homes of your own. I was no older than you when I married your mother. So farewell, my sons. Good luck go with you."

"The four sons knew that their father was right, and so off they flew to seek their fortunes.

"'Goodby, boys!" cried the sisters.



"THE TIME HAS COME TO SEEK YOUR FORTUNE."

"Fortune guide your wings!" called the neighbors, and only their mother wept to see them go.

"'The four brothers started off together, and deep down in his heart although he would not have said so for the world, each brother wished that he had not been so cross to the other three. At last they came to a place where two roads crossed. In which direction should they fly? A great tree grew by the cross roads and upon this they alighted to discuss the matter.

"'For my part, I can't see the sense in changing our course,' declared the brother with the snow white coat. 'We are making good time as it is flying with the wind; why should we turn aside so early?'

"'That sounds exactly like you brother,' snapped the fellow in purple and green. 'Always choosing the easiest way! I prefer to try my strength and go a way that looks the most interesting. I shall follow the path that leads to the right.'

"'I agree with you in what you have said about White Coat,' remarked the brother with the golden collar, 'but I don't understand why you should wish to fly to the right. That direction does not appeal to me at all. I am going to follow the path to the left. See how bright and blue is the sky over that way. You had better change your mind, Purple and Green, and come with me.'

"'Indeed, I'll do nothing of the sort,' cried the brother so addressed. 'I have a mind of my own as well as you have and I intend to use it. Fly in whatever way you please, for all of me. You need not think just because you own that collar of straws that you can lead me about by the tail. How about you, little brother with the red feathers, are you coming with me or will you fly with Golden-Collar?'"

RICHMAN'S CLOTHES

Established 1879

MEN who know clothing best marvel most at Richman value — they know that clothes so faultlessly styled, so rich in quality of materials, so beautifully tailored, cannot be sold at wholesale, ordinarily, for our direct-from-factory retail price. We not only save you the middleman's profit, but we give you the extra quality and the added economies made possible by our immense sales and production — the finest of pure wool fabrics, procured at lowest prices because we buy over 4,000,000 yards yearly for spot cash; tailoring that would be very costly except for clever machines and the skilled hands of loyal workers who own a $6,000,000.00 interest in this business.

Suits

Correctly styled single and double-breasted models in a great variety of fine fabrics, including the desired new shades of brown, gray and blue — silk decorated worsteds and cassimeres of softly finished, wear resisting texture; rugged twists in colorful mixtures; sturdy cheviots in conservative shades. Any man can readily find what he likes best in his correct size.

Topcoats

New box and Raglan models in fabrics you see more often at $50 than less — in fact, you are not likely to find better looking, longer wearing topcoats at any price. Double shrunk and weather-proofed for rainy day service — lined with genuine Skinner satin — tailored with unusual care in our own shops. All sizes and proportions in the widest possible choice of new patterns and shades.

New Air Transport Line In Formation

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Formation of another trans-continental air transport line around a prominent airplane manufacturing company as a nucleus and backed by strong financial interests is announced.

Pacific coast capital is behind a move to expand and develop the Fokker Aircraft Corporation. The development is in the form of a combine of a west coast airline, a middle-west system and the Fokker company.

Harris M. Hansue, president of Western Air Express, will be president and general manager of the new company. Officials of Universal Air Lines, operating in the middle west, will also be interested and be in charge of designing planes for the line.

Speedy Service Planned

A 39-hour air-rail line from coast to coast is planned, probably with through air service from the Pacific to the Mississippi river. Passengers will be taken from and delivered to any eastern railroad of their choice. St. Louis probably will be the eastern air terminus of the line. The new line will be in competition with Transcontinental Air Transport of which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is technical advisor.

The new company will build a headquarters factory in California to operate in conjunction with existing Fokker plants at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., and Wheeling, W. Va.

James A. Talbot, president of the Richfield Oil company of California will be chairman of board of the new company and directors will include John A. Love, St. Louis banker; William Wilson, Wheeling attorney; Thomas H. Gregory of San Francisco, J. Brooks Parker of Philadelphia, and L. H. Piper of Minneapolis, president of Universal Air Lines.

MORE CONVENIENT.

ASTRONOMICAL MYSTERY.

The stellar universe has a background of pearly white which always finds the field of a telescope with a faint luminosity, and astronomers are guessing as to whether this shimmering shroud is made of quadrillions of suns or whether the universe is immersed in nebulous matter. The pearl veil is torn in places at least a hundred jet-black wells of dark space being shown in the constellation Sagittarius and Scorpio. In one of these dark fields is Antares which is computed to be at a vast distance from the earth and to have 88,000 times the mass of our sun.

For a hundred different things to eat • Just a dash of this rich spicy goodness on your steaks, chops, cold cuts, fish. That's all you need to bring out all the flavor—togive new zest to a hundred different good things to eat.

Heinz Tomato Ketchup is all flavor—all thick, slow-pouring richness—just what ketchup should be. No dilution—nothing but the simmered-down essence of ripe, juicy, garden-fresh tomatoes. And the spices used are brought from the Orient where they are personally selected by Heinz representatives.

The fact that Heinz is the largest selling ketchup in the world, regardless of price, proves it's good. Put several bottles on your pantry shelf in readiness for the fall. At your grocer's.

Libel Suit Filed By Texas Guinan

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 26.—Texas Guinan today filed a $25,000 libel suit against the West Coast Theatres Corporation.

She took exception to an interview credited to an official of the company, in which she was criticized for not making scheduled appearances at a local theater. The interview she asserted intimated that she was not ill, as she had declared.

This is the fourth legal action involving the New York padlock queen to be filed here within the past few weeks.

It seems to us that the term "common cold" is a misnomer. To the man who has one it's always extraordinary.

The man whose memory runs back to a fall more pleasant than this has lived longer than we have.

Drunkenness In New Castle Is Decreasing Says Chief Horner

"If we had a big pen where we could keep about 50 or 60 men, habitual drunks, and repeaters at police court, I am sure that there would be very few arrests for drunkeness in New Castle" is the opinion of Chief of Police C. C. Horner in regards to the local situation at the present time.

"Yes," the police chief continues, "it is the same group of men who make most of the work for the officers. They are no longer out of jail until they are in again. And if as I have said before, we had a big pen and could keep these men in it, there would be but few arrests."

Although at morning court there are always two or three drunks, yet Chief Horner, who has seen many things while serving on the force, believes that there are fewer arrests for drunkeness now than in any other time in the history of New Castle.

"Twenty-five years ago" mused Chief Horner, "there was hardly a night passed but what we did not have at least a dozen men in the cells. And over the week ends it was terrible. Why I can remember that only a few years before the national prohibition act came into effect it was a common thing for us almost 70 drunks hailed into the cells over a week end. Now the biggest night in the history of the present force came Saturday August 11 when the raiding squads made 49 arrests."

And so times have changed and prohibition has made the work of the New Castle police force considerably lighter, asserts Chief Horner.

United States Lags In Airport Building

United States Has Not Single Airport To Compare With European Cities

Air Mail Lines In This Country Not Yet Efficient, Shown By Survey

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—The United States has not a single airport that compares with those of even the smallest cities of Europe, according to a survey completed by the department of commerce. The results were announced Thursday.

The statement characterized sightseeing flights as "often carried on in a haphazard and dangerous manner," and criticized delays in the airmail frequently resulting in letters arriving later by that method than ordinary service.

Despite the progress made in commercial aeronautics in the last few years this country is very far from having reached the degree of air transport development common to the countries of Europe.

Chicago is Active.

Results of the survey emphasize "the small extent to which even the leading commercial firms, national and international, make use of the air mail." However, now that the rate has been made five cents for the first ounce a large increase was anticipated.

"There is an unfortunate habit of boasting of the greatest and finest airports in the world, with practically nothing to show," the aeronautics division of the department said.

"Chicago is taking steps toward the establishment of a real airport on the lake front.

It proposes to raise the sum of $5,000,000 by bond issue. Similar bond issues are under consideration in St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita and other cities.

It is hoped that these will be carried, for it is of utmost importance that our airport development should be on a substantial scale with a view to the futunre."

Accidents Are Few.

The department found that fatalities in normal air travel over established air routes in licensed planes in charge of licensed pilots are "few and far between."

Officials declared the chief difficulty of the air mail arises out of the many connecting lines which involve a considerable rehandling and sorting of mail. It stated that as yet "poor provision has been made for an increase in mail traffic and the quick resorting of mail from different points".

"Everywhere at the chief junction points, considerable time is lost in waiting for the mail," said the department. "It seems rather a mistake to let the eastern mail from Chicago for the seaboard cities wait five or six hours for the late western mail, with the result that both mails wil arrive late. It would seem better to provide emergency planes in the event of unusual delays."

Knoxville Singers To Make Appearance At New Wilmington

To Give Concert In U. P. Church; Other News Of College Town

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 26.—This evening the Knoxville college sextet will give an entertainment in the local United Presbyterian church. The Knoxville singers will give a 30-minute concert after which an illustrated lecture on a phase of the home mission work will be given by one of the home missionaries.

Harry Graham and Mrs. John Crawford will probably be here also to help carry out the program. The whole entertainment is to be given under the auspices of the Board of American Missions.

NEW WILMINGTON NOTES

A masquerade party is to be held at the home of Miss May McKelvy tonight for the members of the Naccanna club of the town.

Announcement reached here yesterday that the congregation of the Leesburg Presbyterian church which was recently destroyed by fire will rebuild on the same site. Alterations and additions are planned in the rebuilding process.

William McElwee returned here after spending a short time in Philadelphia on a business trip.

Mrs. Lyla Greer and daughter Miss Mary Greer are spending several days in New York City now.

Penn. Mother Knew Answer

"Yes sir, I am certainly proud of my little boy," says Mrs. Agnes T. Morris, 272 South 57th St., Philadelphia. "He's the picture of health as you can see, and I feel like he'll always be that way as long as I can get California Fig Syrup. I have used it with him ever since he was a year old. I knew what to give him for constipation and his feverish, upset spells because Mother used California Fig Syrup with all of us as children. I have used it freely with my boy and he loves it. It always fixes him up, quick."

In many homes, like this, the third and fourth generations are using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup because it has never failed to do what is expected of it. Nothing so quickly and thoroughly purges a child's system of the souring waste which keeps him cross, feverish, headachy, bilious, half-sick, with coated tongue, bad breath and no appetite or energy as long as it is allowed to remain in the little stomach and bowels. Fig Syrup gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do, and helps build up and strengthen weak, pale and underweight children. Over four million bottles used a year shows its popularity. The genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years, always bears the word "California."

NEEDLES OF ANCIENT DAYS.

The needles that have come down to us from ancient Egypt are very coarse but it is certain that finer needles must have been made to make the delicate embroidery produced by those people. Judging by the descriptions of embroidery in Homer the Greeks also must have had very fine needles.

Hoover Is Now Becoming Master Of All Political Intricities

Republican Candidate Had To Learn "Politics" At Beginning

Is Now Different Man Than He Was Last Spring; Becomes Mixer

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Herbert Hoover knows a deal more about politics than he did a year ago — or considerably less than a year ago. In fact, he knows more about politics all the time.

Mr. Hoover has not, naturally, the political flair.

Politics is not an instinct with him, as with Governor Smith. It is not even an instinct with him as it is with the average smallbore politician. There are plenty of ward heelers who intuitively grasp political meanings which Mr. Hoover has to master by hard work.

But he does master them by hard work.

And it may be that that which is acquired by conscious effort is better understood by the man who has acquired it than the individual who acts on mere hunches understands what he is about.

* * *

Around last February or March, when some two score presidential candidates were in the public eye, Mr. Hoover's candidacy stood out in sharp contrast against all the rest—and not favorably, either, to his candidacy.

The other candidates, for the respective nominations, all seemed so sure of themselves—each one of himself, that is to say.

They were in training already.

They did their stuff easily. There was no appearance of hurry or excitement about any of them. Their various groups of retainers were calm and serene. The work they were engaged in was no new thing to any of them.

* * *

At Hoover headquarters, in the Commerce building, there were signs of over-anxiety.

Here was an outfit which was learning how—from Secretary Hoover all the way on down. It was a worried outfit — a scared outfit, too—afraid of its own job.

The secretary, himself, just at the juncture when he ought to have been accessible and confident and radiant, was mighty hard to get to. His attendants were perfectly free to admit that he was straining every nerve for the presidency, and on no account must be disturbed — whereas, of course, the proper play was that it was being forced on him much against his will.

Corrugated brows, the flush of fever, fretful words — these were the rule at Hoover headquarters then.

* * *

All this is changed now.

It was so gradual that folk who have been seeing Mr. Hoover at fairly frequent intervals right along have hardly realized that it was going on. However, thinking back to what the Republican candidate was early last spring, and seeing him as he is today, the alternation in him is startling.

He has learned politics. Between being born to politics, and learning it, there is a difference. Mr. Hoover has no inspirations, but he reasons things out, and his reasoning is sound.

His very manner has changed. He is not a back-slapper, but he "mixes" fairly well.

* * *

Congresman John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican leader in the house of representatives, probably was the ex-secretary's ablest instructor. He tutored the latter intensively between the Kansas City convention and his pupil's acceptance speech.

Political professors like John Q. are scarce.

Yet the student also deserves his meed of praise. He certainly was not the typical bright boy. Evidently he was more the type of the faithful scholar who digs like all git-out—and so often graduates at the head of his class.

YOUR BIG LEFT FOOT.

Your left foot is larger than your right in 99 cases out of 100. Science explains it in many ways, but we accept the lasiest one which is that we are world of left-footed loungers. We lean against posts and door jambs and we do most of our leaning on our left foot; consequently through the years it has grown to support the weight that the lazy foot doesn't. The next time you buy shoes have your foot measured first.

New English Made For Use On Air Fields

Birdmen Are Responsible For Introduction Of Entirely New Jargon

"BAIL OUT" MEANS PARACHUTE JUMP

Ship "Toots Along" When Motor Is Running Smoothly; "Hot" Is Good

By GILMORE MILLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 26.—An entirely new form of the English language is spoken daily around the hangars and runways it was revealed at the recent national air races at Mines Field.

For instance, when a pilot tells you to "hoik 'em up" in taking off from a small field, he means to raise the plane clear of obstacles that may be in its path.

Then he says a ship is "totting along" he means the same thing an automobile driver would mean if he said his car was running along fine.

When he "pancakes" a place, or "mushes her in" he means that he is making it lose forward speed in landing to keep it from hitting the ground on its "nose"—its front end.

When he means to say that he hasn't flown in a week, he announces that he hasn't "cracked a throttle" in that time. And when he wants to say that a pilot is a Goebel or a Lindbergh or a Kingsford-Smith, he drags out the good old word "hot" to express efficiency, daring and steel nerve.

New Expressions

From Ensign Frank E. Williams, attached to the naval aviation base at Long Beach now and formerly in the army aviation corps, some of the new expressions here named were obtained. And to represent commercial aviation, others were taken from the vocabulary of Bob Toutt, who flew the Kendall ship to the races from Pennsylvania.

Sharp turns in the air are called "fantails." A "dead stick landing" is one made with the propellor stopped. A "bail out" is navy slang for jumping out of a plane to make a parachute jump.

"Squat" is the term in vogue for a slow "semi-stall" landing. "Stalling" is holding the plane's nose up until flying speed is lost and the plane dorps out of control until speed is regained.

"Banking" is lowering one wing while turning, similar to the position taken by a race car on a banked race track. "Prop" is a simple translation for propeller, and "skidding" means the same thing it does in ordinary English, except the deed is done on the invisible alleys of the air, instead of rain-wet asphalt streets.

Well Known Terms

A "nose-over" is the army term for the unhappy (for the flier) event of landing and turning the plane over on its back. A "stable plane" is one that is steady and tends to fly without the constant movement of the controls—so that the flyer presumably may day dream or meditate, as he sails over the much advertised silver lining every cloud is alleged to possess.

The greatly misused verb "zooming" actually means pulling the plane upwards sharply after a long dive toward the ground. And "blind flying" of course, means flying in the rain or fog with no chance of seeing up, down or to the side, making it necessary to guide the plane by instruments.

And there are dozens that everyone already knows, like "take off," "gliding," "stunting" and "forced landing." These too, that designate and describe stunts, like "aileron roll," "Immelman turn", "side slip", "nose dive," "falling leaf", "inside loop", and "outside loop" and "power dive."

Train Scientists To Study Insect Pests

Year's Special Biological Work Is Required For Specialists In Line

(International News Service)

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Oct. 26.—Research in the biological control of insect pests is attracting entomologists of the United States and Europe to the citrus experiment station of the University of California here, it was announced today by Prof. Harry S. Smith.

The list of scientists to undergo training here includes W. V. Bauduf, assistant professor of entomology at the University of Illinois, and H. L. Dozier of the Delaware experiment station. Both have doctor's degrees, but desire a year's special training in biological control.

"Little by little they (the English) are adopting steam heat." Yea, little by very little; a little in the morning, and a little at night. It's little enough.

Five Pioneer Letter Carriers Have Banquet

Five pioneers of Uncle Sam's mail delivery force gathered last night to celebrate in the form of a banquet the establishment of free mail delivery service in New Castle.

That was in 1887, when airplanes, automobiles and Zeppelins were only dreams and the sites where some of the city's most beautiful residential sections now are located were fields.

The population was small and the residences in outlying sections widely separated and the men had miles to trudge through mud and dirt sidewalks to deliver their letters.

But today things are different as the men described. There are airplanes, automobiles, wireless, radio, street cars, electric fans—practically everything that comfort demands.

In those days there were five mail deliveries and an office force of three. Today there are 24 clerks, five other office employes and 37 carriers in the city.

There are sub-stations and relay stations. Foremen inspect routes. Mails arrive and depart almost hourly and some men make four and five trips to deliver mail.

And the men who first carried the mail for Uncle Sam during the administration of Major Gordon were Dan Mooney, W. S. Rice, Douglas McIlvenny, George Dufford and Luke Egan.

Frank Schultz, who was money order clerk, rose to assistant postmaster. Al Henry, now of Barberton, O., was receiving and distributing clerk.

All of these men, who were present at the banquet, have left the service excepting Egan, who is in the rail mail service. Postmaster Edwin Crawford was a guest at the banquet as well.

All of the men who were employed when the free delivery service was instituted are living and it was in celebration of the service that the men banqueted last night.

Henry came here from Barberton to attend the banquet. Crawford is the present postmaster and Schultz is affiliated with the Lawrence Savings & Trust company.

But wouldn't it sound funny if the English should refer to some cricket match as a "world series".

SINGLE-TRACK IRISH LINES

"For the good of the service" the Great Southern Railways is converting a number of lines in Ireland from double to single track. One section thus effected is nearly 100 miles long. So extensive is the change that it will require two years to complete. At frequent intervals along the routes there will be loops where trains will pass one another, and so efficient will be these loops that they may do so at 70 miles an hour. C. E. Riley, general manager of the road, says that advancement in train signaling has made double tracking unnecessary, and if as much about railways was known in the fifties as now, there never would have been a double track line in Ireland.

A bright genius on Capper's Weekly is of the opinion that "the hardest thing is starting work." There's another chap who must have his blue Mondays.

Street Problems Are Discussed

Councilmen Confer With Head Of P.-O. Company On Conditions

WEST SIDE STREET TO BE IMPROVED

Resurfacing Of Grant Street Is Also Considered At Session

R. N. Graham, manager of railways, P-O Electric today conferred with councilmen, during formal session at City hall and it developed that West Washington street, between Sankey street and the city line will be resurfaced in 1929 and the section between Front street and Sankey street will be improved similarly in 1930.

Graham, in reply to a question by Councilman Tyler, said that to improve the entire stretch during one year would be too heavy for the company, in view of the lack of revenue on the line but he would be willing to "go along" were the improvement spread out over a period of two years, a statement which was satisfactory to councilmen.

Relative to Grant street, where street car operations have been abandoned, Graham told councilmen that as yet he had not conferred with P-O attorneys but would do so, to determine the company's legal rights and when council presented a proposal to the company, would be pleased to discuss the proposition with council.

Tyler immediately followed this information by presenting a motion requesting the city engineer to present a recommendation to council after which plans and specifications for resurfacing Grant street will be prepared. When these are approved council will request Graham to furnish the position of the company relative to the P-O paying their share.

Although Crawford avenue was not one of the avenues under consideration today an engineer for the company said it would be difficult to resurface the avenue as it lacks a crown. There is a difference in opinion, also, as to whether Crawford avenue carries as much traffic as West Washington and Grant streets.

Tyler's motion in regard to Grant street means that if the company does not go along with the improvement the city will be in a position to go into court and ask the court to force the company to restore the street to the condition it was prior to the laying of tracks.

There will be no action relative to abandonment of car service on Hamilton street until the Public Service commission grants an abandonment certificate and it is understood that the city will not oppose the application which the P-O is making.

Mr. Graham took the position that the company would be willing to enter into an agreement whereby so much work would be done over a period of time instead of agreeing to do all the work in one year. He said also that the company had improved their holdings in Cedar street and the city had not done their share though this was resulting in damage to the portion the company had repaved.

Dedicate Tree On Public Square

Exercises Held In Y. W. C. A. Auditorium Because Of Weather Conditions

MRS. S. D. PEARSON ACCORDED HONOR

If, as it has often been charged, Republics are ungrateful, the indictment can hardly be drawn against the Lawrence County Garden club. No member can truthfully say that her work has ever gone unappreciated and occassionally some public demonstration convinces one that appreciation is one of the cardinal virtues of the organization.

So it was Thursday afternoon when a Japanese Plane tree planted in the Public Square, was dedicated to Mrs. S. D. Pearson for her devotion, her loyalty and her leadership in the Lawrence County Garden club. Because of the inclemency of the weather the exercises were held in the auditorium of the Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Feuchtwanger in Charge.

Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger president of the club was in charge of the program and asked Rev. P. C. Pearson, rector of Trinity Episcopal church to pronounce the invocation. Mrs. D. R. Harris then read the poem "To a Tree" and was followed by Attorney Frank A. Hover of the Zoning commission.

In his address Mr. Hover paid a wonderful tribute to the work of Mrs. Pearson as a member of that board, of her work in the Garden Club and the resultant effect which the work is having in the way of beautifying the homes of the city and the city itself. He expressed his appreciation of having a small part in the honoring of one so worthy and said that he trusted that both the tree and the woman honored by it would live to serve the community for many years.

Paul A. Welsh, well known tenor, sang Joyce Kilmer's "Trees," accompanied by his wife, Anna Kent Welsh. Mrs. Feuchtwanger then made the formal presentation of the tree to Mrs. Pearson and said that while she was able to adequately express the love and affection in which Mrs. Pearson was held by the Garden club that they hoped this this public testimonial would convey stronger than words that love and affection.

Replies to Presentation.

In her reply Mrs. Pearson did not speak long. Such an occasion does not call for a plethora of words. Her very apparent feeling and the sincerity with which she spoke were enough.

Bart Richards was the last speaker on the program. He reviewed the work of the Garden club since its organization and said that Mrs Pearson the first president, had never stinted time nor labor to put the work over. This she had done and the beautification movement which has been growing in this city for several years was the direct outgrowth of the work of the Garden club and its first president.

Following the singing of America by the audience Mrs. Charles Greer, president of the Federation of Women's clubs gave the Salute to the Flag. The benediction followed by Rabbi J. B. Menkes of Temple Israel.

It was a rather unusual service. It marked for future generations the work of a women who has stood in all things civic in this city and whose work was appreciated before she had passed on.

Someone has figured out that "the average length of hair of the Anglo-Saxon women is from 18 to 30 inches," but since when?

Black Squirrel With Ivory Tusk Is Killed In Park

(International News Service)

BARABOO, Wis., Oct. 26.—A freak found here recently was a dead black squirrel, with a tusk protruding from its mouth. The tusk is about 2½ inches in length, and appears to be the very finest of ivory, but it is in the form of a coil about three-fourths of an inch in diameter.

During the past four years the squirrel has been noticed almost daily in the public park here, but no one had ever noticed that the squirrel had a tusk. It is presumed that the animal was killed by a passing car.

Leaders Meet Last Night At Y.M.C.A.

Twenty members of the Leaders Corps at the Y. M. C. A. met Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A. for a dinner and regular leaders' classes which followed the banquet and address. The leaders are young men of the city who are interested in Y. M. C. A. work and are now leading physical and religious classes as a part of their training.

Following the dinner which was served in the banquet room, Rev. S. L. Maxwell addressed the leaders on the subject "Service".

Following the informal period the classes convened. Herbert Kirk, Jr. is instructing the physical classes and William Thomas is teaching the religious studies.

Advance Gifts Group Meets At Cathedral

Expect Last Report To Encourage Workers In Intensive Campaign

Members of the advance gifts committee of the New Castle Community Chest will meet this evening for their final report at 6 o'clock in the east dining room of The Cathedral. All agency presidents and advance gifts committee members should be present as credit will be given for attendance at this meeting.

With slightly more than $25,000 already in the chest through the efforts of the advance gifts group, the report this evening should be the largest of the preliminary campaign. Committee members have been working hard, calling on their advance prospects with a view to ending this phase of the campaign. The report of the committee will be encouraging to the team workers when they take the field next Tuesday and Wednesday.

This afternoon there will not be a meeting of this committee in the Chamber of Commerce board rooms as the 6 o'clock meeting will take its place.

President Smith Sends Final Notice To Pottery Workers On Thursday

The following letter is a copy of a letter written to William G. Haney, president of Local 54, National Brotherhod of Operative Potters by James M. Smith, president of the Shenango Pottery which was for the information of the men meeting in the Moose club Thursday evening:

Mr. Smith states that previous to the meeting he had asked Mr. Haney if he would read a notice to the men and women at the meeting and that Mr. Haney had agreed. The letter was not read in the meeting, but is as follows:

October 25, 1928.

Mr. Wm. C Haney, Pres., Local 54, National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

Dear Sir:

Understanding that your local will have a meeting today, we would request that you read to your members the following statement:

On Saturday morning, October 20, announcement was made that beginning at that date the Shenango Pottery Co. will operate as an Open Shop. We reiterate this statement, as our decision will not be revoked.

To show that we meant this in every sense of the word and that we do not intend to discriminate against any former employee of the Shenango Potery Company on account of his union affiliation, an opportunity was given to your members on Tuesday, October 23rd, to resume their jobs under open shop operation.

In order that there may be no misunderstanding, we repeat the offer which was made at the meeting Tuesday afternoon:

"The Shenango Pottery Co. agrees with each of the employees individually, that the present skilled workers, that is, the mould makers, sagger makers, jiggermen, casters, turners, kiln placers, dippers, packers, present journeymen liners, handlers and warehousemen, during the life of the present wage agreement between the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters and the U. S. Potters association will receive no reduction in wages."

We wish to add to the above:

That if the agreement between the Brotherhood and Manufacturers is reopened at any time prior to its expiration on October 1, 1930 and a change of rates is made, we agree individually with each of the employees designated above that we will follow such changes in rates, either up or down.

At 5 o'clock Friday afternon, October 26, 1928, we will declare open the job of any member of our local whose application has not been received, either in person, by telephone or in writing.

In fairness to all the members of your organization we believe it to be your duty to see that all members absent from this meeting are notified of the above proposition.

Very respectfully,

SHENANGO POTTERY CO.
JAMES M. SMITH.

Brokers' Loan Situation Will Cause Worries

Congress Faces Worry Over Problem Of Brokers' Loans In Future

TO BE DISCUSSED AT NEXT SESSION

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Congress will have plenty to worry about over the brokers' loan situation when it goes into session in December.

Speculative loans from the New York Federal Reserve member banks alone were nearly $5,000,000,000 today, while stock market loans are considerably beyond that figure.

For three successive weeks new records have been established, the last jump reported by the federal reserve board having been about $108,000,000.

This tremendous use of borrowed money for speculative activities has come in spite of action in the eastern reserve banks in establishing the highest rediscount rates since 1921, and in the policy of the board to avoid any open market buying policies in relation to United States bonds, which should add cash to the credit market.

At the last session of Congress when the member bank brokers' loans passed the $3,500,000,000 mark the banking and currency committees were materially disturbed and ordered an investigation. A Senate sub-committe conducted long hearings.

MACHINIST IS KILLED AT MILL

Charles W. Shellenberger Meets Death At Carnegie Steel Plant Today

Charles W. Shellenberger, aged 48 f 304 Harding avenue, was instantly illed at the Carnegie Steel plant about noon today. Mr. Shellenberger, who is a machinist was engaged in placing a heavy wheel on a shaft, when a key, under heavy pressure flew out and struck him on the forehead just above the eyes, fracturing his skull.

Coroner J. P. Caldwell was notified and is investigating the accident.

Mr. Shellenberger has been an employee of the steel mill for many years. He was one of the best known residents of the Croton district, and of late has been interested in the development of the Harding addition, formerly the old golf grounds.

He is survived by his wife and two children, Louis C. Shellenberger, a student at Westminster college and Lillian Shellenberger, a student at the Ben Franklin Junior high school.

Mr. Shellenberger was a member of the Croton Avenue M. E. church and a man who was highly esteemed. Funeral announcement later.

This Is Some Squirrel Yarn

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 26.—Sam Steffey of Slickville today told how he brought down three squirrel with one shot. He fired at two gray squirrels and both fell. As he was about to pick them up a third one fell and struck him on the head. Looking up he saw another squirrel in the tree but it escaped.

Producers See Oil As Problem For Airplanes

By VERNON E. MOORE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WICHITA, Kas., Oct. 26.—The gasoline consumption of airplanes is only a "drop in the bucket" to the petroleum industry a recently completed survey of the connection of aviation to the petroleum industry by Carel B. Mapes, technologist of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association.

Mapes discovered many cases of misinformation concerning the relation of the two industries while making his exhaustive study of the question.

He found that the aviation industry although growing lustily is still small in comparison with the other basic industries. Even in Wichita where the citizens of that city claim the Air Capital of the United States is located the oil industry, pioneering aviation overshadows it greatly.

Need Permanent Supply.

Mapes found also that the maintenance of aviation depends on a permanent supply of gasoline and lubricating oils which American refiners are able to furnish.

Efforts at obtaining semi-official information on the importance of aviation has resulted in the knowledge that the agencies which generally keep up on industries, it is from what scattered reports which he has received from authentic sources that Mapes concludes that there is such a large amount of mis-information concerning the status of the industry.

Many refiners have come to the conclusion that aviation will develop into a great revival of the autos in gasoline consumption. This may be in the future and refiners are paying the way for it through extensive advertising which does not pay now because the aviation industry is such a modest consumer of motor fuels.

Big Demand.

It is estimated that 49,800,000 flight miles will be travelled by 570 commercial planes in 1928. On this basis it can be said that approximately 500,000 barrels of gasoline will be consumed and around 25,510 barrels of motor oil used.

The process of arriving at the average number of miles flown per gallon of gasoline and oil resulted in an approximation of four miles per gallon of gasoline and 70 miles per gallon of oil consumed.

The consumption of the half million barrels of gasoline represents a very trivial amount when compared with the enormous gasoline consumption in motor cars which has kept the petroleum prices to their present high mark throughout practically the whole summer.

Yale Men Becoming Better Dressed, Say New Haven Wearing Apparel Merchants

By R. T. BULKELEY,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 26. — Yale men are dressing up again. That is what the merchants who sell wearing apparel to the students here say. Yale men have passed the point where they will go to very formal affairs in Tuxedos hidden under any sort of overcoat and wearing any sort of hat. They will wear Tuxedos to informal affairs and to dinners but if they know a formal event is following they will return to their rooms and dress.

This is what the dressed Yale man will wear: swallow tail formal coat, silk hat, Chesterfield overcoat, gloves, cane. And of course the suitable shoes, sox, shirt, tie.

In proof of what is coming the Yale apparel dealers point to their newly displayed stocks of canes. They indicate the tiers of silk hats, showing where a few years ago never a silk hat appeared. And they turn to their tailoring sections where even in advance of the opening of Yale orders had come for formal clothes.

Once upon a time "in the dear dead days beyond recall," but not really "beyond recall" the Yale sophomore always bought a Prince Albert coat, silk hat, walking stick. They were imperatives in his outfit. The war came, the dress-up habit went. To return this fall.

"Yale leads all when it comes to men's styles," is the saying in New Haven—or," as Yales goes, so will go all the colleges in the land." So a dress-up wave is expected to sweep the country's colleges. Not this year, perhaps, but certainly a year from now, two years, or three years.

Yale men spend a lot of money for clothes. Old-time merchandisers in New Haven recall one who spent no less than twelve thousand dollars a year. That student, of a generation long gone, was an exception of course. But the other Yale men spend quite some money. And they want certain things.

Today the student "shops around." Not for bargains but to find some new thing that takes his fancy. When he finds it he buys it, and so starts something. But what he buys is always conservative. So the Yale apparel dealers say.

Airplanes Big Aid To Business World

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Airplanes are causing new sensations daily in the business world, according to a survey made by the American Air Transport association, with headquarters in Chicago.

A Chicago glass dealer learned he had been shut out of a $60,000 contract in Oklahoma because his firm was not incorporated in that state. Bids were to be opened the next day. Papers went forward Monday night and were filed Tuesday afternoon, beating the train thirty-six hours, to the dismay of the competitive firm.

Competition for a $50,000 tire order from a California co-operative association prompted the salesman to secure samples of a new tire by air mail, and he got the business.

A Denver florist looking for new markets for sweet peas found customers when he delivered the blooms to Chicago twenty hours after they were picked, while a Utica, N. Y. firm got a contract for ice cream on a sample shipment air mail to Greensboro, S. C.

The water supply of a municipality in the California mountains was threatened by breakage of machinery which had to be duplicated from stocks in Cleveland. The spare part was put on the air mail plane and within thirty hours before the surplus supply had been drained off, the plant was pumping again.

WOMAN AUTOIST STRICKEN AT WHEEL

DOVER, Oct. 26—Mrs. Russell Phillips, 26, Barnesville, was stricken at the wheel of her automobile after she had taken her husband and brother, Wilbur Medley, Barnesville, to the Baltimore & Ohio railroad depot here to go to Akron. She died an hour later at the home of Lewis Hawk, Tuscarawas avenue, a short distance from the depot. Mrs. Phillips suffered a convulsion.

Beggars Plague New York City

Board Of Trade Appeals To City; Beggars Contemplate Union

ENGLISH REVIEWER DISCOVERS ROGERS

By CLARK KINNAIRD
The New Castle News

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—New York is suffering from a plague of professional beggars. So much so that the Board of Trade has appealed to the city. Perhaps the beggars will form an organization to protect their rights. They seem well enough organized now, for that matter.

* * *

Mayor Jimmie Walker is wroth. Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator, declared night clubs could be cleaned up if the New York police actually desired to do the job. To which His Honor responds, to the plaudits of his admirers: "If the federal government will stop its agents from patting hips on steamship piers, and put them to work catching the real offenders, it will get somewhere." In other words, he's a neat retorter.

* * *

Maurice E. Connolly, former borough president of Queens, sentenced to a year in jail on a charge of conspiring to defraud in sewer contracts, is at New York penitentiary on Welfare island, a pretty awful place. It is in strong contrast to his $75,000 home.

How much would a skyscraper, like the Woolworth, sway in a hurricane equivalent to the recent one in Florida?

Napoleon Pickard has some interesting information. He is president of a concern which plans to erect a 75-story building in Chicago. (The Woolworth building is "only" 57 stories high.)

The sway at the top of the Chicago building would be approximately nine inches from horizontal in an 80-mile-an-hour blow, says Pickard, who adds:

"New methods in skyscraper construction which will be used in the Chicago tower insure a maximum of comfort to tenants and resistance to high wind pressure. To carry out these plans one-seventh of the 86,000 tons of structural steel used in the building will be devoted to bracing.

"When the Chicago tower was projected it became necessary to devise new means for overcoming the dangers of wind pressure. The Woolworth building, at present the tallest building in the world, has been built for 15 years and later principles of engineering have since come into use. However, the structural formulas used in the Woolworth building were taken as a basis for computing the construction requirements of the newer and higher building.

"An 80-mile wind, according to the United States weather bureau, develops a pressure of 25.6 pounds a square foot and skyscrapers must be constructed to afford a resistance considerably greater than this for a margin of safety. Mathematical calculation shows that under the stress of an 80-mile wind, the theoretical deflection in a building similar in construction to the Woolworth building would be 7.7 inches—a total vibration amplitude, or sway, of 15.4 inches. A study was made for the Chicago tower to endeavor to reduce this horizontal movement.

"Architectural engineers determined that diminishing the space between columns and a reduction of the free length of columns enable the erection of high structures with a minimum of vibration and a maximum of wind resistance. Therefore the designs of the Chicago tower have been worked out on a basis of diagonal bracing so extensive as to reduce the free length of the column to zero."

St. John Ervine, English playwright-highbrow reviewer which the Morning World brought over from England to take Alexander Woollcott's place, has finally discovered Will Rogers. The distinguished critic's observation is naive: "If Mr. Rogers can make me, a foreigner, feel intimately and humorously acquainted with the domestic politics of the United States, how immensely influential his effect on the natives must be!" As one of the natives I am trying to figure out how to dig up $5.50 or $7.70 a seat to be influenced by Will Rogers at the show he's in. Imagine I'll continue reading his advice.

Aged Lady Given Relief; Declares It's Wonderful

Says Ten Herbs Made Great Change: Other Medicines Failed.

"I am glad to endorse Ten Herbs to the public, for it surely is a wonderful medicine," was the recent statement of Mrs. Clementine Kaiser, 3 Lodge Avenue, Overbrook, Pa., (near Pittsburgh), according to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating this successful new herbal compound.

MRS. CLEMENTINE KAISER

"For six months I was troubled with an ulcerated and acid mouth," continued Mrs. Kaiser, who is 62 years of age. "My mouth felt as if it were burnt—I could not eat any fruit or food containing salt. My appetite was poor and what little I ate caused terrible distress. Gas would form and give me a bloated feeling and pains. I was in a run-down condition. I felt weak and my nerves were so bad that I could not sleep. Terrible headaches came on me. I had to take physics regularly because of constipation. I tried several kinds of medicines without getting any results.

"My daughter read about Ten Herbs in the newspapers, and she got some of your medicine for me. She feared that I was not going to get well, but since taking Ten Herbs I feel and look like a different person. The ulcerated and acid condition of my mouth has been relieved. My appetite has improved, and I can eat anything with pleasure. I am free of gas, pains and headaches. My nerves are quiet, and I sleep much better. Constipation has been corrected, and I no longer have to use physics."

Clemenceau Likes Vacation Solitude

"Tiger Of France" Prefers To Be Alone At His Seashore Home

(International News Service)

JARD, Vendee, Oct. 26.—If "the Tiger" loves company when in Paris, he much prefers to be alone when on his vacation at his seaside home in the Vendee region.

The story runs that recently one of Clemenceau's old friends happened to be passing through this part of the country and decided to make a little call. After much persuasion, the old servant Clothilde, who jealously guards the door, let the visitor pass through to the kitchen where he found the celebrated ex-president snoozing by the fire.

"I was motoring near here," explained the friend, "and just thought I'd drop in and shake hands with you."

Clemenceau stood up, gave a hearty shake and then said briskly:

"Well, here it is and now Au Revoir!"

There was nothing much for the friend to do but leave and he did so at once.

EATING THE "PROFITS."

Picking Presidents

1904: A Strictly New York Affair

By CHARLES L. MULLIGAN
Written for Central Press and New Castle News

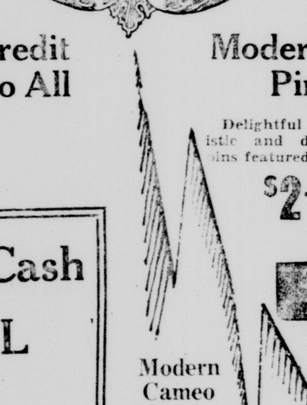
"My policies" formed President Roosevelt's personal platform for election in 1904 to the office to which he had fallen heir with the assassination of McKinley in 1901.

Roosevelt dominated the convention of the Republicans at Chicago. He wanted to stay in the white house, where he had been hugely enjoying himself. He had turned the presidency into a forum for the discussion of public problems of ethics, morals and governmental theory. World-wide publicity threw into high relief his every word and act. The youngest of all the presidents, he was by all odds the most aggressive.

Confronted by the almost hopeless task of combating his popularity, the Democrats turned their back on Bryanism. Their choice at St. Louis was a conservative, the dignified and learned, but scarcely known, Alton B. Parker, chief justice of the New York court of appeals.

For the first time in history two candidates from the same state shared all the electoral votes.

Parker tried hard. He published a telegram insisting on adherence to the gold standard, a notable effort to win back the eastern wing of his party, which had been alienated by the free-silver heresy. He thundered charges that Wall Street was financing the Republican campaign, to which the president returned a characteristic "short and ugly" retort. But Bryan could scarcely have failed to better the showing Parker made in the electoral voting.



Theodore Roosevelt

Immediately upon his election Roosevelt issued a declaration that under no circumstances would he be a candidate for another term—a manifesto that he must have greatly regretted eight years later.

The electoral vote was as follows:

Theodore Roosevelt, New York, and Charles W. Fairbanks, Indiana, Republicans, 336; Alton B. Parker, New York, and Henry G. Davis, West Virginia, Democrats, 140.

The popular vote: Roosevelt, 7,628,834; Parker, 5,084,491; Swallow (Prohibition), 259,257; Debs, (Socialist-Democrat), 402,400.

(This is the thirtieth of a series of 35 digests of presidential campaigns. The thirty-first will be: "1908: Taft Wins Handily over Bryan.")

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 26.—George W. Hopper of Chicora, is the oldest man in Butler county to take out a hunter's license this year. Mr. Hopper is 83 years of age and is one of the crack shots of the county. He is five feet in height and despite his advanced years has few grey hairs, his hair being black in color. His sons are hunters, but their father can still outshoot his boys.

Mr. Hopper has hunted game in this region for many years and recalls with pleasure some of the big fellows he had brought down. Butler woodlands in years passed contained much game. Hunting in the good old days was mainly done with a rifle and Mr. Hopper was a noted shot in his day.

Gets Patent For Machine To Make Concrete Blocks

Edward A. Long Of New Castle Is Awarded Patent By Government

PATENT RIGHTS ARE AS YET UNASSIGNED

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 26.—Edward A. Long of New Castle has been granted by the federal government all patent rights on an attachment for concrete block making machines, according to advices from the United States patent office. Mr. Long, the patent office states, filed claim for his patent on October 14, 1927.

The invention patented by Mr. Long embodies five novel features, according to the official gazette of the patent office.

The official gazette describes the invention of invention of Mr. Long as follows:

An attachment in combination with a concrete block forming machine having a block forming enclosure, a flat spring extending under the enclosure and secured in the center to the underside thereof, a pair of sharp pointed pintless secured to the spring and extending upward into the enclosure, and means whereby when the ends of the enclosure are being opened the ends of the spring will bend downward whereby said pintless will be withdrawn from the enclosure.

Mr. Long has not informed the patent office whether he will assign his patent rights to some company for development or retain them himself.

The patent office has also announced that Frank W. Preston of Butler has been granted the patent rights on a method and apparatus for annealing glass, and that Charles McKnight Jr. of Sewickley, has been awarded patent rights on a method of making alloy steels.

Mr. Preston filed claim for his patent May 5, 1927, and Mr. McKnight filed his claim June 8, 1925, and renewed it March 13 of the present year. McKnight has assigned his patent rights to the International Nickel Company.

Little Lamb In His Apartment

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A sheep rustler, something new to New York police annals, was turned up today by neighbors, who revealed that he had for a ranch only a fourth-floor apartment.

He is Vincent Buenroste, 26, Mexican counter man in a restaurant.

Frank Hoey, Central Park shepherd for twenty years, counted his flock this morning and found but 59 sheep. One, a Dorset lamb, pedigreed, and with old English ancestors, was missing.

A woman neighbor of Buenroste complained her son, ill with measles, was annoyed by bleating in the Mexican's apartment. A policeman found the missing sheep.

Beunroste said two men friends had asked him to keep the lamb in his home until they returned for it. He was held in $500 bail.

Hallowe'en.

As Hallowe'en approaches near,
Some things to make and do are here.

Small Jack O'Lanterns.

Select a fair-sized orange and cut off the top, saving it for later use. Remove the inside pulp of the orange, being careful not to tear the skin and than cut a grinning mouth, a nose, and two eyes on one side of the shell. A small birthday candle may be stuck in the inside and then lighted. Recover the orange with the top that you had removed and lo and behold, you have a clever little Jack O'Lantern! At a Hallowe'en party or dinner one of these lanterns may be set at each place either glowing from the lighted candle or filled with Hallowe'en candies.

Hallowe'en Masks.

Hallowe'en "false faces" are very easily made and you can have loads of fun scaring the neighbors with them! On a sheet of white or brown wrapping paper, draw eyes, nose and a mouth with your crayons or your paints. Cut out the eyes and if you wish, the mouth. Then to tie the "false face" on, merely attach a piece of string to each side and tie it onto your head. A Japanese mask is made with slanting eyes, rather than straight eyes; and yellowish-brown wrapping paper is best for this purpose. If you wish to make a mustache on any of your "false faces" unravel a short piece of rope and then paste it into position on your paper.

Our Weekly "Don't" for Children.

As Hallowe'en approaches near
And spooks are in the air, I fear,—
DON'T be de-struc-tive in your joy.
Have jolly fun, but don't annoy.

Spooks! (A Hallowe'en Story.)

It was Hallowe'en night many years ago, and four boys sat huddled around a smouldering fire which threw strange shadows on the wall of the barn that served as their clubhouse. The rest of the "gang" had gone to Myrtle Ladon's masquerade party, but these four boys disdainfully had decided that a party was entirely too "tame" for a night that came only once a year! And so they had met in order to plan something exciting and spooky to do.

Tad Brown was the first to speak. "Say, fellows," he said, "I think that a walk to the old house on the Miller Road would end up this week fine. What do you say?"

The other boys agreed eagerly to the plan. They all chattered and laughed merrily for they thought it was certainly a fine idea. Bob Smith, alone, was silent. He did not believe in ghosts, but he was more timid than the rest of the boys and the thought of the haunted house did not exactly please him. However, he made up his mind to go along with the others, for he did not wish to be called a coward!

Midnight found the boys outside of the house, wondering whether to enter or not. It was so very silent and dark! The house had recently been inhabited by an old sailor, who had disappeared, and the story ran that he had been murdered and that his ghost had returned to haunt the house.

The boys decided at length to go in. They tiptoed up the old stairway with the boards creaking at every step. Every sound seemed to echo over and over again in a whispering, rustling manner. Just as they reached the attic a sudden gruff voice said, "Ahoy, there." The boys yelled and stumbled down the steps and out of the house as fast as they could!

That is, all but Bob. He was too frightened to move and stood rooted to the ground with fear. But there was a flutter of wings and as Bob's eyes grew accustomed to the darkness, he saw a large green parrot sitting on the back of a chair! How he laughed with relief!

When Bob went home, he took the parrot with him, much to the envy of the other boys. And now, although he is a grown man, he still lives to tell us about his visit to the haunted house!

Poems Every Child Should Learn.
Little Orphant Annie.
(By James Whitcomb Riley.)

Little Orphant Annie's come to our house to stay,
An' wash the cups and saucers up, an brush the crumbs away,
An' shoo the chickens off the porch, an' dust the hearth, an' sweep,
An' make the fire, an' bake the bread, an' earn her board-an'-keep;
An' all us other children, when the supper things is done,
We set around the fireplace an' has the mostest fun,
A-list'nin' to the witch-tales 'at Annie tells about,
An' the Goble-uns 'at gits you ef you don't watch out!

Onc't they was a little boy who wouldn't say his prayers—
So when he went to bed at night, away up stairs,
His Mammy heered him holler, an' his Daddy heered him bawl,
An' when they turn't the kivvers down, he wasn't there at all!
An' they seeked him in the ratter-room, an' cubby-hole, an' press,
An' seeked him up the chimbly-flue, an' ever'wheres, I guess;
But all they ever found was thist his pants an' round-about,
An' the Goble-uns 'll git you ef you don't watch out!

An' one time a little girl 'ud allus laugh an' grin,
An' make fun of ever'one an' all her blood and kin;
An' onc't when they was "company," an' ole folks was there,
She mocked 'em an' shocked 'em, an' said she didn't care!
An' thist as she kicked her heels, an' turn't to run and hide,
There was two great big black things a-standin' by her side,
An' they snatched her through the ceilin 'fore she knowed what she's about!
An' the Goble-uns 'll git you ef you don't watch out!

An' little Orphant Annie says when the blaze is blue,
An' the lamp-wick sputters, an' the wind goes woo-oo!
An' you hear the crickets quit, an' the moon is gray,
An' the lightnin'-bugs in dew is all squenched away
You better mind your parents, an' dry the orphant's tear,
An' he'p the pore an' needy ones 'at cluster all about.

Firemen Make Reply To Charge

Deny Inefficiency Charge In Connection With Barn Fire

J. Clyde Gilfillan's charge that city firemen inefficiently fought a blaze that destroyed his barn, near North Jefferson and Wilmington avenue, October 12, was denied in a report by fire bureau officials to council today which met in city hall. The report was filed.

Recently Mr. Gilfillan appeared before council and said he had been informed that a period of 20 minutes elapsed between arrival of firemen and the time a hose of water sprayed the barn. He said he had been furnished this information by two men.

Fire Chief Lynn said, in his opinion, the shavings which had been placed in a nearby dump had been set afire by playing children, and a spark had set the barn afire. He declared the barn was dangerous and a fire-hazard and should have been removed long ago but had been overlooked by the press of other duties.

Captain Kaher, of Park avenue department, said he had been at home for supper when the alarm sounded and the truck responded. He said he had walked to the fire four blocks distant and he said it did not take him 20 minutes to reach the blaze.

Driver Horton reported that he answered the alarm and found the building ablaze. He said he was informed there were horses in the barn and he wanted to save them before he laid the hose as he knew the building could not be saved but the horses might.

Horton reported he found no horses and Assistant Chief Stockman arrived and ordered him to lay the hose, which he intended to do as his first thought was for the safety of the animals. The time consumed was probably eight or nine minutes before water hit the fire, he said. Horton said it would have been impossible to save the barn.

He also reported having been told that one of the gentlemen, a Mr. Riley, who was said to have told Gilfillan of inefficiency, denied having spoken to Gilfillan and Detective John Young and Policeman Latera who also answered the call said they arrived eight or nine minutes after the alarm and water was being played on the fire.

The report of the fire department officials and firemen was filed.

Decree Is Granted In Case Of Harvey L. Saiter Against Ora E. Saiter

In an opinion handed down by Judge Chambers today a divorce decree is refused Mabel P. Pierce, who asked to be separated from her husband, Charles C. Pierce, on the grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment. The couple were married in November, 1903, and lived together until July, 1927. The court holds that not sufficient grounds were shown for a divorce.

Harvey L. Saiter was granted a divorce from his wife, Ora E. Saiter, on the grounds of cruelty. They were married in September, 1902, and lived together until October, 1927. They had three children, one of whom was a cripple. The crippled child was taken to an Akron, O., chiropractor. Mrs. Saiter, it is alleged, became enthused over chiropractic and believed that she had a divine call to the work. As a result the family moved to Davenport, Iowa, where Mrs. Saiter took a course in a chiropractic school. The testimony showed that it had cost Saiter $7,000 as a result of the move. After Mrs. Saiter had learned the business the family returned to Mahoningtown where Mr. Saiter was employed as a railroader, but domestic difficulties largely over financial matters developed and led to a separation.

In the case of the New York Central Railroad company against the New Castle Mining & Clay Products company, Judge J. A. Chambers handed down an opinion in a motion for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense is refused. The claim is for $274.32, alleged to be due the railroad company for hauling several carloads of brick.

Englishman Reported Worth $40,000,000 To Wed Albany Salesgirl

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The principals in the latest reported "Cinderella" romance remained in seclusion today. Betty McCormick, former model and salesgirl in Albany, was in an uptown hotel here and insisted on being incommunicado. The whereabouts of John Robert Lawson - Johnston, wealthy and aristocratic Englishman, reported to be her fiance, was unknown.

Some reports have Lawson-Johnston, who is said to be worth $40,000,000, in London while others place him in this city.

Lawson-Johnston was attached to the British embassy at Washington for a time until 1925. It is understood that he was divorced last year from Barbara Guggenheim, daughter of Solomon R. Guggenheim, wealthy copper and railroad man.

Announcement of the engagement of the modern cinderella to the British "Prince Charming" was made by the girl's mother, Mrs. Thomas W. McCormick, from her home in Albany. Mrs. McCormick said the wealthy Englishman met her daughter several months ago in Elizabethtown, N. Y.

Miners On Strike Result Of Protest

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 26.—Because the superintendent advanced a mail boy to the position of assistant office clerk and did not select a breaker boy for the post, 1,600 miners employed at the No. 9 colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal company at Pittston, went on strike today.

Thirty breaker boys protested when the appointment was made, insisting that one of their number was entitled to the office post. When the superintendent refused to grant their request, they complained to the union with the result that the strike order was issued.

BOOK WILL TEACH EIGHT LANGUAGES AT ONCE

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Despite the alleged wear and tear of modern life everyone has time enough to learn eight languages at one time, says Dr. E. P. Samsonovici, a Parisian lawyer, who has just completed a volume which fellow professors admit is convincing.

Common phrases, questions, grammatical rules, short conversations are arranged in parallel columns—French, English, Spanish, German, Italian, Dutch, Roumanian and even Esperanto.

Without the aid of a professor, the Parisian savant believes that a vocabularly of 3,000 words in each language can be mastered within a few weeks, as well as the ordinary terms used in banking and other commercial correspondence.

A Pastor's Farewell

Brass Tacks On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

Paul had been pastor at Ephesus for three years. This lesson finds him making his last visit to the churches he had established throughout the regions of Greece and Macedonia as he was hurrying by boat to reach Jerusalem to celebrate the Feast of Penticost. The ship's course would bring him to Miletus, only 30 miles from Ephesus. So Paul sent messengers to the officers of the church at Ephesus to come down to Miletus for such visit together as the ship's stay in port would permit.

A Pastor's Autobiography.

Here, then, were gathered before Paul his former parishioners, office bearers of the church to which he had given more of his life than to any other church. His words to these intimate friends constitute the richest autobiography any pastor has ever given to the world. "Ye yourselves know from the first day that I set foot in Asia, after what manner I was with you all the time serving the Lord with all lowliness of mind, and with tears, and with trials, how I shrank not from declaring unto you anything that was profitable, and teaching you publicly and from house to house, testifying—repentance towards God and faith towards our Lord Jesus Christ." Here was a pastor with a free conscience. No man's blood would be upon his head, for he had ministered counsel, comfort and correction to all as needed, and always with a spiritual father's heart of love and tears of sympathy for his spiritual children. With the single exception of the family ties of kinship there are no human ties stronger than those that bind a true pastor to his flock.

Paul's Courage.

When Luke records our Lord's last journey to Jerusalem he says, "he steadfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem." Literally "he made his face hard," recalling Isaiah's prophesy of the same events, "therefore have I set my face like a flint." Something of this same set determination characterized Paul on his last journey to Jerusalem. "Now behold I go bound in the spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there: save that the Holy Ghost testifyeth unto me in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me. But I hold not my life of any account as dear unto myself, so that I may accomplish my course and the ministry which I received from the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God." This is the stuff of which heroes are made. What should become of Paul at Jerusalem was of little concern to Paul. To him the only concern was his testimony to Christ and the spiritual interests of those he had led to Christ.

The Resource of Prayer.

There come times when we can do no more for our friends from whom we must part. And yet there is one who abides with them and who is able to minister to them after we are taken away. And this suggests the one thing more we can always do for our friends, as Paul does here in this touching farewell as they knelt on the seashore at Miletus: "And now I commend you to God and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and give you the inheritance among all them that are sanctified ..... and he kneeled down and prayed with them all."

(The international uniform lseson for Oct. 28 is Acts 20:17-21; 28-38, the subject being "Paul's Last Journey to Jerusalem," and the Golden Text, Acts 20:35, "Remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.")

Love That Lasted

Professor Traces Celebration Of Hallowe'en To Mythical Story Of Orion, Diana And The Pleiades

DR. A. M. HARDING,
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 26.—If the mythical hunter, Orion, had not fallen in love with the seven nymphs of Diana and chased them through a forest, the world might not indulge now in the fun and frolic of the annual occasion, the night of October 31.

The origin of that occasion, commonly called Hallowe'en or All Hallow's Eve, is written in the sky and is based on a mythological love affair of years ago.

A study of the origin of Hallowe'en has been made by Dr. A. M. Harding, professor of mathematics and astronomy at the University of Arkansas. The festival is connected intimately with astronomy, and the date of its first celebration was determined by the stars, Dr. Harding says, although mythology furnishes a part of the story. Following is the mythological basis of Hallowe'en, according to Dr. Harding:

Diana, in additon to her duties as goddess of the moon, was goddess of hunting. Her interest in hunting led to her being closely associated with Orion, the son of Neptune, who was a handsome giant and one of the foremost hunters of his time.

One day, Orion met seven of Diana's nymphs in a forest and pursued them. As he was on the verge of overtaking them, they called upon the gods for assistance and were transformed into seven white doves which flew into the sky and were then changed into seven bright stars which now form the group called the Pleiades.

The frequent meetings of Orion and Diana could not long escape the notice of Apollo, god of the sun, who was jealous and who resolved to get rid of Orion. Meeting Diana in the forest one day, Apollo suggested that she, as a test of her markmanship, try to hit a small object that was rising and falling in the waves of the sea. Diana accepted the challenge, but the mark at which she aimed was the head of her lover, Orion, who was walking in the sea with his head above the water, a gift which had been bestowed upon him by his father, Neptune, god of the sea.

Killed Her Lover

The arrow hit its mark, and Orion sank into the sea. Diana, grief stricken, lifted his body from below the waves and placed it in the sky, where the constellation, Orion, may now be seen in winter nights "chasing" the Pleiades across the sky.

"As soon as the Pleiades had been transformed into a cluster of stars they began to attract attention," Dr. Harding says. "They occupy such a prominent position in the sky that many ancient peoples regulated their calendars by them, fixing the time of some of their festivals in such a way that they would always occur when the Pleiades were in a certain position in the sky at sunset.

"A festival regulated by the Pleiades seems to have been on of the most universal of all customs. We find among the records of many ancient nations traces of a New Year's festival which was held when the Pleiades were on the meridian at midnight. Since that happens in the month of November, it may be difficult at first to understand how this festival could be associated with New Year's day; but the month of November is near the beginning of spring in the southern hemisphere, and probably the custom originated south of the equator and was later introduced into the northern hemisphere.

Features of the Festival

"The festival of the Pleiades has four peculiar features by which it may be recognized, although the first feature will not be as prominent among the races of the north. We find that it was (1) a New Year's festival; (2) that it began at sunset; (3) that it continued for three days, and (4) that it was connected with the memmory of the dead.

"We of the twentieth century are celebrating this same pagan festival, first observed by the ancients years ago and which was regulated by the midnight culmination of the Pleiades. In memory of the dead, we, too, hold a three-day- festival, beginning on the evening of October 31. The last evening in October is Hallowe'en, November 1 is All Saints' Day, and November 2 is All Souls' Day.

"Like the ancient festival of the Pleiades, our three-day festival begins in the evening. While Hallowe'en is not exactly a festival of the dead, as we observe it, it is the beginning of such a festival.

This Will Tell You What Amendments Do

HARRISBURG, Oct. 25.—"There will be an unprecedented vote cast in every precinct in the state on November 6. In a majority of the precincts it is impossible to provide facilities fully adequate to accommodate a rush of voters. The ballot is larger than ever before, due to the fact that 14 proposed amendments to the state constitution are submitted to be voted upon separately.

"I suggest that each voter become familiar with the questions submitted so that a minimum amount of time is spent in the voting booth for an intelligent determination of the questions. This is part of the campaign to 'vote early and vote quickly' so that every person may have an opportunity within the time limit the polls will be open to exercise the right of franchise.

"I suggest that these amendments be read in advance of election day, thus saving time in the voting booth."—Charles Johnson, secretary of the commonwealth.

Here is an outline of what the amendments provide:

1—Gives the commonwealth the option of doing its own printing and binding, and a similar option in supplying furnishings, fuel, paper and stationery.

2—Authorizes the legislature to borrow $8,000,000 for erection and equipment of buildings at State College.

3—Authorizes the legislature to borrow $25,000,000 for the purchase of additional forest lands.

4—Authorizes the legislature to borrow $5,000,000 for armory construction.

5—Permits the legislature to provide general exemptions from inheritance taxes.

6—Permits courts of quarter sessions to divide and change election districts without regard to the number of electors. This amendment is essential to the use of voting machines.

7—Authorizes the legislature to permit Pittsburgh to levy special assessments against properties benefited by public improvements, even though they do not abut.

8—Raises the debt limit of second class cities from seven to ten per cent of the assessed valuation.

9—Authorizes the legislature to borrow an additional $50,000,000 for improving and rebuilding highways.

10—Authorizes the legislature to borrow $50,000,000 for lands and buildings for state-owned penal, correctional and mental institutions.

11—Raises Philadelphia's debt limit from 10 per cent of the taxable property (real and personal to 14 per cent of the taxable real estate and raises the limit of councilmanic loans from two to three per cent.

12—Permits reciprocal tax exemptions to residents of other states.

13—Permits the legislature to authorize the use of voting machines by community option.

14—Permits the legislature to allow the creation of metropolitan Pittsburgh by consolidation.

Editor's Note—We believe the above tells the story of the amendments in the least space possible to make their exact meanings clear. Its reproduction should be a real service to the voter who wants to consider each on its own merit. Make a note of how you want to vote and take it to the polls.

Speaks Languages Fluently; Many Conversant With Foreign Tongues

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—Many cities in Europe have in the last years taken to stationing at important traffic points policemen who speak one or more foreign languages, but it may be doubted whether any one of these cities can exhibit the mate to the pleasant faced man who directs traffic and answers questions at the busy corner of the Friedrich and Leipziger streets.

For this linguistic phenomenon speaks nine languages, and speaks them all perfectly—Swedish, Norwegian, Danish, Finnish, Russian, Bulgarian, Polish, English and French.

Wine Testers Get "Sippers" Disease

Stomachs Get Out Of Order Because Of Gastric Juice Flow

(International News Service)

PARIS, Oct. 26.—"Sippers' disease," the very latest one discovered in France, is not likely to bother many Americans on the other side of the water.

Dr. Leon Meunier, well-known French doctor, has recently observed that a mere sip of wine, if not swallowed, can play havoc with one's stomach. He made his experiments upon a number of "Sommeliers", the official wine-tasters in France, who can tell all about the age, quality and strength of any liquid by simply rolling a bit of it about the mouth and then ejecting it.

The doctor found all of their stomachs in bad condition and stated the reasons. When the wine enters the mouth the stomach gets ready to enjoy the treat and the gastric juices begin to flow. Their disappointment puts them into a bad state which later develops into what he has termed "sipper's disease".

Opinion Handed Down In Henley Estate Dispute

Limestone Leases In Mahoning Township Are Involved In Suit In Equity

ADJUSTMENT MADE BY COURT ORDER

In the case of Thomas J. Henley and Sarah E. Henley against I. Miller Henley and Auric C. Henley, over limestone leases in Mahoning township, Judge Chambers handed down an opinion today as follows: The plaintiffs, Thomas J. Henley and Sarah E. Henley, shall pay to I. Miller Henley $2,225 with interest from June 20, 1925, and the further sum of $2,500 with interest from November 20, 1925, being allowed as a credit thereon, however, all royalties received by I. Miller Henley on the interest of Thomas J. Henley in the limestone lease of the George W. Johnson Limestone Co. The plaintiff is further to pay to Auric C. Henley $1,000, being the principal sum due upon a mortgage given by Thomas J. Henley to Auric C. Henley dated December 7, 1925, with interest.

Upon the payment of the aforesaid sums the assignment dated June 20, 1925, and the conveyance and assignment dated November 10, 1925, given by Thomas J. Henley to I. Miller Henley for the interest of Thomas J. Henley in the royalties and minerals of John Henley, deceased, be cancelled and delivered by I. Miller Henley to the plaintiffs, and that Auric C. Henley satisfy the mortgage dated December 7, 1925, the title and interest of the said Thomas J. Henley in the lands of which John Henley died seized, being 117 acres upon which lease was given by John Henley, deceased, to the George W. Johnson Limestone Co., as well as the interest of the said Thomas J. Henley in the royalties under said lease be thereupon vested in Sarah E. Henley, plaintiff.

Northcott Wants Mother Released

Offers To Confess All If Officials Will Not Prosecute His Mother

(International News Service)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 26.—"I'll go back to California and plead guilty to all the charges against me if you'll promise not to bring poor mother into it."

Investigator James R. Quinn today declared he had received this amazing proposition from Gordon Stewart Northcott, Los Angeles, accused of four child slayings on his alleged "murder farm" near Riverside, Cal.

Northcott's mother, Mrs. Louisa Northcott is accused with him. She is in jail at Calgary and has been ordered extradited to the United States to face charges as an accessory.

Quinn intimated that he had refused to consider Northcott's offer to enter a pela of guilty to the murder. His offer is interpreted as an indication of "cracking" under the strain of imprisonment.

Northcott will be detained for another week due to non-arrival of extradition papers from Washington.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Right now there are a heap of people who are hoping for a break in the weather for tomorrow. Washington, Pa., is the mecca of football lovers and the roads between here and the home of Wash-Jeff will be crowded. Arrows indicating the route will be found all along the way, due to the courtesy of B. N. Hanlon of the New Castle Motor club and no driver should have any difficulty.

Of course you won't be indiscreet enough to call the city Little Washington. Time was when that name was good, but all it is good for now is to start an argument. The natives down there tell you that it isn't Little Washington, its Washington, Pa., so govern yourselves accordingly.

The folks take their football seriously down there and New Castle will have plenty of football on its hands. Hank Day hates to lose before the home folks and he also is smarting under the larruping handed him a year ago on Franklin Field. Hence, ergo and because of that look out for everything he has in the bag.

Washington is preparing a friendly reception in payment of the friendly reception they received here. Lets avoid arguments or brawls down there and show them that we appreciate courtesy.

Just a few days now until the solicitors for the Community Chest swing into action. Meet them with a smile. It's not their chest any more than it is yours and in addition to soliciting your subscription they are putting in their own.

It's facts not theories we're dealing with now. The facts are that the institutions in the Community Chest must be helped, else they must go down. Would you see them fail?

It's a community responsibility, yours and mine and all of us. Perhaps you can't kick in very heavily, but a little helps. Remember that phrase from The Vision of Sir Launfal. "Not what we give but what we share, for the gift without the giver is bare."

MAN WOUNDED IN PECULIAR ACCIDENT

BEAVER FALLS, Oct. 26.—A pistol falling from the pocket of a coat as it struck the floor, resulted in serious injury to Charles Davis, 25, West Mayfield. Davis is in the Providence hospital here with a gunshot wound in the abdomen.

Charles Stewart of Homewood a brother-in-law, told police that he and the injured man were sitting at a table studying a road map. Becoming overheated Stewart took off his coat to hang it over a chair when the pistol a 25-calibre slipped from the pocket and struck the floor. The report of the pistol was followed by a cry of pain from Davis.

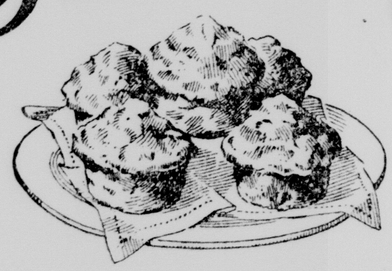
Bran muffins



This recipe makes the best you ever ate

2 tablespoons shortening, ¼ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup sour milk, 1 cup Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream shortening and sugar together, add egg. Mix and sift flour, soda, salt, and baking powder. To creamed mixture add ALL-BRAN, then milk, alternately with sifted dry ingredients. Pour into greased muffin tins, and bake in moderate oven (370° F.) for 20 minutes. Yield: either 8 large or 12 medium size muffins. If sweet milk is used instead of sour, omit soda and use 3 teaspoons baking powder.

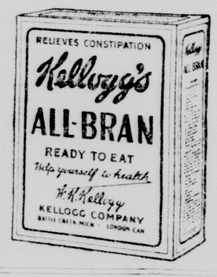
WAIT until you see those muffins as they come from the oven. Wonderfully light and fluffy—never soggy. And when you break one open and let a lump of butter melt in that tender texture, get ready for a taste experience such as you never had before. No other muffin ever had such a rich, nut-like flavor.

The fine thing about eating these wonderful muffins is the health they bring you. For that cupful of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN helps supply your eliminative system with bulk and fiber that prevents constipation. So many foods in our diet—meat, eggs, milk, sugar, fats—lack this necessary roughage.

But muffins are not the only food where you can get healthful and tasty results by adding ALL-BRAN. Put it in dressings. Sprinkle it in soups. Mix it in griddle cake batter.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is equally effective for health when eaten as a cereal. Doctors recommend it. But be sure you get the genuine Kellogg's. It is 100% bran and furnishes "bulk" in generous quantities. Part-bran products, at best, can only be part-way effective. Just eat two tablespoons of ALL-BRAN daily (chronic cases of constipation, with every meal). Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added.

Grocers everywhere sell Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Use it as a cereal or in cooking and you'll free yourself from constipation. Also from the use of habit-forming cathartics. For Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works as nature works. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.



Guaranteed!
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

Safety Record Is Celebrated

P. & O. Company Men Banquet At First Christian Church Thursday

SEVERAL SPEAKERS EMPHASIZE SAFETY

Safety was the keynote of the safety contest banquet, transportation department, Penn-Ohio system, held on Thursday in the dining hall of the First Christian church, this city.

The banquet was held in celebration of the New Castle division having captured the July, August and September campaign and the division now is competing against other divisions in the last or final test.

According to statistics the operators of busses and cars have operated 53,136 miles, or more than "twice around the world" without an accident being chargeable to the division.

Coulthard Presides.

During the banquet C. C. Coulthard, local superintendent, presided as chairman; R. N. Graham as toastmaster, and addresses were made by Mayor Gillespie, Police Chief Horner, Ralph Swegan and Howard Shaner. After declaring the attendance of employes with wives was an inspiration for increased safety measures, C. C. Coulthard as chairman turned the meeting over to Manager of Railways Graham.

He said he felt it an honor to attend and expressed thanks to President Douglas of the safety association of the employes and extended the company's congratulations to New Castle division employes. He said that safety is a national problem and after dealing with statistics called upon Mayor Gillespie to address the gathering and the mayor responded ably.

Mayor Gillespie said that accident is defined as a "directing of which thou canst see." "Everyone is in a hurry but what they do when they arrive is more than I can tell." The chief executive of the city then dealt with statistics furnished by a state bureau relating how accidents occur and when.

Some of Facts.

He said the statistics showed:

There are more auto collisions than any other form of accident. The hours between which most accidents occur are between 5 and 6 and next 7 and 8 p. m. The age of persons who figured in most accidents are between 15 and 40. There are more accidents on Saturday than any other day. The statistics also said there are more accidents on state highways than city streets because there are more state roads. In cities most accidents, he said, occur at intersections. The underlying cause for most city accidents, he says, is caused by persons being unable to see from behind parked cars or around crossings.

The mayor said that jaywalking should be abandoned but pointed out that before stepping from a curb persons should look to the left and when they reach the middle of the street should look to the right. "Do this and many accidents may be avoided," he stated.

Congratulates New Castle.

Ralph Swegan, Trumbull division, congratulated New Castle on winning the last test but said he expressed the truth when he hopes Trumbull wins the final three months campaign.

Better Than Any Diet

LAY less attention to what you eat; not one person in a thousand need diet; or ever really has indigestion. Acidity, flatulence and heartburn are caused by excess stomach acid and food fermentation.

Following a hasty lunch, or too hearty a dinner, a little "Pape's Diapepsin," instantly neutralizes excess acidity, stops that fermentation, and soothes and heals the acid-inflamed stomach lining as if by magic. Your recovery is quick, and complete. Make a special point of getting a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from your druggist today, and so follow the example of millions all over the world who use "Pape's Diapepsin" to end indigestion and allied stomach troubles.

With "Pape's Diapepsin" handy you can eat and enjoy whatever you fancy without fear of pain or discomfort to follow. At any rate, it's worth the trial, for lots of folks have found a new freedom at the table.

C. C. Horner, chief of police, this city, said:

"Traffic is a big problem here. I have found the P-O officials and employes glad to cooperate in all safety movements. When patrons alight from cars or busses, they should go directly to the curb. The jaywalker is a menace, to himself, cars and automobilists. The careless and drunken driver of an auto is a big menace. In the majority of accidents carelessness or 'drink' is discovered to be the cause. The man who always wants to be at the head of 'traffic' is another menace. His 'hurry' brings on accidents.

"As chief of police I am happy to know the men of New Castle division have been victors. I know every man, I have lived with them, associated with them and there is a cooperation which goes far for safety. I want to congratulate New Castle division."

Howard Shaner, safety director of the P-O system, concluding speaker, spoke briefly but in the main said: "Congratulations to New Castle. The record is exceptionally fine in view of conditions, hills and narrow streets. Without safety you cannot succeed and with safety you can." was his advice.

During the banquet a musical hit, typifying a "thick" musical act, went over big.

The menu was exceptionally fine and consisted of fruit cocktail, roast chicken, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, baked corn, 24-hour salad and celery, rolls, butter, coffee, ice cream, cake, mints and candy.

Music was furnished by the Penn-Ohio orchestra of which Paul D. Hunt is the director.

General Motors Co. Earns $240,000,000 During Nine Months

Increases Earnings Almost 25 Per Cent Over Those Of Last Year

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Net earnings of the General Motors corporation for nine months ended September 30 were $240,534,613, an increase of 24.1 per cent over the corresponding period last year, according to an official statement made today by Alfred Sloan, president of the corporation.

Sloan pointed out that earnings in the period, amounting to approximately $13.42 a share on the common stock, were greater than the whole year 1927, which in turn was a record-breaker for the "steel corporation of the motor industry." In the first nine months of 1927 General Motors earned $10.75 a share.

Earnings for the third quarter totaled $79,266,639, against $64,593,695 for the same period last year, a gain of $14,758,544. Retail sales to dealers in the nine months period totaled approximately 1,576,708 cars, against 1,263,445 cars in the corresponding period of 1927, a gain of 24.5 per cent.

Study Lives Of 3,000 Prisoners Out On Parole

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 26.—Do paroled prisoners make good after they gain their freedom or do they continue to be a menace to society?

This question, theme of many a movie plot and piece of fiction, is partially answered as the result of an investigation of the Illinois prisons and parole system in 3,000 cases selected for study. The cases were taken "mine run"—not carefully selected. The cards were taken from the files in consecutive order as the men had been released.

Not one of the paroled prisoners had been away from the prison for less than two and one half years. One thousand came from the state penitentiary at Joliet, 1,000 from the Chester penitentiary and 1,000 from Pontiac.

Records Checked.

The records of what these released prisoners have done were checked over by members of the faculties of the University of Illinois, University of Chicago and Northwestern university.

Charges that the habitual offender, due to his knowledge of "the ropes" regains his freedom more easily than the novice were found to be false. Of the 3,000 cases, 55.8 per cent of those paroled were first offenders, 31.3 per cent were occasional offenders, 11.0 per cent habitual offenders and only 1.5 per cent professional offenders. Classification in the case of 4-10 of 1 per cent could not be made.

Of the 1,000 men released from Pontiac, 726 presumably had fulfilled the conditions of their parole. The remainder had been declared parole violators.

These parole violators are of two classes, the minor and the major violater. Minor violators are guilty of technical errors but must be kept track of the same as those deliberately breaking their pledges.

The committee also went into the behavior of the parolees after they had been released from the supervision of the person to whom the prisoners had been paroled and had become free men.

Out of the 726 men discharged from parole, after Pontiac, records show that 59 were back in state prisons, three had been killed in gang wars and one was wanted for murder.

The result of the study revealed that of the 3,000 cases 10.9 per cent of the men were guilty of minor violations and 14.7 per cent of major violations prior to completion of parole. This indicates that approximately 15 out of every 100 men released on parole will be returned for some crime before completion of their parole.

Therefore, the commission pointed out, the problem is to find out what type of man will make good and what type will fail before paroles are granted. A table of expectancy has been worked out.

Roumania's King Is Ambidexterous

Young King Michael Can Write With Either Right Or Left Hand

(International News Service)

BUCHAREST, Oct. 26. — King Michael of Rumania can now write his name with his right hand.

And the Royal household is rejoicing at this exhibition of a conquering spirit which promises a strong ruler in the future.

Britain Will Try To Keep Flying Cup

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Britain is to make a determined bid to keep the Schneider Trophy in her possession.

The famous silver trophy, which was won last year by the English team from American and Italian pilots at Venice, Italy, is regarded as the foremost international flying prize.

Already, it is understood, the British team which will compete in next year's race for the prize at Calshot, Southampton, has been selected. The flyers will thus have nearly a year in which to practice and accustom themselves to the terrific speeds which will be flown.

The team will be under the command of Flight-Lieutenant D'Arcy Greig, the famous British speed pilot who is attempting to establish new speed records.

British Workers Nervous Ailments To Be Tabulated

Will Show Extent Of Illnesses In Various Occupations By Tests

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 26.—British workers are to be tested by experts, with the object of showing the extent and nature of nervous illness in various occupations.

This big task has been undertaken by the Industrial Fatigue Research board, and already a vast number of workers have been examined. The effect of nervous disorders on their output will be computed and the results collated.

"Of over 1,000 workers I have tested, less than 50 per cent had no nervous symptoms," said Dr. Millais Culpin, psycho-neurosis lecturer at the London Hospital Medical college.

On the other hand, the biggest firms of constructional engineers in Britain said that their ordinary workmen are never troubled with nerves. On the contrary they declare that, when it comes to working on high buildings their difficulty is to prevent men from taking unnecessary risks.

William Larkins, the most famous steeplejack in Britain, states that at the age of 54 he can climb chimneys and steeplejacks as well as he could 30 years ago, and if anything, his nerves are firmer than they then were.

English Flappers Now Getting Sloppy

Are More Careless Of Personal Appearance, Say Merchants

(International News Service)

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., Oct. 26.—Jewelers of this city state that "Miss 1928" is paying far less attention to her personal appearance than the flappers of a year ago.

They base their belief upon the fact that there has been a remarkable decline in the sale of small mirrors such as are fitted to women's handbags, and without which the modern miss was considered at one time, not complete.

Sales of such mirrors, they say, have dropped from hundred gross orders to mere two and three gross orders, and even these orders are scarce.

There isn't a whole lot of comfort to be extracted from the statement of Dr. Bishop, well known entomologist, that of 500 species of fleas only six are annoying. One flea of one species can play hob with us.

War Time Methods By Moscow To Sell Big Industry Loan

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Oct. 26.—War-time methods are being used to sell the 500,000,000 ruble "Second Loan for Industrialization," the largest internal floatation ever attempted by the Soviets. Though President Kalinin announced that the government frowned upon the use of pressure and intimidation in selling the lottery bonds to the people, trade union officials have adopted this method quite openly.

Trade union members, both men and women, are being asked to contribute from four to eight percent of their annual wages for the bonds. The regular amount requested is from one-half to a full month's wage from those receiving 100 rubles ($50) or more a month. By inference, opportunities for promotion and even the holding of jobs is made dependent upon loan purchases.

The voluntary response has been cheerless. The vast majority of workers and peasant barely make enough to live. What little they managed to save they spent for their holidays. Provite merchants and kulaks (rich peasants) are unwilling to touch their stowed away profits for fear of disclosing the fact that they possess wealth in currency form.

The loan is intended for capital improvements to industry and in villages. It is the first time that the two objects have been combined in one loan to arouse general participation.

Forney Gives Valuable Information In Graft Probe In Pittsburgh

'Higher-Ups'' Believed Enmeshed As So-Called Slot Machine King Talks

District Attorney Gardner Very Well Satisfied With His Latest Move

By BURL A. ELY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—Smiling confidently and mysteriously—undoubtedly over the testimony of Al W. Forney, so-called "king of the slot machine racket," who is believed to have revealed the "lowdown" on Pittsburgh's city administration—District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner swung into the preparation of presentments today and possibly 200 indictments in the city's vice probe.

What the slot machine baron, who was summoned from his cell in the county jail, where he is serving a six months' federal court sentence, told the county grand jury investigating charges of collusion between the city administration and "racketeers", is a secret—but it is also satisfactory, according to Gardner.

"Higher-Ups" Enmeshed.

"Higher-ups", men who are believed to have sat behind beautiful mahogany desks and raked in money from gambling and vice "rackets", men who are believed to have collected graft and even city officials who are accused by Alderman John J. Verona, deposed police magistrate and hill district "political boss" of protecting these "rackets", are believed to have been enmeshed by Forney's testimony before the grand jury.

District Attorney Gardner himself asserted that Forney was a "most helpful witness and uncovered some very important information." This, combined with Forney's lengthy session has struck a note of fear into those entangled in the investigation.

Reticent Witness.

Forney appeared as a reticent witness. His appearance climaxed weeks of discussion and similiarly weeks of testimony-gathering which according to Gardner was to serve as a background of evidence to be substantiated by the slot machine baron.

Brought from the county jail Forney, shying away from newspaper men and photographers, went into secret conference with the district attorney. A short time later he went before the grand jury.

More than an hour Forney remained closeted with the jury. As the long session dragged on it was evident among the crowd of spectators who had gathered in the corridors outside the jury room that some were nervous over the lengthy inquisition.

Cowers From Crowd.

When Fornew re-appeared from the jury room he again shied away from photographers and newspaper men and scurried away actually running to escape the sight of the crowd.

"Forney told much that will be helpful" Gardner said after the jury session. "He did not tell everything I would like to know, but possibly all that he knew."

Discussing the preparation of the presentments Gardner said he expected to have it ready to submit to Judge James B. Drew not later than next Tuesday.

The work of preparing the indictments will be pushed as rapidly as possible he said. Before this is completed however it will be necessary to call additional witnesses next week.

Another way to cut down on your rations is to go out regularly with fellows who are slow to reach for the check.

Policeman Freed Of Graft Charge, Captain On Trial

Counsel For Philadelphia Police Captain Will Not Call Witnesses

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26. — Police Captain Charles Cohen was left as the sole defendant in the conspiracy and bribery trial before Judge James Gay Gordon today when the court ordered judgment entered in favor of Policeman Frank De Rose who was being tried with Cohen. The state then closed its case.

Assistant District Attorney Bryan A. Hermes admitted there was no evidence upon which De Rose could be convicted of conspiracy, bribery and extortion. Judge Gordon immediately discharged the jury from further consideration of De Rose's case.

Despite the urgent protests of William A. Gray, counsel for Cohen, who maintained the special grand jury is an illegal body, documents pertaining to Cohen's bank accounts were introduced.

Hermes then closed the commonwealth's case with a brief summation.

Gray announced he would call no defense witnesses but merely present points of law as a defense for his client.

Patrolman Will Try To Identify Trio By Photos

State Highway Patrolman Says Girl Thug Pleaded For His Life

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 26.—State Highway Patrolman Russell Troup, who was kidnaped Wednesday night by a girl and two youths along a road west of here, was to go to Harrisburg late today to attempt to identify the trio by pictures in the rogues gallery.

Troup, who was inspecting headlights with a companion, was relieved of his revolver and black jack and taken to a small town outside of Baltimore, Md., where he was released.

He said that there was a possibility that the girl, who pleaded with her companions not to kill him, had undoubtedly saved his life. Troup also expressed the opinion that the trio may have been linked up with three murders that have occurred recently.

Following receipt of Troup's story and descriptions of his kidnapers, police of Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland began a search for the girl and the two youths.

Cochrane filed his suit at the close of the last sessions of congress, charging that the senator had slandered him in a speech accusing him of unethical conduct.

Stirring Scenes At Big Tabernacle

Revival At Everybody's Tabernacle Brings Many To Altar

SPECIAL PROGRAMS ARE SCHEDULED

Although the weather conditions kept down the number of people attending the services at Everybody's Tabernacle, South Mill street, between Division and Friendship streets, Thursday evening, there was the most general manifestation of an earnest revival spirit and healing that has yet occurred at the meetings in progress there under the leadership of Evangelist C. H. Erickson.

Much of the earlier part of the service was devoted to testimony offered by persons who have professed their belief in Jesus Christ and His healing power.

Evangelist Erickson took the parable of the rich man and Lazarus, the beggar, as the basis of his address for the evening and delivered a most powerful appeal that all be prepared for the heareafter and not, like the rich man, who had everything of a material nature on earth, find themselves in torment or hell after death where a change of spirit will be of no avail.

The evangelist emphasized the fact that it is not the material things of this earth that would take us to heaven, but rather our actions on earth and whether or not we accept the teachings of Jesus Christ.

A vivid word picture of the rich man in the torments of hell viewing the peace and happiness of Lazarus, the beggar, in Heaven and calling upon Lazarus to help him in his misfortune, was presented by the evangelist to illustrate the fact that the often repeated story that "those in hell will have lots of company" means no comfort to the person who may as a result of this life find themselves in the life hereafter in hell. He also drew attention to the rather striking situation of a man in hell praying for someone else, as the rich man did in seeking the assistance of Lazarus in preventing his brothers from coming to the same place of torment as he was in. The evangelist called attention to the fact that even in this and in spite of his torment that the rich man was still selfish and thinking of himself rather than others.

With the close of his sermon Evangelist Erickson made an appeal to those who had not yet professed their faith in Christ to come forward, and in this plea he was assisted by the efforts of a number of workers.

An Alliance colored quintette sang "I'm Coming Home", six men and women advanced to the altar.

While Evangelist Erickson and numerous workers prayed with the converts the quintette led the congregation in the singing of "I Surrender All" and "Oh How I Love Jesus", which have become the favorite hymns of the people who fill the tabernacle each night.

Then followed the anointing of persons seeking relief from various physical afflictions.

Friday night Evangelist Erickson will deliver the most important of his series of sermons on divine healing, in which he will explain away objections to the same. His topic will be: "Are the Days of Miracles Past?" He also promises a surprise for all those attending.

The service Saturday evening will include selections by Brother Lacey of the Alliance quintette and his wife, including "Jonah and the Whale". Lacey will use his famous ukelele. Evangelist Erickson himself will sing at this service by request the selection, "I Need a Little More Religion".

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the evangelist will preach on "The Holy Spirit". There will be the usual big service Sunday evening. The morning services are beins held at 10:30 a. m. and are attracting growing crowds.

Weather conditions proved no hinderance to a group of enthusiastic friends of Evangelist Erickson and party, who motored here Thursday from Oil City to attend the service last night.

Among the workers at the tabernacle last night was Rev. George B. Morgan of Corry, Pa., a former local man. He and his wife were the guests yesterday of Rev. Morgan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Morgan, of Taylor street.

Mrs. Anna Jenkins and daughter Edith of Wilkinsburg are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Parker of the Erickson evangelistic party. Mr. Parker is a member of the Alliance quintette.

Additional heating facilities have been added, assuring the comfort of those attending the evangelistic services in the tabernacle.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25—Under the personal direction of Mrs. Worthington Scranton, working from headquarters in Philadelphia, the entire eastern part of Pennsylvania has been organized and chairmen appointed for the drive for small contributions to the Hoover-Curtis Legion's nation-wide drive for one million contributors, the Republican national committee states.

In Pittsburgh, according to committee spokesmen, W. L. Mellon has opened a Legion headquarters in the Frick Building from which all Western Pennsylvania small gift activities will be directed by Mrs. Clifton A. Verner. To her committee, Mrs. Verner has named Mrs. John Lawrence, Mrs. George Ebbert and Mrs. Marsh Rees.

The national headquarters has assigned to Pennsylvania a quota of 130,000 of the one million contributors being sought the country over.

NEW CASTLE — OUR CASTLE!

by The Woman's Club — Organized in 1897.

"GOD COULDN'T BE EVERYWHERE, SO HE MADE MOTHERS."

In this proverb, even the pagan recognizes in the mother, a God appointed guardian of the race.

Our own city knows no greater need than just such guardianship or mothering—for our homes, for our schools, for our recreations and for our public housekeeping. To aid such work is the aim of this column.

OF IMPORTANCE TO NEW CASTLE

Does it mean anything to the welfare and happiness of the home that the woman who reigns over it can prepare appetizing meals? That she understands the chemistry of foods and the combinations which make a balanced meal? That she knows how to budget and to buy economically? That she knows values in textiles as well as of foods? That she knows the dress proper to the occasion and can make her own clothes? That she understands the tasteful arrangement of home furnishings and how to take care of a home?

If it does, you will agree that the course in home economics introduced this year into the senior high school is bound to prove a valuable asset to New Castle in the direct benefits to be enjoyed by its homes.

A VOCATIONAL COURSE

The junior high school course is not lessened in value because of the senior course but rather added importance on account of the necessity for a solid foundation for the advanced work. Owing to the fact that all the junior high girls are required to take sewing and cooking, each girl gets a turn at each branch only once a week. This naturally limits the scope of the work and makes possibilities of work accomplished correspondingly slow. But a thorough grounding in the elements of these branches gives readiness and confidence in taking up the more comprehensive course which is really vocational and in addition to preparing the girl to make a home, opens up a number of lines of making a livelihood.

VALUE PLACED UPON HOME ECONOMICS BY STATE

The state department of education fixes the requirements of work to be covered by this course and the time devoted to it. With these fulfilled, state and federal treasuries pay 80 per cent of the cost of operating expenses.

CAREFUL PLANNING REQUIRED

This course, Mr. Orth explains, may be a part of a general, commercial or academic course. But it must begin with the sophomore year and four periods daily must be devoted to it during sophomore and junior years and three periods daily during the senior year. The points given for this work as the same as for academic work. It cannot be taken up by junior or senior girls.

MOTHERS INTERESTED IN WORK

Mrs. Healy, head of this department, reports interest in the work by mothers as well as the girls. The work is made intensely practical by the girls bringing individual home problems to be worked out in the class. For example, each girl brings a drawing of her room made to a scale and with the arrangement of furnishings marked. These are gone over in class and suggestions made for improvement.

TEA FOR MOTHERS

Last week Mrs. Healy had a tea for the mothers in her own home which gave an opportunity to become acquainted and for the mothers to gain a better understanding of the aims of the work.

HELPING THE CAFETERIA

The girls of this class are already giving valuable assistance in the preparation and serving of the noon lunch for the high school. It is also in the plan to do all the laundry work—such as towels, napkins, etc., for the building.

This column aims to keep in touch with the home economics department and our readers may hear from it frequently.

LUCY AMES MEAD TO ADDRESS CLUB

In addition to the program scheduled for next Monday, the Woman's club has in store the unexpected pleasure of hearing Mrs. Lucy Ames Mead of Boston. George Foster Peabody says of Mrs. Mead: "I have known Mrs. Mead intimately for a generation. She has perhaps the best informed mind respecting international relations of any woman in the United States. It would be a high privilege for any body of students or teachers to hear her. She stands in the forefront of the citizens of whom the United States is justly proud, and is greatly esteemed in Europe as well as America."

This privilege comes through the efforts of the department of applied education.

French Motors Bewilder People

Automobile Popularization Is Just Beginning In France

MANY MODELS ARE DISPLAYED AT SHOW

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The French, in the matter of automobiles, are about where Americans were eight or nine years ago. I do not refer to manufacturing, for from some points of view France, which first produced motor-cars for private use, has always led the way in design.

But the popularizing of the automobile is just beginning in this country, and most purchasers of cars, or intending purchasers, are people who have never owned a car and know little about what kind of vehicle they want.

A visit to the automobile show confuses them more than it enlightens them. They are bewildered, wondering whether they ought to purchase a seven-passenger sedan of a toy-size runabout, and as for mere technical difference they are completely up in the air.

The confusion is increased by the fact that whereas in America the motor-car is becoming standardized, the opposite tendency has prevailed in Europe. There are cars of all shapes and sizes. Big manufacturers like Renault and Peugeot can give you anything from a tiny vehicle that resembles a motor-driven baby-carriage to a gigantic multi-cylindered affair that looks like a torpedo-boat on wheels. And every year sees model after model discarded in favor of something radically different.

Citroen, who is called the "French Ford," has abandoned his policy of making a single model, and comes out this year with a six and a four, both new. It means, necessarily, scrapping a tremendous amount of machinery, and it also means greatly enlarging the plant. It is therefore ont surprising that unlike Mr. Ford, Citroen has been unable to reduce prices to a really popular level.

The Citroen remains the cheapest standard-sized car manufactured here, but it costs over $1,000.

Still, the industry is advancing by leaps and bounds, and another five or six years will undoubtedly see the number of motor-cars in France doubled.

Church Unity Is Nearer, Says Closing Letter From Bishops

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The triennial Episcopal convention closed Thursday with the reading of a pastoral letter from the house of bishops to the clergy which urged them to strive for the unity of all churches and demanded they cling closer to the expressed doctrine of their own.

The letter declared the goal of universal church unity which "30 years ago men spoke of as a mere dream" has come appreciably nearer and must be striven for by all members of the church.

WHAT IS COLLEGE FOR?

The student who gets most out of college and college life will get more than a record for scholarship. Mind training and excellence in scholarship are first, but they are not all. College is for contact. Contacts influence character. College is for broadening and for wide-eyed tolerance, and it is also for the foundation of sound convictions. It is to round out a young man and to bring him to the gate of maturity with some idea of what he can do and what he wants to do.

College is for the formation of studious habits and also for the formation of proper social and physical habits. College is for the making of lasting friendships among those whose friendship is a worthy possession.

Let us not be too greatly alarmed because Columbia university reports that non-fraternity men have a higher scholastic rating than fraternity men. Fraternity life has a contribution to make to character and it is usually the right sort of contribution.

The value of college must be judged not from one viewpoint but from many angles.

Use For Static Is Now Found In Storm Warning

Noise Which Preceded Storm Will Be Recorded On Machines

MACHINE TO TELL SOURCE OF STORM

Loss Of Life Could Have Been Averted In Porto Rico, Says Official

By ALFRED T. NEWBERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—A use has been found for static!

The Navy Department believes the offensive clatter the radio detects from ether waves will some day save the lives and property of fans it harrasses.

Static, featured impromptuly several times a week over the loud speaker, will not play its helpful part by "drowning out" an entertaining orchestra or an interesting speech, Lt. F. W. Reicheiderfer, Bureau of Aeronautics, thinks the mysterious din will warn of approaching storms.

The Navy Department has already identified static with storms. The noise, usually precedes a storm.

To Keep Record

With this knowledge in hand static recorders, similar to radio storm detectors, are to be placed on the Airplane Carrier Lexington or Saratoga within the next six months. The clatter recorders are being installed at the following stations, Anacostia, Va., Hampton Roads, Va., Lakehurst, N. J., Coco Solo, Canal Zone, and Pensacola, Fla.

The machines will accurately record the static, its volume, probable source and other details. This data will be valuable to the Weather Bureau in formulating storm warnings.

Lieutenant Reicheiderfer is of the opinion that use of static observations to determine the location and existence of storm will be successful if all storms cause static impulses. He added some storms are accompanied by static that is hard to trace. But experience has proven static observations have been successful more times than defeated, he added.

With Thunder Storms

Static accompanying thunderstorms known to the navy experts as "crashes" but occasionally only "clicks" are heard. The variety of static so annoying to radio listeners is identified as "grinders." This type is connected with far-distant thunderstorms. Some experts believe "grinders" emanate from atmospheric conditions far in the heavens and distinct from any weather condition.

The static recorders are expected to show just what causes the "grinders" to grind through the ether into the millions of loud speakers throughout the country.

If the Navy's research reveals static is a signal a storm is approaching it will be welcomed by radio fans living in sections frequented by hurricanes.

Should static have been recognized as a storm signal many residents of Porto Rico, Florida, Virgin Islands and western cities, killed by the West Indian hurricanes, probably would have fled to cover, weather officials said.

Automobiles Run Into Deer At Night

Connecticut Cars Are Blockaded For Hours By Skunk Barrages

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 26.—Wild life in Connecticut has been taking to the highways at night, this fall, and making trouble. Milford, on the shore, and Winsted, in the highlands, report a case apiece of a deer trying to buck a motor car off the road at night.

The casualties were limited to the deer. Pheasants stroll down the paved roads regardless of danger, and there are cases on record where skunks have blockaded traffic while crossing the roads. The examples of wild life have been found mostly in those sections posted against hunters.

MINER IS SERIOUSLY INJURED IN FALL OF ROCK NEAR BUTLER

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 26.—Caught under a fall of rock at the number one mine of the Vogeley Coal company, Mike Lucko, aged 43, of Butler R. D. 3, is in a serious condition at the Butler County Memorial hospital. He is suffering from several broken ribs and an injury to his lower back. X-ray pictures have been taken and until they have been developed the full extent of his injuries cannot be determined.

Lucko had gone into work and was sitting in the room eating when without warning, a fall of rock, estimated at 500 pounds fell on him. He was struck a glancing blow by the fall and the force of the fall threw him over the rails of the track, causing the injury to his ribs.

Workmen who were in the room with him rushed to his aid and the rock were lifted from him and he was brought to the surface. He was taken to the local hospital in the Chambers ambulance.

Frenzied Finance

Bankers Warn Against Stock Speculation; Now Become One Of Greatest Among National Pastimes

By ALEXANDER C. HERMAN
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—This country is on a speculative jag, warn the foremost bankers of the nation, assembled here for an annual convention. But the sober era may soon be dawning.

In the awakening, hang-overs may not be so pleasant. But a healthier state of affairs will ensue.

"The great rewards of business and banking during the next decade," says Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Co., "will probably go to the plodders rather than the plotters, to the calculators instead of the speculators, to the thrifty and not to the shifty."

And the other big moneyed men, headed by Thomas R. Preston, president of the American Bankers' association, echo similar sentiments.

For Wall Street, the all powerful, is being carried away with itself. It doesn't seem to have the slightest notion of how far it is going—or where. But before it comes back to normalcy, it may find itself edged off the financial pages onto the sports section.

Nation Playing Market.

Inland America seems to be putting high finance on a purely sporting basis. It has made "playing the market" a very democratic game—with menials rubbing shoulders with masters in the brokerage offices thruout the country.

At first it was an indoor sport. But now, with office congestion, the play is fast becoming outdoor. There isn't enough room inside.

In Florida, where boom towns have banged, normal activity is at a low. But the brokers' offices are jammed. Even hurricane reconstruction demands haven't stayed the speculative craze.

In the middle west, and in the far, watching the ticker has become a popular daily routine. And here, in the eastern centers of finance, it is a record day when some new record isn't smashed.

Not so long ago, a million-share-day on the big board (where the stock exchange figures are listed) was considered a big day's work. A year ago a two-million-share daily transaction was first page news. A few months ago a three million day was recorded. Now four million shares have become the vogue. And there is a five million threat.

Tickers run an hour behind time; clerks are driven ragged; the financial houses work into the night. For a time the exchanges had to be closed on Saturdays to give the brokers a chance to catch up. The country is speculation mad.

What's to Happen?

Yet no one—even those in on the "know"—have any idea where the sport is heading. A stock, with a book value of less than $25, sells for around $200 a share—for a time. An executive of the leading speculation of the day has never made a cent on any of its stock. In fact, he sold some of it "short" when it was selling for half of its present price. Another insider, head of one of the large brokerage houses, is short many hundred shares of a stock which he sold at 95 a few weeks ago. It then went up to around 200.

And so it goes. Those who ought to know, don't. Those who have no way of knowing, play blindly. And the market soars and gyrates.

There is constant talk of the bubble bursting. But there has been that talk since last fall. And yet nothing has happened of consequence. The talk continues—but the buying goes on.

When the airplane stocks dropped 40 points one afternoon, after phenomenal rises, the wise ones started pulling their "I-told-you-sos . . ." But it wasn't for long. For a recovery came. And the selling orders which brought the market down, in face of expert manipulation for an upturn, shifted suddenly to purchases. And Wall Street breathed more easily.

But there is no knowing for how long.

A Hazardous Game.

For the bug to play the market seems to be gripping tens of thousands of inland folk, who never speculated before. It is a bug akin to that which drives one into betting on horse racing. And the sport is as hazardous—if not more so.

"The best tip I can give—and it is the only one worth taking ever," says a well known manipulator, "is play say—by not playing at all.

"If one just has to buy, let him buy smaller quantities outright. Playing on margins is playing with fire. And the burning is inevitable."

But the Wall Street that is spreading through every Main Street never listens to a moral.

PLAYING SAFE.

"Yes I always pay a debt of honor."

"Then perhaps" said the tailor "I'd better bet you this suit of clothes."

Walter Johnson is going to manage for Clark Griffith, and maybe a couple of years after, providing he doesn't make the mess of things Bucky Harris did. Bucky only got a couple of pennants for Griffith out of three or four starts.

In one Illinois town patients must pay physicians in advance. It takes cash to turn a stomach into appendicitis in that town.—The Adrian Daily Telegram.

Iron And Steel Markets Continue To Show Gains

The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade says: The fundamental strength of the iron and steel market is emphasized by continued advances in primary materials. Prices of pig iron, scrap and coke have made fresh gains, giving added support to an already strong situation in finished products.

The pressure of steel producers to increase output has magnified the scarcity of scrap, and a consequent driving of blast furnaces to obtain a compensating increase in pig iron tonnage has created extra demands for furnace coke. Heavy melting scrap at Pittsburgh has advanced another 25c to $18 a ton, an increase of $4 a ton since the third week in July and the highest price since September, 1926. Furnace coke at Connellsville, after rising 10c a ton last week, has gone up another 5c to $2.90.

The pig iron market is also feeling the effects of the enlarged needs of steel companies. Their refusal to sell the surplus supplies has created a shortage of basic iron in the valleys in the face of several sizeable inquiries. This factor for price strength in what is primarily a steel producing district is matched by expanding demands for foundry grades in other territories.

At Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Ironton, foundry iron has advanced 50c a ton.

In finished steel there are evidences, although not yet conclusive, that the peak of activity has been passed. At Pittsburgh shipments exceed incoming business in most products, notably bars, plates and shapes. At Cleveland a decline in bookings is also reported, but in the east the tonnage taken so far this month in the heavier rolled products has kept pace with that entered in the corresponding weeks in September.

Steel production still holds at close to 90 per cent of capacity. Slightly reduced output is reported by valley mills.

Current recession in the demand from the automotive industry is regarded as temporary, pending the starting of production on new models about the middle of next month. The Chevrolet company, the largest manufacturer bringing out a new car, has released its first orders for body steel and will shortly buy fender stock. Makers of automobile frames will resume operations at close to capacity in the third week of November.

Railroad equipment inquiries are increasing when car scarcity is being reported for the first time in several years. Whether this coincidence is significant or not, in view of the fact that instances of car stringency are isolated and by no means alarming, the week brought the Rock Island into the market for 2750 cars and the Canadian National for an additional 1500. Early inquiries are expected from the Missouri Pacific for 3000 cars and from the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh for 1000 box cars with its own shops.

The Roxana Petroleum Co. has divided 45,000 tons of 10 in. pipe for an oil line from McCamey to Houston, Tex., between a Youngstown and a Pittsburgh mill.

Curtis Asserts Smith Called Tariff Hold-up

Nominee Elated By G. O. P. Sentiment He Found In Upper New York State

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 26.—In his final eastern appearance Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice presidential nominee, called for the continuance of Republican rule for the maintenance of "prosperity".

The senator again stressed the tariff issue, telling the audience of this industrial city that the Democrats "cannot be trusted to afford proper tariff protection for American products in lieu of their 50 years' assault against the tariff". He read a speech by Governor Smith in 1922 in which he said the governor termed the tariff a "cold-blooded and deliberate hold-up of the American people".

This is the third upper New York city visited by Senator Curtis this week and he expressed gratification to the leaders over Republican enthusiasm he said he had found in Governor Smith's state.

Horse Killer Freed From His Life Term

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 25.—Mike Palmero of McKeesport is not to spend the rest of his days in jail for killing his horse, although Mike had believed his sentence amounted to that, Judge James B. Drew decided today that three months in jail was penalty enough for killing one's horse, so Mike was pardoned.

Mike entered upon his term when he couldn't pay a $20 fine imposed by Alderman James J. Lundie. "Pay the fine," said the alderman, "or go to jail until released by due process of law".

Mike said he would have to go to jail because he didn't have the money. Three months passed and the warden of the county jail went to Judge Drew and explained the case. The judge told Mike to go home.

Chaliapin Plans To Retire Soon

World Famous Basso Plans To Quit At Heighth Of Career

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Feodor Chaliapin, the famous Russian singer, conceded by all experts to be the greatest basso of all time, is contemplating retirement while at the zenith of his career, it was learned today by International News Service.

An intimation of Chaliapin's intention was given when he was here on a concert tour. He was asked whether he planned to hear Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, the beautiful American evangelist, during her meetings here. He said he did not, but added "in about two years I shall open a little monastery of my own."

Now his friends reveal that Chaliapin intends to retire, unless he changes his mind. He plans to spend the remaining years of his life in cloister-like solitude away from the hurly burly of cities. His "monastery", however, is not likely to be a somber affair of sack cloth and ashes. There will probably be plenty of music and laughter.

Young Men Establish And Maintain Free Clubs For Scioto Street Boys

Fifty-Five Boys Now Helped By Four Clubs Organized By Phalanx

Members of the Phalanx, Y. M. C. A. fraternity, have passed a resolution to furnish funds for materials needed in the establishment and maintenance of four boys clubs in the Scioto street district of New Castle. The four clubs have been established and now 55 boys are receiving four fold training and given free classes in the Y. M. C. A.

Christian citizenship along with the four fold life is the basis for the organization and life of the clubs which have been established. Thirty three boys first started with these new clubs organized by the Phalanx fraternity and this membership has grown to 55 in the short time of two weeks.

The clubs that have been organized are one Friendly Indian club for boys under 12, and three Pioneer clubs which are for boys over 12 years of age.

The boys now enrolled in the classes are subjected to training that they have not known previously and they have certain projects to work before they receive their awards. The projects concern the religious, intellectual, physical and service sides of living.

The new clubs are operated in conjunction with the Scioto street neighborhood house, and meetings each week are held there.

A mass meeting takes place each week of all the clubs. During this time, announcements are read and the time for devotionals takes place. Then the boys separate into their respective groups for Bible study, business of the club, story telling and work on their projects.

Leaders of the clubs from the Phalanx fraternity are Clifford Pollock, Henry McNicholas, William Thomas, Andrew Lasky and Everett McClarren.

Autos In Caravan To Washington, Pa.

More Than 100 Have Enrolled To Make Trip Reports Hanion

More than 100 cars have already enrolled in the ranks of the New Castle Pigskin Caravan which will leave Falls street Saturday morning for Washington to attend the football game, states Bernard Hanlon, manager of the New Castle Motor club who is in charge of the caravan.

It is expected that by evening today some half hundred more cars will have enrolled in the caravan and that fully 150 cars will assemble tomorrow morning on Falls street when the start will be made.

State police will pilot the parade of cars and tags will be displayed which will prevent persons from being stopped for minor traffic infractions. The path will be blazed in pioneer style, only stickers and signs will be used, so that the motorists who start too late to go with the caravan will lose no time on the way.

A copy of Tuesday's News has the complete route and mileage from this city listed. This mapless map was prepared by Mr. Hanlon and gives the shortest and best route which can be taken for Washington.

By leaving at 10 o'clock, the caravan will arrive at Washington in plenty of time for a parade, comestibles and good seats at the stadium.

KONJOLA ENDS LONG ILLNESS IN VERY SHORT TIME

Stomach and Kidney Troubles of More Than Two Years Duration Yield—All Else Had Failed.

MRS. MINNIE CAIN

Marvelous are the wonders worked by Konjola, the modern medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Daily seekers after health are meeting the Konjola Man in the Love & Megown drug store, where he is citing case upon case wherein Konjola has triumphed after all other medicines and treatments have failed to afford even temporary alleviation of suffering. Konjola works quickly and give permanent results; glorious returns to health, a new life and a new joy in living. Countless are the endorsements of this master remedy; happy statements from those liberated from the thralldom of suffering and made well again. Among those grateful for the blessings Konjola confers upon the afflicted is Mrs. Minnie Cain, 313 Sampson avenue, New Castle, who radiant in her regained health and vigor after long sufferings, made this statement to the Konjola Man:

"I welcome this opportunity to tell what this wonderful Konjola did for me. I was discouraged with failure after failure to find something to help my stomach and kidney troubles. For two and a half years I was in extreme misery, and my condition was rapidly becoming worse. I must have tried everything I heard about, but all in vain. My appetite was very poor, and what little I did eat would lie in my stomach and ferment, causing gas and bloating and intense pain. My afflicted kidneys caused a dull, constant, sickening pain across the back, and at night it was necessary that I rise many times. At times the pains were so severe that I could not rise to a sitting posture, and was forced to keep to my bed.

"I noticed in The News many endorsements of Konjola, but was not impressed simply because all the medicines I had tried had disappointed me. But so convincing were these reports of the wonderful achievements of this modern medicine that I decided to give it a trial. To my astonishment and happiness I began to feel better within two days, and now, after a brief treatment, I am well again, freed from all my sufferings. I can eat anything I like without paying for it in pain, and am rapidly regaining my strength since I am able to digest my food and to sleep undisturbed all night. I gladly endorse Konjola, it certainly has been a Godsend to me."

Konjola contains juices from 22 plants—more than other medicines. It is a new compound that works with the sufferer's food, restoring more healthful action to the important organs (stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels) and producing new energy and glorious health in a natural way, thru the entire inner-system.

Texas Man Becomes Indian Tribesman

Is Fourth To Be Accepted By Chippewas As Member Of Their Tribe

(International News Service)

WACO, Texas, Oct. 23—Robert Emmet Pellow, hotel owner here, proudly claims membership in the ancient tribe of Chippewa Indians of Lac Du Flambeau, Wis. His name is Ga She Qua Ung or "Flying Cloud."

Pellow was named in accordance with old Indian ritualism. Fasting for three days, his first impressive vision on the third day was a deep bank of swiftly moving clouds. He was therefore named Ga She Qua Ung.

"Flying Cloud" was presented with a headpiece, beaded leggings, an apron, moccasins, a medicine vest and a string of beads. "POLITICAL INFORMATION FOR WOMEN

Diplomatic Service.

State department at Washington gives information in regard to women in the diplomatic service.

"It is the experience of the department of state that only those candidates possesing a college education or its equivalent in cultural training are successful in the examination.

With reference to the opportunities for women in the foreign service the entrance examinations are open to all American citizens, regardless of sex, not under 21 or over 35 years of age who file the prescribed application and are designated by the president. The purpose of the examination is, of course, to determine the qualifications of the applicant for the foreign service.

The United States maintains diplomatic and consular representations in nearly all countries of the world and foreign service officers are called upon to serve under varying conditions at a great variety of posts.

The preliminary duty of the foreign service officer is to represent this country abroad, and consequently the board must weigh carefully the ability of the applicant to represent the United States creditably at any post to which he or she might reasonably be assigned.

There are 450 posts in the two branches of service.

Applicants 533, out of this number 214 have been certified by the board as eligible. Twenty-four were women and of these two were found by the board of examiners to possess the required qualifications for the foreign service.

One of these two was commissioned and has been serving as the American vice-consul at Amsterdam. The other successful woman applicant was commissioned recently.

One woman serving at the legations of Berne and Panama has recently resigned. Many men object to women in foreign service. They claim that customs and conventions prevailing in many countries with respect to the employment of women in public positions places a handicap on women.

Does the American flag float in a single civilized country where a dignified and properly qualified woman representative of the American government would not be respected?

Student Winner Then Dances The Rest Of Night; Second Place Eats 83

(International News Service)

VIENNA, Oct. 26.—A student from Prague university has recently won the annual dumpling-eaters contest which is one of the big events of the autumn in the district of Bidzov. He ate no fewer than 101 of the small "zwetschkenknodel," a kind of plum dumpling which have been eaten ever since the days of Marie Teresa.

And to prove that he was by no means inconvenienced by his hearty meal, the student danced the rest of the evening at a big ball which was another part of the entertainment.

The second prize went to a student from Prague Technical high school, who stopped at 83.

Textiles From Weeds Is Latest Discovery

Another Industrial Revolution Forecast As Result Of New Finding

A laboratory achievement (writes a correspondent) which, if it has half the significance that is attributed to it, should set British trade on its legs again, is to be put to the proof, says the London Observer.

Two scientists who have been concentrating for years past on the problem of making natural vegetable fibres more widely serviceable for textile manufactures, claim to have devised means of supplying fibre in forms suitable to our existing spinning and weaving plants at much smaller cost than flax cotton and the other staples at present in use. A flattering picture is drawn of Lancashire throbbing with life again, and of prosperity diffused through the engineering, coal and other stricken industries.

Dr. Nanji, of Birmingham University, is one of the few possessors of the secret. It is his research work, in collaboration with Dr. Paton, of Bristol University, that has led to the taking out of master patents all over the world for the new process. He is an Indian with a Western scientific training, and when interviewed was confident that his work will be crowned by nothing less than an industrial revolution. Not that it will involve any great change in the apparatus of industry.

One of the great advantages claimed for the discovery is that it will open a new epoch without the necessity for any costly re-equipment. A variety of reeds, grasses and other tropical growths, many of which have been treated as rank weeds hitherto, will be made to yield their fibres by chemical process which the dual labors of Dr. Nanji and Dr. Paton have perfected, and these fibres will be easily capable of manufacture into a great range of textiles comparing favorably in strength, lustre and dyeing capacity with those of present commerce.

Cotton, linen and artificial silk will, if these dreams come true, be fighting a losing battle when the new industrial economy gets going. The faith of the scientists is shared by experienced men of affairs who have been admitted to the secret, and industrial and financial leaders are making eager inquiries.

New Band Uniforms Of Different Style

When the senior high school band plays at the Greensburg football game the fans of New Castle will notice that something new has been added to the band. Fifty-five flashy and stylish uniforms have been ordered, according to a statement made by Principal F. L. Orth. The band will wear the uniforms for the first time at the Greensburg game on November 10.

The colors of the uniforms are red and black, the school colors. The uniforms used now are in the order of the army style while the new model will be the Label style. The caps will be of modified army model with the tops and bottoms of crowns piped in black cloth. The vizors will be black in color with a black leather chin strap. The tops of the caps will be protected from rain by leather. Gilt lyre buttons will be placed on the caps. In a semi-circle, letters N. C. H. S. will be embroidered. The letters will be one half an inch in black silk.

The coats will be colored black with some red. The garments will be rain proof. Four lyre buttons will be placed in the front of the coats with two on the sleeves. One row of black cloth stripe on each sleeve will be sewed to form a cuff with a row of dark red soutache through center of the stripe. This is being done to match the shade of the body of the coat. The pockets will be sewed inside of the coats.

Trousers are to be made of a black cloth striped down on the side seam with a row of red soutache through the center of the stripe as used on the coats. Seven loops will be made on the side buckles. The student band leader's uniform will be built on the same style as the others with the exception of the colors which will be reversed. The cap will be black velvet with a band embroidered from button to button. In the front will be silk red worsted with a chin strap.

The drum major's uniform will be the same as the others except that there will not be any flaps on the outside and the front sleeves and back are to be braided. The drummer will wear Napoleon leggings trimmed with a silk red tassel. The belts will be black leather.

BISHOP ROBERTS HERE ON SUNDAY

Comes From Work Among Indians Of South Dakota To Speak

Bishop Roberts, a six foot, rugged, virile man, who has given his entire life to work among the Indians of South Dakota will be the special preacher in Trinity church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Prior to this consecration as Bishop-Suffragen, he looked after a territory, or his parish consisted of 500 miles of desert over which the Soux Indians roam. As Bishop he ranges practically the entire state, on foot, on horseback, and by motor car.

During the whole period of the participation of the United States in the World War he was chaplain and first lieutenant of the 313 Engineers, A. E. F.

His is a strong and rugged character, typical of the region in which he labors, the experiences through which he has passed, and the stock from whence he springs.

The bishop's father was a Welsh emigrant, who came to the United States as a small boy and was successively a newsboy, boot block, and plasterer in Detroit, Michigan. His attention having been turned to the ministry, he determined to get a college education. Through his own efforts, he entered Trinity College, Hartford, where he was a classmate of Federal Judge Joseph H. Buffington, and of the late William F. Blair, both well known in Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania. Mr. Roberts later entered the ministry of the Episcopal church and served faithfully until his death in Los Vegas, Mexico. The bishop was named for Mr. Blair, his father's classmate.

The Right Reverend William Blair Roberts, D. D., was born December 10th, 1881, in Detroit, Michigan, and after graduating from the public schools of Hartford, Connecticut, entered Trinity College, Hartford, from which he was graduated in 1905. Three years later he had graduated from the Berkeley Divinity School, Middletown, Connecticut, and had been ordained a deacon. A year later, he was made a full fledged minister and entered the Indian field as a missionary to which he has given his whole life.

A short and special service has been prepared appropriate to the occasion, thus giving Dr. Roberts plenty of time to speak to the large congregation which is expected in Trinity church, corner of North Mill and East Falls streets.

Police Prefect Will Clean Up Paris Gigolos

Dancing Men Often Prey Upon Women With Threats Of Blackmail

LOUNGE LIZARDS APPEAR AT TEAS

Gigolo Gang Learns About Victims' Private Life; Resort To Threats

PARIS, Oct. 26.—There have been many complaints about the "cleaning up" of Paris that has been carried out during the past two years by the energetic M. Jean Chiappe, prefect of police. Some people have feared that there was danger of destroying the "gaiety" of Paris, although that result does not seem to have been achieved.

But one of the later features of the "clean-up" campain has been greeted with almost unanimous applause. Some days ago special headquarters squad turned its attention to the smart afternoon-tea places, where dancing goes on to the wail of saxophones, under dim lights, every afternoon from five to eight o'clock.

The uninitiated never considered that there was any harm in these seemingly innocent amusements. But the police investigations show that there is a veritable criminal band of sleek "lounge lizards" who prey upon misguided women who go to these establishments for a few hours of dancing.

The Paris "gigolo," it now appears, does not draw his main income from his legitimate fees as a dancing instructor or partner. More frequently he indulges in blackmail, drug-vending and sometimes downright theft.

The gigolo gang seems to have a highly intricate organization. By careful sleuthing it learns a great deal about the private life of its intended victims. Women who go to a tea place for innocent amusement, thinking they will be out only a fifty-franc tip to a dancing man, soon discover that it costs much more than that.

The suave young men with greased hair do not hesitate to demand thousands, theratening to "tell your husband" what they have learned about your past. Or they "borrow" money until tomorrow," and then use this first loan as a threat to exact others. Or they steal bracelets and necklaces, knowing that the victim is afraid to prosecute on account of the publicity that would follow.

Altogether about the slimiest class of crooks there is, and nobody will be sorry if M. Chiappe puts them behind the bars or beyond the frontier.

Admits Killing Honesdale Man

"Only Intended To Frighten Him," Says Woman Denying Murder

(International News Service)

HONESDALE, Pa., Oct. 26.—"I didn't intend to kill him. I only intended to frighten him."

Breaking the silence which she had kept since her arrest yesterday charged with the murder of Russell Butler, a neighbor farmer, Miss Josephine Loring, 67 today denied any intention of committing murder.

Apparently undisturbed and unaware of the serious charge against her she explained that she had fired at Butlers feet.

"We had no words at all. He was my best friend," she told Sheriff Forrest Taylor.

"I snapped the pistol twice and it failed to explode. The third time it went off and Butler fell screaming with pain."

Await Cafeteria Counter At New Washington High

Equipment for the George Washington junior high school cafeteria with the exception of the serving counter has been received and is being installed at the present time. The eating room has been used but for few purposes since school opened in September, owing to the fact that equipment was lacking.

Principal B. K. Thacker expressed the hope the other day that the counter would be received soon, but to date it is said that neither the counter nor word concerning it has reached New Castle, from the distant concern that has the order. Dinner cannot be served very well until the counter arrives, authorities aver.

Driver And Party Had Narrow Escape

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 26.—William Canose, of Owensdale, near here, piloted his coupe down a 15-foot embankment into the waters of Mountz Creek and probably saved his own life as well as those of his sister, Mrs. M. J. Burke, and her 14 months old baby girl, by avoiding a collision on the North Pittsburgh street crossing with a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train.

The coupe landed upright after its almost precipitous plunge and Canose drove it to the opposite side of the stream and then back to the highway. None of the passengers was injured. He did not see the train until within a few feet of it, he said, because his windshield was steamed by the rain.

Radio Commissions Allocations To Be Effective Nov. 11

Almost 200 Modifications Are Made But All Are Minor, Says LaFount

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—The federal radio commission's new allocation will go into effect November 11 without further modification, Commissioner H. A. LaFount announced today in a letter to western broadcasters.

The final allocation, containing about 180 modifications from the first announcement, will be made public within a short time. The original shakeup was drastic but the modifications are minor.

LaFount warned broadcasters that failure to announce transmission of music by mechanical devices such as phonographs would be dealt with severely. The commission is planning to draft regulations pertaining to television, synchronization, short wave broadcasting and rebroadcasting.

Ninety-day licenses to date from November 11 were mailed to broadcasters.

Chairman Ira L. Robinson refused to approve the new allocation and is now taking no part in deliberations of the commission.

Cops Can't Keep Her From Mate

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Ruth Sherman, 20, of Brooklyn, is an old fashioned girl. She didn't have her fingers crossed when she said "I do's" in marrying George Sherman a few months ago.

So when George drove his auto over a curb and into a cigar store window last night, she protested so violently against his arrest on a charge of driving while intoxicated that it took five policement to subdue her.

"Why such a fuss?" asked Magistrate Simpson.

"I wanted to go with my husband," she replied. "I promised to take him for better or worse and stand by him through thick and thin. I'm no fair weather wife."

"I can't send you to jail for living up to your marriage vows," said the court. "Sentence suspended."

"Thanks, judge," said Ruth, and hurried off to pay George's fine.

"Women overcome sales resistance more easily than men." There was, for example, that apple episode in Eden.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Trusting to Time

By MARGARET TAYLOR

WHY, Jimmy Thurston, you naughty boy! You're all dirty again," cried his mother in exasperation.

Five-year-old Jimmie, glancing in very scared fashion into his mother's face, read there the dreadful sentence she had passed upon him.

"Gee, ma," he pleaded, "don't wash me again. Please, don't."

"I should say I will!" replied Ella Thurston determinedly. "Do you think I'd let Mr. Fletcher see you like that? Come right along with me, young man."

She grasped one of his dirty little paws and drew his rebellious little person bathroomwards. Jimmie began to kick and scream.

"Why, Jimmie Thurston!" scolded his mother. "The idea of a big boy like you screaming like that! I thought you were a Spartan. Did you ever hear of a Spartan crying?"

"Maybe not," Jimmie wept stormfly, "but I bet they'd've cried sumpin' awful if they'd been washed 'smuch's I have! You've washed me fifty hundred times today!"

"I haven't counted, but I certainly know that washing you is about all I've had a chance to do this morning," admitted his mother, wielding the cloth vigorously.

"Ow-w! You hurt! Lemme go!" wailed Jimmie, struggling mightily. "Gee, I won't have no face'n hands left. Ow-w-w."

Ella Thurston ended with one final, thorough rub. No, she wasn't a cruel heartless mother; she was just one of those good women who place cleanliness even above godliness. She was much too fussy about Jimmie's state of cleanliness at all times, but today, with visitors coming, her perpetual ministrations had driven him frantic.

"Now do try to keep clean, Jimmie," she cautioned. "Mr. Fletcher and Florence won't like you if you're dirty."

"Don't want 'em to," sniffed Jimmie sullkily, tenderly feeling of the much-scrubbed face as he followed his mother downstairs. "Dont like clean people. They make me sick!"

"Why Jimmie Thurston!" said his shocked mother, for the third time. "I don't know what makes you behave so badly today. Usually you're such a good boy. I want you to go right into the parlor and sit on the chair near the door and see if you can recover your good humor before they come."

"Aw maw!" This was the last straw!

But "ma" was already on her way to the kitchen, to attend to her luncheon.

Patience seated on a monument never bore such a look of complete martyrdom as did Jimmie Thurston seated on his stiff parlor chair. Gee, he hated that Mr. Fletcher! He was goin' to get even with him. He'd pull that Florence's hair till she screamed, 'n' screamed, 'n' screamed! They'd see! Just wait! He'd . . . Gee, he didn't know what he wouldn't do!

And while his mind was still engaged with plotting beautifully-terrible ways of getting even, a car stopped before the house and his father, accompanied by a big fat man and a roly-poly little girl, came up the walk.

Mother rushed in from the kitchen, took Jimmy by the hand and marched him into the hall.

"For goodness' sake, Jimmie, look pleasant, and remember your manners," she commanded swiftly. Then "How do you do, Mr. Fletcher," she greeted her visitor, smiling sweetly. "And this is little Florence! Isn't she lovely, Jimmie? Shake hands like a nice boy."

Jimmie extended an unwilling hand and stretched his mouth in a mirthless grin. His big gray eyes took in the details of Florence, fastened on her blond curls and glinted with savage satisfaction. Gee, curls pulled lots easier than a Dutch clip! There was lots more to get hold of. Gee, she made him sick! Not a spot of dirt anywhere on her white dress. He'd fix that! He'd get even, all right!

"Well, son," boomed Mr. Fletcher. "Aren't you a fine boy! You know I always wanted a boy, but they never sent me one. Say, Jimmie, let's be pals."

Jimmy stiffened. "No, sir!"

"What?" exclaimed the big man. "Why, Jimmie, don't you think I'd be a nice pal?"

"No, I don't," burst out abused Jimmie. "I don't like you. You're too clean. I hate clean people!"

"Jimmie!" implored his mother, "Jimmie, where are your manners?"

Jimmie knew he was already in for trouble, for saying what he had. In for a penny, in for a pound. He didn't know the expression, but he had just that inward feeling. "I don't care," he said recklessly. "He is too clean! I hate clean people!"

"So do I, son," sympathized Mr. Fletcher, and, sitting down on the nearest chair, he drew Jimmie's protesting figure closer to him. "Now tell me what makes you think I'm too clean."

"Ma's been scrubbing me all day, just for you," complained Jimmie aggrievedly. "She's scrubbed me fifty hundred times. She said you didn't like dirty boys. She said . . ."

"Jimmie!" begged his mother.

"Your mother just didn't know, me. I love dirty boys," said this queer big man. "Why, I didn't learn to be clean until I was almost a man."

"Really?" asked incredulous Jimmie.

"Sure thing! My mother said all she could do was to wash off the worst dirt when she got a good chance and trust to time and heaven to make me grow clean."

"My ma don't trust to nobody but herself," mourned Jimmie, and even Ella Thurston joined in the big laugh.

"Bob," she said to her husband, "luncheon is waiting. Suppose we all sit down at the table?"

"Righto," was the hearty response. "We're all starved."

At the table Jimmie was placed next to over-clean Florence. It was Florence's scrupulous cleanliness that made him doubt Mr. Fletcher's sincerity. If he liked dirt, why did he keep Florence so clean?

"It seems to me I've caused you a pretty tough day, Jimmie," resumed Mr. Fletcher commiseratingly.

"Gee, it was fierce," replied Jimmie with fervor. "I been scrubbed, 'n' scrubbed, 'n' scrubbed! I couldn't even play, 'cause I've got my Sund'y suit on."

"We'll change all that after luncheon," promised Mr. Fletcher. "Florence brought some old clothes with her, and perhaps your mother will let you put on overalls; then you can both play and get as dirty as you please."

Mr. Fletcher had removed Jimmie's last remaining doubt. If he kept old clothes for Florence to get dirty in, he was all right! He was a "reg'lar guy."

And while Jimmie was readjusting the ideas in his mind and enthroning fat Mr. Fletcher on a very high pedestal, Ella Thurston was doing a little thinking herself. Perhaps she was a little too clean; perhaps she was depriving her boy of a lot of happiness by not letting him wallow in the dirt; perhaps she did wash him too often; perhaps she was a little too "scrubby" when she washed him.

Perhaps, as her guest had told of his own mother, it would be better to wash off the worst dirt when she got a good chance, and trust to time and heaven to make Jimmie grow clean.

THE ROSEBUD GIRL

By CLAIRE WESSON

THE man watched the girl eagerly. It had been over two months now since she had taken the little room across the court. Her window faced his, with just the width of the narrow alley between them. Even if the man spoke softly she could have heard him with ease, but he did not speak. As she drew nearer the window he saw she carried a long narrow box, and he breathed a sigh of satisfaction.

"Just in time," he said to himself, and he watched with interest as the girl unwrapped the little parcel tenderly. From within she gently lifted a single rose bud. He was not quite sure, but he thought it was the delicate shade of pink the girl liked so well. Anyway he would know tomorrow when it began to open. He was glad it had come. The other one was drooping in spite of all the girl's efforts to keep it fresh. He saw her cross to the window and replace the dying rose with the fresh one. The girl saw him and gave a friendly little smile. She was not the sort to do more than that, but she was kind. She knew that he, too, looked forward to the arrival of the rose, and a month ago she had transferred the little vase to the window sill in order that he might see it more easily.

Satisfied, he left the window and went about preparing his evening meal. He knew she was doing the same, but he did not watch her.

The man should have been particularly happy on that evening, for that day he had realized the dream that had been his since boyhood. He was happy, but somehow he knew he would miss the girl across the way and the rose on the window sill.

Then it suddenly came to him just what the matter was. Unknowingly he had been including this girl in all his plans. It shocked him not a little, but he knew it to be true, and she was a stranger. Yet, was she a stranger? He seemed to know her rather better than he did most people he had known much longer.

A startled cry interrupted his thoughts and he rushed to the window just in time to see the vase and its precious contents crash in the alley below. He looked quickly at the girl. There were tears in her eyes. It did not take him long to reach the alley, but he was not soon enough. A little fellow snatched the rosebud and pursuit would have proved fruitless. He climbed the stairs to the girl's room and found her crying softly.

He tried to comfort her. "In a few days you will have another, you know," he reminded her gently. But she shook her head.

"It's the last one that will come," she told him chokingly. "They have sold the place." Then as she saw his regretful expression she said: "But it will help to know you miss them, too."

"But there will be more," the man assured her. "I have wanted to tell you all these weeks. I have just bought a little place in the country and it is full of roses like these. Perhaps that is one reason I bought it, it reminded me of you and the rose. . . . He stopped, a trifle confused, but the girl was listening intently. It's a wonderful place, and it has possibilities. I have studied hard at night, perhaps you have noticed, and I am going to make it pay. It's beautiful, just full of roses. The people who owned it must have loved them a heap. They even named it Roseland."

"Roseland!" The girls face quivered. "You have bought my Roseland?"

Then she smiled and the man thought he had never seen anything half so lovely as that smile. It reminded him of a million beautiful things all at once—sunshine, the song of birds, a bubbling brook, a garden of roses; and it made him want to hear her laugh.

The man hesitated, but only for a moment.

"Up until a month ago, it was the only thing in life I wanted . . . a place like Roseland, but now I know there is something I want far more. It is the only thing needed to make my dream complete. Even in a garden of roses, like Roseland, I am going to miss a rosebud on a window sill and a girl's smile. Do you think, after a little, you could come with me to Roseland?"

The girl stood up quietly.

"I could not stay here without you," she told him simply. "I have known that you cared."

All She Could Do

By PHIL MOORE

WHOA!"

Delia Wells drew her doughnut fat to the back of the stove and peered through the kitchen window with an ejaculation of annoyance. "It's that antique man," she sputtered to herself, "that was here in the Fall. I'll bet he's after my old desk." Her lips set firmly. "He won't git it. The idea of comin' here in the mornin' with me right in the middle of doughnuts! Just like a man!"

With an exasperated frown she opened the door a crack. "Put a blanket over that hoss, young man. How'd you like to stand out in freezin' weather, with nothin' over your hide?"

"I wouldnt like it at all." Andrew Wood flung the words over his shoulder and his eyes twinkled as he enterd the kitchen.

"Mrs. Wells," he said confidently, "I was so sure that you would sell me your old secretary today, that I brought a pung to take it back."

"Hump!" sniffed Delia. "If you want to fill the back o' that pung you can buy a barrel o' baldwins. Pa and th' hired man's down cellar sortin over right now."

"Now, Mrs. Wells—"

"Don't waste your breath," advised Delia. Long's you're here you might's well take off yous co't and git warm. Have a hot doughnut."

"Now let me tell you," said the dealer between bites, "you can set your own price. The woman who wants it has plenty of money, and she will pay anything in reason. Come now." He smiled at her winningly.

Delia snorted. "You go right back to Boston and tell that woman that I know two things her money can't buy. One's happiness and t'other's my old desk."

"But, Mrs. Wells—"

"Never mind the 'buts,'" said Delia firmly, "you take another doughnut and come in th' other room, I want to tell you a few things so you won't be pestering me to death ever so often."

The dealer followed her. The massive secretary of beautiful polished maple, loomed up above all other furnishings in the vast room, and his eyes glistened.

"Now, young man," said Delia as she went on her knees before the desk, "we'll just finish this business once for all. This desk belonged to my great-grandfather, who was a member of the Continental Congress. He used to ride hoss-back up the Newburyport turnpike, and these," she said, as she opened one of the spacious drawers, "are the blankets he used, spun and wove on this very farm."

She showed him the initials embroidered in quaint cross-stitch design on the hems of the blue blankets, before she laid them back in the drawer and opened another. From this one she took a pair of saddle-bags and laid them on the dealer's knees.

"There! Look at them racks, all brown with age, and see the pockets mended with linen flax. Young man, if you owned these things would you sell 'em?"

The dealer appeared not to hear. He was staring at the bags with a most peculiar expression, and at length turned puzzled eyes on Delia.

"That's funny."

"Funny!" Delia's eyes snapped indignantly.

Mrs. Wells; you won't believe me I am afraid, but it's a fact that the son of this woman of whom I spoke has recently been very ill. Physically he seems all right, but he has hallucinations. You can imagine how his mother feels."

Delia nodded sympathetically and the dealer trying his best to show her how pathetic the situation was, continued: "The first they noticed it was one day when he folded up his bed blankets and brought them to his mother insisting that they should be put in his old secretary. He cried because he couldn't find it in the house. Soon after that he worked himself into a fever because he missed his saddle-bags. Just imagine it," said the dealer earnestly, "and you will understand why his mother came to me."

Delia, still on her knees, looked up at him with twinkling eyes. "Young man, did you ever hear of Ananias?"

"I don't blame you for not believing me," said the dealer, with a sheepish air, "but it's true."

"What," inquired Delia, "is the name of this young man who sees visions and dreams dreams?"

Wood, resenting the hint of laughter in her voice, blurted out a little angrily, "Russell, Captain Addison Russell."

Delia grew very white. "You—you said Boston," she faltered.

"Winchester, to be exact," said the puzzled dealer." Why? Do you know him?"

Delia made no reply. She walked hastily to the kitchen and opened the cellar door. "Pa," she called, "you and Fred come right up, I want you." The dealer, who had followed, saw "Pa," a little man with meek countenance, pat Delia's arm as she whispered to him.

"Jest as you say mother. Yes, yes, of course. Fred and I will git some grain bags and stuff to crate it with." The two men started for the barn and Delia returned to the front room and began to remove the contents of the desk with the exception of the blankets and saddle-bags. She locked those drawers.

The dealer took out his check book.

"You're going to let me have it, Mrs. Wells," he said exultantly. "How much?" But Delia paid him no attention other than to murmur, "I'll write Mis' Russel 'bout these blankets and bags."

Wood flourished his pen and said again, "How much, Mrs. Wells?" At his insistence, Delia turned to him. "I ain't goin' ter sell this desk, Mr. Wood, it's goin' ter Cap'n Russell. Now youd better go." Ignoring him, she turned to her task and the mystified dealer was obliged to take his departure.

On the steps he met Fred coming in with his arms full of burlap bags. "For goodness sakes," he began, but the hired man shook his head. "We don't talk about it around here. If you've got to know, ask the ticket agent at the station.

Wood scrutinized the ticket agent closely and observed that he walked with a decided limp. As he related his experience, the agent listened, gazing with a far-away look, out of the window as though seeing things that were not there. When the dealer had finished and said, "Is the woman crazy?" the young man said slowly, "No, not craby. She's trying to pay a debt in the only way she can." He laid a ticket before Wood and said, "You see, in France Delia's only son died in the arms of Captain Russell; they were buddies. When the captain came home he went to see the Wells; stayed a few days with 'em. You see?"

The dealer picked up his change. "Oh," he said softly, oh!"

Relative Values

By MONTE DARRELL

IMPATIENCE stirred Clara Gale's vigorous mind as she watched her sister-in-law placing the dishes in orderly array for the evening meal. There was a fundamental difference between the two, though Clara gave it no such name. She called it sheer impracticability and shiftlessness on Ella's part. She was presently moved to pronounce judgment.

"It's very foolish of you, Ella, to waste time and strength in this little town. If you had left here years ago you might have money in the bank and a good job now."

She did not add, "As I have," but Ella so finished it, mentally, and showed it by an amused quirk of the lips.

"I could not leave mother," she explained slowly. And then there was father. Now, I want to keep the old house open as a central meeting place for the family. It helps to hold them together, getting their home-letters every week, and knowing that the home is open to them all, and that there is someone here who cares."

"Fiddlesticks!" said Clara energetically. "Let the family look out for themselves—and you do the same. That's my motto."

"It's an empty life," Ella said apologetically, "when there's no one to do for except one's self."

"And the house mortgaged and you just earnin' enough to make ends meet," snapped Clara.

The shot told. Ella flushed painfully, but answered cheerfully. "I do make ends meet, and pay a little on the debt, besides. It is a question of relative values, Clara, and this looks like the greater value to me. Also, I'm 45."

"Fiddlesticks again," said Clara. "I'm 42 myself. You know very well you could go back to work. It takes an executive to run a house and earn a living, besides juggling the church finances, playing the organ, teaching in Sunday school, serving on the school board, and being at the beck and call of the whole family connection.

The screen on the side door banged and freckled Johnny Knowles called:

"Say, Miss Ella, mother's sick abed and she wants to know can you preside in her place at the all-day missionary meeting, tomorrow? She says she won't worry if she knows you are there."

"Tell her not to worry, Johnny, I'll do the best I can. Who's with her? Oh, her mother. Would you stop on your way home and leave these doughnuts for Cousin Ellery Crane? The poor fellow scalded his foot and it must be hard getting along alone."

Clara radiated grim disapproval as they sat at table. Ella was exactly as James Gale had been when she married him. Widowhood had come early, but Clara felt that she had made some progress with James before he died.

"Strawberries, Clara?" asked Ella. "Or do they spoil your taste for prunes?"

At her sister-in-law's unwilling smile, she added whimsically:

"Ephraim is joined to idols; let him alone."

"I suppose you know what you mean," said Clara. "I don't."

"No?" inquired Ella. "Neither do I understand income tax returns."

Which closed the conversation for the time.

It was not resumed until Clara sat in her car ready for the homeward journey. With a satisfied glance at the diamond cluster on the small, strong hand that lay on the wheel, she said:

"For the last time, will you come in with me, Ella, and let me show you how to make money?"

"I told you, Clara, I couldn't," said Ella gently. "Come again, won't you?"

"I'm all through," Clara said, shaking her head. "It's too long a drive to take for the sole purpose of letting you in on a good thing and then to be turned down for my pains."

Clara was not one to change her mind. It was ten years before she came again. Oddly enough, it was the passing of the mistress of the little brown house that brought her. Reluctantly she admitted to herself that the coming was a tribute to a very real personality. This time she came by train, a short, well-dressed, forceful woman, the self-confidence that success often brings well in evidence.

One of the Gale brothers met her and drove her down the long, maple-shaded street to the old house with the crape streamers fluttering at the door. As they alighted a young girl came up the path carrying a box which she put into Richard Gale's hands.

"It's just a few flowers," she explained, "from Miss Ella's class. We didn't have much money, but I—we—loved her."

The man's strong face quivered.

"We all did, Mary," he answered brokenly.

Clara sensed the truth of that statement in the deep quietness of the brothers and sisters. Low-voiced, soft-voiced neighbors went to and fro, tidying the house until it shone; it was a service of love. Each gentle tap at the door revealed some new comer with homely gifts of cooked food, or offers of help and sympathy. The little house was smothered with flowers, gifts of friends both near and far.

With characteristic decision, Clara opposed having at the church a service so much more fittingly held at the home.

"You do not understand, Mrs. Gale," said the white-haired minister gently. "Threre would not be room."

She came to understand, as the two quiet days passed. She thought about it on the return journey. The wonder grew upon her that these people should so love and honor Ella; Ella, who left no debts, but whose sole asset was the weather-worn brown house; Ella, who had no money to give and could give only of the work of hands and heart and brain.

The world was going well with Clara. Careful saving, shrewd investment, and efficient management had done much for her. She lived in a fine apartment, she drove an excellent car, she was admired and envied by her friends and associates. But—

Would any mourn her passing? Would any say, with tears, "We loved her?"

The wheels clucked and chuckled under the train, repeating as an interminable refrain a phrase she remembered from her last talk with Ella, "Rela-ative val-ues, rel-a-tive val-ues, rel-a-tive val-ues."

"And so you are the lady who is giving my wife painting lessons? What sort of a pupil is she?"

"Well, I find her very apt, to say the least."

"That's funny. I always find her very apt to say the most."

Cap'n Tim's Romance

By HAZEL COURTNEY

YES, Captain Tim had a romance, a real romance, but it was not known until we found his queer old battered log book. We "paint daubers" and "writer folks," as Cap'n Tim called us, loved the ancient seaman; he played many a part in our stories and sketches, and had posed for our pictures of the typical "old salt" of Cape God's golden, mystic past.

In old Provincetown he was a beloved landmark, as his nine-odd years entitled him to be. His picturesque little shanty allured many a wild artist's eye; his racy, often weird, tales held budding and even seasoned authors spellbound.

The only puzzling thing was Cap'n Tim's solitary life. Often we joked him about having had "a sweetheart in every port;" he always stiffened a little at that, took on a cool dignity, and either changed the subject or abruptly left us.

Ah, how he must have pitied us poor, drab creatures, who had never had a romance like his.

One day we found him sitting at his old pine table, arms outstretched upon his log book, head resting on it in his last, long sleep. Scrawled on the yellow page were these words:

"Moonlight, white roses, and Valencia . . . . I feel the bad spell coming on . . . . I guess it is the last . . . . you can publish this log if you want to, writer folks . . ."

Most of the log was a record of sea voyages, tides, winds, dangers, and dealings in many foreign ports. Our interest began with this entry:

"June 9, '18—We cleared the 'Priscilla' today bound for Spain. Well at sea. This is a good ship, and it is fine to be captain of her. I can't help but feel a little proud of myself. The mate says I'll cut quite a dash in the Spanish ports, and have all the grand ladies at my feet. I don't care much for women folks, that is, only to treat them polite, as I should. A wise captain must steer clear of reefs, sand bars and women folks."

For five years Cap'n Tim held his heart's course as safely as he kept his ship, "Priscilla;" there were no records of any sentiment or courtships. Then came this:

"July 20, '18—I'm so sorry we put into port at P—, in Spain; I think we could have sailed out of the storm. Now I have this girl on my hands. Valencia D'Alveraz is her name. She got on board while we were loading; we found her asleep in the mate's quarters. She says she is 18. Looks to be 12. Not pretty, but a rather witch-like creature, at once helpless and persistent. Declares she won't go back to 'Papa D'Alveraz,' but I can't find out her reasons, although I understand Spanish very well."

Cap'n Tim brought Valencia to Provincetown; many kindly and sentimental ladies offered to take charge of the elfin Spanish maiden, but when Cap'n Tim sailed again for Spain, Valencia went with him. Several relatives had taken turns in mothering the girl until fair weather came in the Spring and the young captain put the Priscilla to sea.

As soon as Cap'n Tim had reached P—, he had sought out the home of little Valencia D'Alveraz. He found that her father was a Spanish grandee who adored his child only a little less than his moneyless title. Cap'n Tim finally made the distracted father understand how he had come to have the girl on his hands. Here was this entry:

"July 22, '18—I told the old fellow, D'Alveraz, I'd keep Valencia on board for a while and he could come and see her, and between us we could coax her out of her adventurous mood."

Aug. 5, '18—In port here two weeks. Valencia went home; I have been to see her twice. She has lost her pretty color and says so little. Hang it all. I can't leave her here like that; and I have missed her here on board. She was as gay and bright as a tropical bird."

"Tuesday—In port four weeks. I love Valencia! It was on last Sunday I was entertained at tea by D'Alveraz in his 'patio.' It was a kind of send-off party for me, as I had expected to sail the next day. The old Aunt Maria made things agreeable by getting old D'Alveraz into the house for a few moments, so Valencia and I were alone. I have three impressions—moonlight, big white roses and Valencia's little form in my arms. She begged me to take her, and hang it all, I had loved her from the first, but did not know it."

"Wednesday: Asked D'Alveraz for Valencia. He was very cool and wanted to know how well fixed I was for 'doubloons.' When I told what my worldly wealth amounted to, his face grew very long, but he asked me to stay a few days.

"October 10, '18: Much has happened; I am glad I can use my arm again. The fellow gave me a nasty stab . . . perhaps it is wicked to wish he had done a more thorough job. It was this way: Old Aunt Maria had left Valencia and me alone again in the garden. We supposed we would have to part, for my 'doubloons' were too few for D'Alveraz's greedy desire. But I had made up my mind to take Valencia with me. Then in a moment it all happened. A dark faced, ugly old reprobate had crept into the garden. Evidently, he had the 'doubloons' and with his money intended to buy my little girl. He struck me, and as I fell I saw him plunge the dagger into my Valencia's heart . . . my darling, my little wild bird.

"October 17, '18: Still on the high seas, headed for Provincetown. I can never write again about Valencia. Her father had meant to let me have her, so he said. He treated me square. He got me safely on board the Priscilla, and when he went off the ship the mate says that fellow killed him; some money complications, I guess. Ah, well, my heart is sealed forever, and in it . . . moonlight, white roses—and my Valencia."

There was the end of Cap'n Tim's romance.

First Burglar—I think we have got everything. We haven't overlooked anything, have we, Mike?

Second Burglar—I don't think so, but we'll get a newspaper in the morning and see.

Indian Potentate Buys Author's Home

Indian Prince Gets Penchant For Reinach, Orders Home And Books

(International News Service)

PARIS, Oct. 26.—Local translators habitually poorly paid are blessing the Goekwar of Baroda for his literary interests. Unlike those of Tunney's the Goekwar's have meant considerable cash to a number of these translators.

The Indian potentate in quest for a Paris residence, found a luxurious one to his liking in the Monceau district. Told that it formerly belonged to the author Reinach, His Highness ordered all of Reinach's books.

"A fellow who can build a house like this on his literary ability must be good" was the royal opinion.

Small Machinery Is Also Carried Along With 210 Tons Of Mail

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Mail planes in addition to carrying 210 tons of mail, or a million and a quarter letters, monthly are transporting 2500 express shipments ranging from orchids to 200-pound pieces of machinery, the American Air Transport association announced recently.

New York leads in number of express shipments, and other cities in order of inbound ond outbound air express parcels are Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cleveland, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth, Texas, and Salt Lake City. There are now 102 scheduled stops on the air mail routes and 44 cities used air express service last month, show the association's figures.

Banks, motion picture producers, insurance companies, manufacturing jewelers, women's ready-to-wear wholesale houses, and advertising agencies are the largest users of air express, but the month's shipments included products ranging from food products to parts for electric generators, currency, stocks, bonds, medicines and even fur coats.

Heavy Summer Rains Damage Oyster Crop

Large Percentage Of Chesapeake Bay Crop "Drowns" During Summer

(International News Service)

BALTIMORE, Oct. 26.—It has been said oysters "die just before eaten" but Swepson Earle, State Conservation commissioner says a large percentage of the bivalve inhabitants of the Chesapeake Bay literally have been "drowned" by last summer's torrential rains."

Maryland oysters; popular as the state's crabs and chicken dinners, will be scare this winter Earle predicts. The extent of the oyster mortality cannot be determined until dredging and tonguing starts and surveys instituted by the commission completed Earle declared.

It is explained an oyster cannot thrive on fresh water. The heavy inroads fresh water made upon the beds in the Chesapeake killed the shelled substances.

Spanish King Likes Movies Of Himself

Has Reels Re-run Many Times To Get Good Look At Himself

(International News Service)

MADRID, Oct. 26.—Alphonso XIII of Spain takes childish delight in seeing himself in the movies. His majesty, just returned from a European tour, immediately ordered a private showing of the news reel film covering his voyage. To this showing he invited the queen and members of his family and entourage. At the king's request many reels were rerun during the showing, in order that he should get a good look at himself.

Wherever he goes, King Alphonso makes chums out of the cameramen. During his recent tour, he took particular pains to pose at length for each and everyone.

"Be sure to send me a copy to Madrid, won't you?" he said. "How to address it? Oh well, just write Duke of Miranda on the package. That's my 'private' name, you know."

MONKS RESTORING ABBEY

With the rebuilding of the western front of the ancient Buckfast Abbey, near Ashburton, England, monks who have been doing the work say that in four years the edifice will be completely restored to its one-time beauty. It will also crown the life-work of the abbot, Don Anscar Vonier, who helped rebuild the foundations, and 22 years ago was placed in charge of the work. At first only one monk was appointed to mix mortor for the solitary builder, but gradually more were added until now 60 monks, from France, Germany and Britain are engaged. The cathedral dates back to the eighth century and was suppressed 800 years later, after which it gradually sank into decay.

State Rates Second In Coal Production

West Virginia Leads Pennsylvania In Soft Coal Mining

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Pennsylvania ranked second of the forty-eight states of the union in the production of soft coal during the week ending October 6, according to the figures of survey conducted by the department of commerce.

The bituminous mines of the state during the week ending the sixth yielded 2,750,000 net tons. West Virginia led the Keystone state in the mining of bituminous, producing 2,973,000 net tons during the seven day period.

The Pennsylvania production during the week ending the sixth showed an increase of 3,000 tons over the yield of the mines of the state during the previous week and an increase of 253,000 tons above the production of the corresponding week of 1927. The yield for the week, however, was considerably below the average weekly production of October, 1923, which totaled 3,149,000.

The Keystone state produced a total of 1,915,000 tons of anthracite coal during the week ending the sixth, bringing the production of hard coal for the calendar year to 56,412,000 tons.

CROP AREAS DECREASE

The total area under crops and grass in England and Wales, os classified as grazing land in agricultural holdings exceeding one acre in extent, is 30,680,000 acres this year, or 36,000 acres fewer than in 1927, according to the latest agricultural returns. The area under crops and permanent grass is 25,504,000 acres, a reduction of 86,000 acres in comparison with 1927, while the grazing areas show an increase of 50,000 acres. The reduction in plough lands has continued, the acreage returned this year being 10,111,000 acres, or 199,000 fewer than in 1927, while land laid down to permanent grass shows an increase of 113,000 acres.

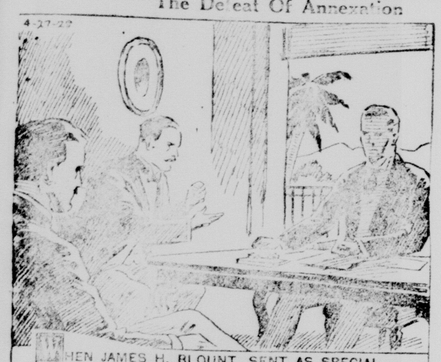
The Story Of The Hawaiian Islands
The Defeat Of Annexation



WHEN JAMES H. BLOUNT, SENT AS SPECIAL COMMISSIONER BY PRESIDENT CLEVELAND TO INVESTIGATE THE SITUATION IN HAWAII, REACHED HONOLULU, HE AT ONCE ORDERED THE AMERICAN FLAG LOWERED FROM THE HAWAIIAN GOVERNMENT BUILDINGS. HE THEN PROCEEDED TO GATHER EVIDENCE ON THE RECENT REVOLUTION, HEARING FROM BOTH FACTIONS.

IN JULY, 1893, BLOUNT REPORTED TO PRESIDENT CLEVELAND THAT THE SUCCESS OF THE REVOLUTION HAD BEEN LARGELY DUE TO THE PLANNING OF THE AMERICAN MINISTER AT HONOLULU AND THE PRESENCE OF THE UNITED STATES MARINES, WHICH INTIMIDATED ALL OPPONENTS OF THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT.

CLEVELAND BELIEVED THAT UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES WE SHOULD WITHDRAW OUR CLAIM TO SUPREMACY IN HAWAII, AND APOLOGIZE TO QUEEN LILIUOKALANI. THIS BEING DONE, HE PROPOSED THAT WE SHOULD RESTORE THE QUEEN TO THE THRONE BY FORCE, BUT LILIUOKALANI DISPLAYED A DESIRE TO REVENGE HERSELF UPON HER ENEMIES IF SHE REGAINED HER POWER, AND CONGRESS WOULD NOT ACT UPON THE PRESIDENT'S SUGGESTION.

IN MAY, 1894, CONGRESS PASSED A "HANDS OFF" RESOLUTION, REFUSING TO INTERFERE FURTHER IN HAWAII. LILIUOKALANI FAILED TO REGAIN HER THRONE, AND A REPUBLIC WAS ESTABLISHED IN THE ISLANDS WHICH PRESIDENT CLEVELAND WAS OBLIGED TO RECOGNIZE. THE HAWAIIAN REPUBLIC CONTINUED IN AUTHORITY UNTIL 1898.

TOMORROW—THE ANNEXATION OF HAWAII.

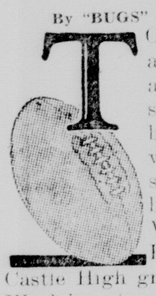
New Castle-Washington Ready For Grid Game

Unbeaten Teams Clash Saturday In Washington

New Castle High Team Faces Biggest Battle Of Year On Tomorrow

BOTH COACHES ARE CONFIDENT

By "BUGS" WALTHER.



TOMORROW afternoon the attention of the scholastic football realm of western Pennsylvania will be trained on Washington, Pa., where New Castle High grid team meets Washington High. Both teams are undefeated and rate highly as possible W. P. I. A. L. champions.

New Castle High school football team, with as fine a squad as ever represented the local institution, goes to Washington to do battle with one of the greatest grid teams to ever represent the "Little Presidents". The football populace of both cities will lend support to the setting. It is estimated that about 10,000 will view the game tomorrow afternoon.

Locals Depart Today

Early this morning Coach Bridenbaugh and his husky warriors, accompanied by Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner, Assistant Coaches Klee and Thomas and Student Manager Eddie Smith, boarded the Pennsylvania train bound for Washington. Upon the arrival in the home city of Washington and Jefferson College the New Castle team took up headquarters at the George Washington hotel. A practice session at College Field was on the schedule this afternoon.

The New Castle team finished their training sessions at home on Thursday afternoon with a stiff workout. The rough edges of several new trick plays were smoothed off and Coach Bridenbaugh is now satisfied that his squad is ready for a gruelling contest. DiCarbo and Alexander, the injured members of the team, will make the trip to Washington, but whether or not they will see service in the game is only problematical.

Both Teams Strong

The New Castle backfield for tomorrow will contain Sillman, McAuley, Fernati, DiCarbo, McIntosh and Harper. Of course, only four of them can start the game, but it is a safe bet that the entire set will see action, with the possible exception of DiCarbo. The forward wall will be made up of Ostrosky, Cuba, Howley, Ciccone, Mooney, Alexander and Craft.

New Castle High has already defeated Grove City, Meadville, Bellevue, Schenley and Westinghouse, and hopes to add Washington High to the string. Washington holds victories over Trinity, Monongahela, Duquesne and Coraopolis.

There is little to choose from between the two teams. A prediction as to the ultimate winner Saturday is foolish business. The game will be fought between two very good grid machines. "Breaks", injuries and such can decide the outcome, other than the actual playing of the game.

The highest hurdle standing in front of New Castle's path to the 1928 championship must be jumped Saturday.

Twenty-four Players.

The following New Castle high gridders boarded the 10:25 o'clock Pennsylvania train this morning for Washington:—Harper, Ostrosky, Cuba, Howley, Ciccone, Mooney, Alexander, Craft, Sillman, McAuley, Fernati, Shaffer, McIntosh, DiCarbo, Dinsmore, Hoose, Smith, Deep, Beres, DiThomas, Art Alexander, Waggoner, Dufford, Bender.

The New Castle team held a drill in the rain on Thursday afternoon and the squad had plenty of opportunity to get used to handling a wet ball.

May Play In Rain.

The weather today indicated that possibly the game at Washington tomorrow afternoon may be played on a muddy field and under heavy rain. The Washington team will just about match the locals for weight, thus making it anybody's game on a sloppy field.

Coach Bridenbaugh would not hazard a starting lineup for, the matter resting with the condition of a few of his regulars. DiCarbo, Alexander and Mooney are suffering slight injuries. Should DiCarbo be unable to start the game Saturday it was announced that either Shaffer or McIntosh would get the defensive halfback post. McAuley and Fernati will alternate at the other halfback job, with Sillman and Harper the only two certain fixtures.

Temple Basketball Players To Meet

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the Temple Israel basketball team will hold an important meeting at the Zieve home. It is asked that all players from last year's team attend this session.

The meeting tonight will be for the purpose of electing new officers and taking up plans for the coming floor season.

Change Time For Caravan Leaving

Those Going By Auto In Caravan Kindly Note Change In Meeting Place

The New Castle automobile caravan parade to Washington, Pa., on Saturday morning will leave New Castle at 10 o'clock or shortly afterward, said Bernard N. Hanlon, of the New Castle Motor club association today.

The New Castle delegation will meet on Falls street near The Castleton. The change in meeting place from the Diamond and North Jefferson street is made due to the heavy traffic of Saturday morning.

All those going to join the caravan tomorrow kindly note the changes that have been made. It is planned to pull out for Washington not later than 10:15 o'clock.

Three state patrolmen have been assigned to the New Castle caravan. One to blaze the trail, and the other two to lead the procession.

High Grid Team To Have Support At Washington, Pa.

Special Train And Auto Caravan To Carry Thousands To Washington, Pa.

When New Castle High School football team stalks out on the Washington field Saturday to battle the powerful Washington High gridders, they will not lack real support from the New Castle fans.

A special train over the Pennsylvania railroad will carry several hundred. The train is due to leave New Castle at 10 o'clock and arrive in Washington at about 12:30 o'clock. The return to New Castle will be made late Saturday night, following a dance in honor of the New Castle students at the George Washington hotel.

The automobile caravan will carry many to Washington. The start from New Castle will be made around 10 or 10:15 o'clock and will be headed by a motorcycle escort. The auto caravan hopes to reach Washington in time to take part in the New Castle parade when the special train arrives.

Reports from Washington show that the citizens of the College town are sparing nothing to extend real courtesy and hospitality to the New Castle contingent.

McLarnin To Fight In New Division

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—"Baby Face" Jimmy McLarnin, hard hitting lightweight, is no longer seeking Sammy Mandell's lightweight crown and will do his future boxing in the junior welterweight division.

"Pop" Foster, McLarnin's manager, is quoted as having stated that his 21-year-old boxer has become too heavy for the lightweight class. The news leaked out through McLarnin's acceptance of a match with Tommy Grogan, of Omaha, at Detroit, on Nov. 30 on condition that he be allowed to come in at 137 pounds, two pounds above the lightweight limit.

Traders-Bessemer To Battle Saturday At Ben Franklin Field

Trade School Eleven On Edge For First Game On New Castle Field

Bessemer Team Is Strong And Favored To Defeat Brown Coached Eleven

New Castle Trade school football team and Bessemer high will clash Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Franklin high field. The game is a homecoming for the Traders.

The strong Bessemer high team is a slight favorite to defeat the Traders tomorrow afternoon, due to the fact that they have defeated some very fine teams this year, including Hickory high of Hickory township, Mercer county. The Bessemer team is looking for another victory here on the "morrow".

Coach Brown has given the Traders plenty of hard work this week in preparation for the game. A long drill last night in the rain gave the players a chance to get used to a wet slippery ball. The team scrimmaged for about an hour.

Majocha is Hurt.

"Pat" Majocha, halfback, suffered an injury in scrimmage yesterday that may keep him out of the game tomorrow. DiMuccio has been showing a lot of football in practice and may start the Bessemer game. In the sessions yesterday DiMuccio carried the ball 40 yards for a touchdown. "Tex" Richards is another halfback possibility for the Traders. "Tex" is a veteran of the team and has proven himself a real find at grabbing forward passes. The passing combination of DiMuccio to Richards will cause the Bessemer team a few worries.

Ciccone, brother of "Bennie", the New Castle high center this year, is the fullback, and the way he has ripped the reserve team to pieces in the training sessions bodes ill for the Bessemer team. Cover is the likely starting quarterback for the Traders. Cover has filled the bill as signal barker quite well and deserves the starting position.

Line is Strong.

Ed Flynn and Walter Shook, veteran linemen at the Trade school, give the line imposing strength. Flynn and Shook will hold down the tackle jobs Saturday. Henzel, the youthful guard, is working well with his teammate Lennox. Dudek and Clements are the two ends and they will be much in evidence tomorrow. Both Dudek and Clements are good men on the receiving end of forward passes. Leonelli will play center and his work so far this year has been of a sterling nature.

Allegheny Team Ready To Battle Crimson Eleven

Allegheny Hopes To Defeat Grove City Team In Game Saturday

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 26. — Allegheny College football team was put through its final scrimmage before the Grove City game Thursday. The entire practice was devoted to defensive work against the plays that Grove City is expected to use next Saturday.

All of the available varsity players took part in this scrimmage Coach Merritt informed the team Monday that the starting lineup for Saturday's game would be determined by the showing of the players during the week. The competition for the privilege of starting against Grove City has been very keen and it is impossible to state who will be selected by the Allegheny Mentor.

The comparison of the Grove City and Allegheny teams show little difference in size and ability. Both schools have strong lines and classy back fields. With McKay back in the Allegheny lineup at quarterback, the local school will have available for the first time since the Westminster game all of its regular backs, consisting of Garbarck, fullback; Berger, left halfback; L. H. Verano, halfback; and McKay, quarterback. Grove City will probably start the following quartet in the backfield, quarterback, Paterkini; L. H. Kammer; right halfback, R. H. Day; and fullback, Shupe.

Pitt-Tech Struggle Slated For Saturday

Margin Of Victory May Be Slight For Championship Of City

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26.—A record crowd for Western Pennsylvania football is promised when Pitt meets Carnegie Tech in the Panther bowl Saturday.

Coach Sutherland of the Panthers is giving his men no let up in preparation for the impending clash which involves the city championship and perhaps the national title. Carnegie Tech is undefeated, and should they come through the the tussle with the Panthers, they may reign national champions after the remaining games with Georgetown, Notre Dame and New York University.

A weak aerial game which thus far has characterized the Panthers is improving rapidly. Coach Sutherland is drilling his backfield men on the forward pass, both offensive and defensive. Charlie Edwards, Pitt quarterback is getting his heaves in good shape and Williams, Uansa and Guarino are showing marked improvement in snaring the tosses.

The fighting spirit of the Panthers is expected to feature Saturday's game, which should be one of the hardest fought battles ever to be staged in the Pitt stadium. The point after touchdown may be the deciding margin, and Coach Sutherland is taking no chances.

COMMISSIONER TO ATTEND BOUT

Boyle To Bring Referee And Two Judges Here Monday Night

Havey J. Boyle, commissioner of boxing, will attend the Davies-McCoy bout. He will bring with him a referee and two judges to officiate. Boyle has attended bouts here but this is his first trip here in several months.

The Trojans' Leader By Feg Murray

Jess Hibbs, captain of the powerful University of Southern California eleven, earned nation-wide recognition last season as an all-American tackle, but this year, due to a strained back, was unable to play at his best against the Oregon Aggies and was kept out of the game against St. Mary's College. This is written just before the Southern California-California game, and with that contest Hibbs should come back into his own as leader of Coach Howard Jones's husky Trojans.

I saw "Big Jess" in action in four games last year, and he impressed me very much by his play against Stanford and Notre Dame. It was he who paved the way for many of Morley Drury's sensational runs, and on the defense, especially in the Stanford game, he was a whole team in himself. I remember vividly the way he came bouncing through the line to break up Pop Warner's pet reverse plays. Jess showed much football sense, the keen football insight that identifies a real linesman.

Hibbs does the punting for the Trojans, and is known as one of the best pigskin booters on the coast. To gain all-American recognition Hibbs had to compete with such giants as Lassman of New York University, Raskowski of Ohio State; Hake and Smith of Penn, Sprague and Perry of the Army, Kern of Pittsburgh, and Sprott of Texas A. and M.

Jess is the movie- hero type of warrior—handsome, magnetic, weighs over 200, and is fast, and, one might say rough and ready.

"Whatever became of the painted screen, showing a marble balustrade and sunken garden, that used to appear behind you when having your photograph taken?" asks the Detroit News. BULLDOG AND MULE CLASH ONCE MORE ON GRIDIRON

Growling furiously and hee-hawing with derision a fericious Bulldog of Yale and a tough Army Mule clash at New Haven, Conn., in one of the biggest games of the season Yale and Army are both unbeaten and are among the best teams in the east Coach Marvin Stevens and Captain Max Eddy will lead the Bulldogs against the Cadets, bossed by Coach Biff Jones and Captain Bud Sprague

Westminster Crippled For Game With Thiel

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26 A patched-up team will represent Westminster against Thiel here at the annual homecoming day tomorrow. Coach "Dike" Beede will be unable to use Lauder and Dible at the halfback posts, both men being badly bruised as a result of last Saturday's Grove City contest.

In place of these two star backs, Beede will start Paul Campbell, former Westinghouse high, Pittsburgh star; and Fred Palmer, freshman flash from Towanda. With these exception, the first team will line up against the Lutherans in the same array as the U. P. outfit that gave Grove City a tussle last week. Forsha and Tweedy will be at end; Captain Furno and Dombrowski at tackles; Fuller and Sweet at guards; and Boone at center. Havrilla will be at his usual place at fullback; and if McQuiston recovers from an injury received in the Grover game, he will start at quarter. However, Beede is grooming Holzapfel in the new set of plays at quarter, so the Blairsville boy may get the call.

With a preliminary high school game, a cross country meet, and the main game all scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, Westminster folks will be kept busy. A pep meeting tonight under the direction of Jack Hulme and head cheer leader Kenneth Dyer will be held in the gymnasium in preparation for the game tomorrow. Student body, townspeople, alumni, and members of the faculty believe that the Blue and White can win tomorrow's game and all plan to back the team to that end.

Thiel will send a large group of rooters to the game. They will occupy the north stands, directly across the field from the Westminster cheering section.

The preliminary game between Mercer and New Wilmington high school teams starts at 1:15. The cross country race between Thiel and Westminster will get under way at 1:45. The main game, between Thiel and Westminster, will start at 2:30.

College Town High Will Play Mercer

Meet In Preliminary To Westminster-Thiel Game On Saturday

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 26.—In a preliminary fray to the Westminster-Thiel football game, the New Wilmington high school eleven will play the Mercer high school gridders on the college field and will begin at 1:30 o'clock.

Much interest is evidenced in the secondary school game because of the fact that New Wilmington has not lost a game so far this season. Coach Kelly of Mercer, who is a former Westminster gridiron star, will have his team on edge to bring victory out of the preliminary home-coming day contest and Coach Olsen is anxious to guide the local team through a perfect season. The latter expects the hardest game of the season tomorrow.

With most of the college town players in good condition, the starting lineup will be as follows: C. Greer and Smith, ends; Lee and McConnell, tackles; Klumph and N. Greer, guards; Rose, center; Neal, quarterback; Patterson and Eagleson, halfbacks, and Davis, fullback.

Substitutes who may break into the lineup are: McCrumb, Eggett, L. Davis, Kennedy, Goff, and P. Greer.

No Love Lost Between

McCoy's Feat At Hollywood Rankles Davies

Wee Willie And Johnny

There'll be no quarter given or mercy asked Monday night when Wee Willie Davies and Johnny McCoy clash in a bout scheduled to go 10 rounds at Jolly Bowl. Davies is anxious to wipe out the stain that McCoy gave him at Hollywood, Calif., and Johnny is just as zealous to prove that his victory was no fluke and was deserved.

Davies is training with Young Saylor, Terry Columbo, Young Itovino and two or three other disciples of swat at Charleroi. The Irishman is training in Buffalo, and when they answer the bell in the enclosed Jolly Bowl Promoter Bill Jolly expects a crowd of several thousand to see the flyweight argument.

Davies has fought Carl Cavelli, Jose Allano, Luis Carpentero and Ernie Peters here. He has not failed to thrill men and women alike and if McCoy is as good as his boosters claim, the 10-round bout ought to be as classy a fistic entertainment as it is possible to see in these days—and, speaking of flyweights, there are some mighty classy boys.

Both Fight Schwartz

Both have met Izzy Schwartz. Davies beat him at Hollywood. McCoy lost the decision at Fort Bliss, but the referee after leaving the ring remarked: "It is tough to lose that kind of a decision", which is equivalent to saying that he did not take kindly to the judges' award. But those things happen everywhere, even here. No two people see every fight alike and on the whole most judges believe they are right.

Belmont Also on Card

McCoy has fought 200 fights. He has won 179 of the fights. He has lost six newspaper and five referee decisions. The others were no-decision fights. It has been so long since Davies has lost that fan remembereth not. McCoy is a better puncher than Davies, but Davies is more clever. If McCoy can get past the boy who makes 'em lead and miss he will be doing something few have ever accomplished.

Smallwood vs. St. John

Jimmie Belmont, the well-known disciple of knock-down and drag-out fame, is coming to fight George Peck, the railroad fireman, who holds the P. R. R. central region middleweight title. That ought to be a socking affair. Chet Smallwood, the grinning southpaw, will stack up against Al St. John of Buffalo. Both will be six-round bouts. The latter brace fight at 130 pounds. There will be two four-round bouts.

According to word received from McCoy he will arrive late Sunday night. Davies will motor here Monday. They will repair to the Leslie House and weigh in at three o'clock Monday. The stipulated weight is 114 pounds.

PUNTS AND PASSES

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26. — Hoping to grab the Tri-State conference football title by defeating Geneva tomorrow at Beaver Falls, Duquesne University will go into battle with all but two men in good condition. Burns, end, is still limping from injuries received two weeks ago; and Kelleher, guard, has some bruises, but both are expected to play if necessary.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 26. — Primed for what is hailed the classic of Western Pennsylvania football this season, Pitt and Tech elevens finished up their preparation today for the game tomorrow. Judge Walter P. Steffen, Tech's advisory coach has commuted from Chicago and this afternoon will supervise practice of the Tartans. With 45,000 seats already assured of being filled, the largest crowd of the season in this district probably will see the game.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 26. — The Wash-Jeff football squad was to arrive in New York today in time for a short practice session preparatory to their game with Fordham tomorrow. Wash-Jeff, before leaving here last night, reported that several of its regulars were in bad shape and that "Jap" Douds, star lineman and back, would not get into the game at all.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 26.—Allegheny college football team went through its final drill today, practicing the formations and defensive tactics which it hopes will stop Grove City when the two meet here tomorrow.

Conference Title At Stake Saturday

Geneva And Duquesne In Titular Struggle At Beaver Falls Saturday

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 26.—The championship of the Tri-State-Conference will be decided Saturday when Geneva and Duquesne University tangle at Reeves Stadium, Beaver Falls, Pa.

For the first time in years the Dukes enter the fray with an even chance to win. They have defeats of 56-0 and 20-0 for the past two years to rankle their hearts and spur them on. Geneva has roosted at the top of the conference ever since its inception and this is about the most determined effort yet made to dislodge her.

Geneva has a new coach, Mac Flenniken, after having lost the famous Bo McMillin and several of the Covenanters' best men have dropped out through graduation. The Dukes have Elmer Layden and a two year old team for their part. Geneva has the holding of Bucknell and the 28-0 defeat of Thiel to boost her as the winner. The Dukes bring a clean slate in four games and a 12-6 victory over W. & J.

Six Church Teams Form New Bowling League At Y. M. C. A.

Bowling League For City Churches Will Begin November 1

Representatives of six churches met Thursday evening at the local Y. M. C. A. and the result of this meeting was the formation of a church bowling league, which has been organized along the same plan as the baseball league of the summer months.

The six churches which have joined the league and who will start practices immediately are the Mahoning M. E., Central Christian, First Christian, Central Presbyterian, Croton M. E. and Temple Israel.

The teams expect to start the actual schedule of games to be played on November 1, states Walter Kirker, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., and present director of the league.

Tuesday night, October 30, the Central Presbyterians and the Croton M. E. team will play an exhibition game which will not be a part of the regular schedule.

Church attendance, states Mr. Kirker, in the new bowling league will follow the same plan as used in the summer baseball league. All players must keep their percentage of church attendance up to par to participate in the series.

Another meeting of the league will take place prior to the opening of the league season November 1, and at that time officers will be elected and the complete schedule of games and rules formed and announced.

Mr. Kirker states that any other churches who wish to join the league should send their representatives to him previous to the beginning of the games November 1.

Grove City Points For Allegheny Game

High Spot In Crimson Schedule Comes Saturday At Meadville

GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 26.—Grove City's squad of football men is ready for the high spot of the Crimson season which comes tomorrow, when Allegheny is host to the Berrymen at Meadville. The result of the contest will carry with it the success or failure of the season for both schools.

Enthusiasm at Grove City is not confined to the gridiron, when Coach Berry has been sending his men through the most strenuous drills of the campaign, but the entire student body is on edge for the game. A monster pep meeting was scheduled today and it is expected that many undergraduates will make the pilgrimage to Meadville tomorrow.

Berry has instilled a fighting spirit into the Crimson gridders this week. He has convinced the gridders that their best will be needed to defeat the Allegheny Bear, which has shown plenty of power in the present campaign. Particularly, he has stressed a defense against a passing game, at which Allegheny is reported to excell.

Grove City failed to uncover a thing against Westminster last week, depending on straight football to win. The Crimson will need more than that if a victory is gained at Meadville. Against Westminster, the line performed brilliantly, but Allegheny has a fast and powerful set of backs who are expected to cause trouble. Coach Berry has overlooked nothing in preparing for Grove City's biggest game, and will send a determined team on the field.

Grove City holds an advantage of two victories in the 35 years the teams have met on the gridiron, having 17 tilts and getting three ties. The Crimson has scored 442 points against 265 for Allegheny. The record indicates the close rivalry which comes to a peak each year during the foot fall season, and with the Meadville eleven showing exceptional power this year, the contest looms as a Class B classis.

In defending the economy of the present administration there appears to be considerable waste of words.—The Springfield, Ohio Daily News.

Plenty Of Fine Football Games On Tap Saturday

Football Leaders In All Parts Of Country Will Show Wares Tomorrow

UNBEATEN TEAMS WILL FACE TESTS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Intercollegiate football, the champagne cocktail of the sport racket, will be strangely quiescent tomorrow in two of the major sections, the Pacific Coast and the South, and that, of course, isn't a nice way to get, as the man who was run over by a steam roller will testify. They say he became terribly quiescent almost immediately. Anyhow, if the day is to be something of a beer cocktail in the south and on the coast, it will froth and fizz and bubble so busily at New Haven, Iowa City and Lincoln, Nebr., that no one will be conscious of the slightest discrepency. I was right the first time. No one will be conscious.

Minnesota and Iowa will lock hangnails at Iowa City and the championship of the Big Ten very easily might ride with the outcome. At Lincoln, they are matching the arch-rivals, Nebraska and Missouri, and the 1928 champion of the Big Six is almost certain to emerge from this one. At New Haven, the Army and Yale will have at it on the off chance that one or the other may become the big una, meaning one in our country. Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, New York University, Princeton, Cornell, Carnegie Tech, Georgetown, Lafayette and Bucknell still are clamoring for the right to be hailed the big one of the east but many seem to think that the distinction untilmately will fall to either Yale or the Army.

Many Crucial Games.

This particular field, as a matter of fact, should be considerably depleted tomorrow, as another eastern elimination will be put on in the Princeton-Cornell game, while N. Y. U., Carnegie Tech and Pennsylvania are taking on a lot of competitive dynamite. Pennsylvania naturally thought it was scheduling a live one in the navy and, at that, it would do well to have a care lest it guess wrong twice on this thing. The Navy might lose all self-control and score another touchdown. Anyhow, even a sub-normal Navy team is defeated only after you post the final score. N. Y. U., also unbeaten, gets its first 1928 test from Colgate and, of course, Pittsburgh will fight Carnegie Tech and vice versa until somethings drops and this might be both of them.

Other undefeated easterners who will know they have been playing football will be Dartmouth against Harvard and Lafayette against West Virginia. The Penn State-Syracuse affair once was very hot but has been allowed to congeal. Fordham naturally draws no blank in W. and J. but Georgetown either will beat Duke by several touchdowns or it isn't the team it purports to be.

Minnesota Vs. Iowa.

Barring the focal points at New Haven and Lincoln, much of the action revolves around the western conference, in which everybody will go for an airing for the first time this year. The big moment will be furnished by the power houses, Minnesota and Iowa, with much depending upon the former's physical condition.

Neither team has blown one yet and, to a man on a limb, the thing looks like a stand off, although the Gophers seem to think the Chicago game took something out of them. What they took out of Chicago will be demonstrated in the latter's meeting with Purdue. Two other conference leaders, Ohio State and Illinois, also will take on quite a bill of goods in Indiana and Northwestern respectively, while a third pace-maker, Wisconsin, draws Michigan and maybe its breath. And maybe not. It is difficult to conceive a Michigan team that loses every time out.

As for Missouri and Nebraska, I am wondering whether any team has the right to expect that it will go into Lincoln and beat an outfit like Nebraska every time. Missouri is supposed to be the berries this year. Maybe the Huskers will decide they like their berries crushed. I think Yale will beat the Army for various reasons, most of them being that I regard Yale as the better football team.

Georgia Vs. Tulane.

Neither the south nor the coast will be entirely passive, of course. There will be no particular inertia, for example, in the Oregon Aggies-Washington game nor in the meeting between Georgia and Tulane. However, both sections have furnished much of the action of the last several weeks and are due for a breather. At that, this is the thing California won't get against the Olympic club. They say victory of defeat doesn't count in a game with the club team. They mean the result doesn't count if you lose.

Tulane will furnish Georgia with a line on its great rival, Tech. Also with enough competition to last thru the afternoon. Tech likewise draws a tough one in North Carolina while Vanderbilt has no particular illusions about Virginia. The Rice-Texas and Tennessee-W. and L. games are not exactly formalities, either, but one must concede that Alabama, Stanford, Southern California and Washington State figure to draw breathers with Sewanee, Fresno, Occidental and Idaho respectively.

However, the meeting between Oregon Aggies and Washington is anybody's ball game. So is that between Marquette and Holy Cross. It mightn't be a second class idea, either, to bet on Notre Dame for a come back against Drake.

Nagurski Versus McLain—What A Battle!

By JACK SORDS
Sports Cartoonist-Writer for Central Press and New Castle News

Break that bucking broncho, boy!

Throw that Redskin for a 10-yard loss!

Those were the assignments passed to Mayes McLain, the charging Cherokee Indian fullback of the Iowa eleven and to Bronko Nagurski, the powerful Pole of Minnesota, as the two schools prepped for their clash at Iowa City, Ia.

Seldom before have the two outstanding stars in a Big Ten grid year met so early in the season as this collision between these two rambling wreckers from rival schools and states.

McLain was a sensation against the the Chicago Maroons; Nagurski all but crushed the Purdue pigskinners from Indiana. But those games were earlier in the season and since then both Iowa and Minnesota have added strength and experience.

McLain has made Iowans forget the great deeds of Gordon Locke and Aubrey Devine; Nagurski is hailed by Minnesota as the worthy successor of the marvelous Herb Joesting.

What a struggle of Titans, this Minnesota-Iowa affair! Viking against Hawkeye, Nagurski against McLain!

MADRID, Oct. 26.—Mario Bernaldo de Quiros is Spain's first woman flier. After training for several weeks, she took her airplane up for a solo flight and came down and made a perfect landing in the field near Madrid.

Up to the present time, women in Spain have shown little interest in aviation, but it is believed that a feminine flying club will now be organized. Spanish women organized one of the first women's clubs in Europe and have brought it to a high degree of perfection.

Thousands Attend State Homecoming

Grid Battle With Syracuse Is Feature Of Ninth Annual Affair

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 26. — Over 7,000 alumni and former students of The Pennsylvania State College today started to pour into this little college town, where Saturday, the ninth annual homecoming of Penn State grads will be observed.

This afternoon at one o'clock, the annual alumni golf tournament was started on the new college 18 hole course. At six o'clock this evening, the Varsity Club dinner will take place at the Center Hills country club, and at seven o'clock a giant student and alumni mass meeting will take place in the Charles Schwab auditorium, after which open house will be held by fraternities and women's campus clubs.

The real activities, however, get under way Saturday morning at nine o'clock, which each school will give exhibits of the work done at their various groups of buildings. At ten o'clock the Nittany booters will meet the Syracuse soccer team, and at 10:30, the Lion and Orange harriers will vie for the title. At noon, a luncheon will take place at the armory.

Although they are favored to win from Penn State by a large margin, yet Syracuse will have to put up a stiff battle if they expect to avenge the drubbing they received last year from the Lions, when they meet Saturday afternoon on the gridiron. After the game, reunions will take place at the various fraternities, and at eight o'clock, there will be an old fashioned Penn State cider party at the armory, which will be addressed by President Ralph Dorn Hetzel. Chapel services Sunday morning will conclude the homecoming.

Grid Team Seeks To Arrange Games

The Colored Stars football team would like to book grid games with all first-class teams.

The Stars are a junior outfit. It is desired to play the Senior High class teams. The Stars recently won a forfeit game from the Cascade All-Stars when they failed to appear at a regular scheduled contest. For games with the Colored Stars get in touch with Tom Farrow by calling 2189R.

WILD WAVES OF THE IRISH "C"—BUT NO STORM

These seven huskies of the Notre Dame football squad have one thing in common. All have names which begin with C. Irish football followers hope these lads kick up a little storm with the aid of Niemic, Shea, Miller and the rest before the season end, though to date Notre Dame has been rather becalmed.

N. Y. STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Disregarding entirely the new "peak" in brokers' loans as revealed in last night's reported $107,900,000 increase in speculative borrowings, the stock market forged ahead to a higher level of prices today as the influx of buying demand fairly swept Wall street off its feet.

Responding to the record-breaking earnings reports of the General Motors Corporation, Bethlehem Steel Corporation, etc., released after the close of yesterday's market, traders swarmed into the big financial district ready to purchase their favorite stocks. The preference was again shown for the oils and the coppers.

Kennecott Copper jumped 6 points to 122 in the lead o fthe red metal shares. Greene Cananea, Anaconda, American Smelting and Chile sold higher. Marland was the favorite in the independent oils, with a rise to a new high above 44 in heavy trading. Sinclair and Pan American were unable to gain. Jordan continued its spectacular up rush in the low-priced motor group, advancing to around 18 for a gain of 6 points on the movement. Radio, Western Union, Sears Roebuck and other high priced specialties were in their best form, rising enthusiastically in a heavy turnover.

The call loan rate opened at 7 ½ per cent.

Longworth Says Hoover To Carry New York State

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house, in his first visit here since the presidential campaign swung into "high", predicted today that Herbert Hoover will carry all of the Eastern states with the possible exception of Massachusetts, which he considered doubtful.

"I am confident the Hoover-Curtis ticket will capture New York state," Longworth said before boarding a train for Milwaukee where he speaks tonight. "I made a bet to that effect yesterday," he said.

Tobacco Firm Is Looted By Thugs In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26—Six bandits robbed the Liggett & Myers Tobacco company's warehouse here of $20,000 worth of tobacco and cigarets after binding and gagging Thomas McMahon, 57-year-old watchman, and John Stern, fireman.

It took several hours for the group to loot the plant and they threatened both victims with death unless they complied with their requests. The robbers drove away with two of the firm's trucks loaded with the contents of the warehouse.

Campaign Expense Account Is Filed

Republicans Have Expended $2,123,894.64 And Received $2,261,506.93

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26—The Republican national committee has received $2,261,506.93 and expended $2,123,894.64 thus far in the campaign, J. R. Nutt, treasurer, reported today to the clerk of the house.

There have been 57,217 contributions to the campaign.

Between Oct. 1 and Oct. 24, the committee collected $1,516,053.42 and paid out $1,162,965.50.

As of Oct. 24, the balance on hand was $137,811.29.

Acting as agent for the state Republican committee, Nutt has received since the beginning of the campaign $1,049,641.79, which has been returned to the states as collected. This sum went to the states as their share of the joint solicitations made for state and national campaign purposes.

In addition to the expenses paid out for the national campaign, Nutt said he has collected and paid to the committees of several states the sum of $500,431.48. The sum of $329,500 has been turned over to senatorial and congressional committees, he stated.

The eternal triangle is like any other. It has three sides, and only one is on the level.
